

Beeware of Bees

STANDING BESIDE A SIGN recently erected in the alfalfa seed area are Carl L. Hill (on left) and Tony Miyasako. This marker is located on Mendiola road west of Adrian; however, there are several in the vicinity of the seed fields. The signs are being erected in an effort to keep motorists from killing the valuable pollinators and to keep windshields from getting plastered with the insects. It has been determined that the bees have their natural routes as they cross the roads from field to field or from fields to their alkali beds.

Hoffman, Bloodhound Assist in Searching For Elderly Women

Glenn Hoffman and his bloodhound were summoned last Thursday to aid in the search for Mrs. Priscilla Allen, 60, of Kuna who had been missing since Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Allen had told a son with whom she lived that she was going to gather some water cress in the Mora canal. Hoffman said his dog went into brush near the canal three times and wanted to swim the water. The search was then concentrated in and near the canal with skin divers aiding in the search.

Mrs. Allen's body was found Thursday afternoon in the Waldvogel canal which is a branch of the Mora canal on the Harry Reininger farm southeast of Nampa.

The following Saturday evening, Hoffman and his dog went to La Grande to help search for a 78-year-old lady from California who had been picking huckleberries on Mt. Emily with her two daughters.

Her body was found Sunday morning by her son-in-law, Dave L. Rose, who was just ahead of the dog. According to a medical examiner, death was caused by a stroke.

Numerous Rams Sold at Auction; Prices Consistent

Rams totaling 262 were sold at the third annual Treasure Valley Invitational Ram sale held at the Malheur county fairgrounds last Friday. Harry Sandquist, county extension agent, said the average price received for the entire consignment was $89.69 per head.

Suffolks represented the largest consignment and the 211 head of this breed averaged $92.37. Ten Targhees led all breeds with an average $122 per head. Fourteen Rambouillets brought $92.86 and eight yearling Columbia range rams averaged $64.38, with two studs averaging $122.50 per head.

Five Panamas consigned by the University of Idaho brought $75 each. Four Corriedales averaged $35 and eight Hampshires averaged $26.88.

Cunningham Sheep company of Pendleton paid the highest price for Suffolk range rams when they purchased a pen of five yearlings consigned by Rodney Warfield of Cambridge, Idaho, for $155. A Columbia stud consigned by Benny Koch of Rockford, Wash., brought $160, and Marvin Norris of Goldendale, Wash., received $150 for a suffolk stud.

According to most observers, prices as a whole were consistent in line with quality and demand of the different breeds.

Nyssa Youth Leaves To Take Training For Antarctic Position

There is some evidence that the Antarctic is actually a treasure house of fabulous riches. Explorers have brought back evidence that deposits of oil, coal, copper, silver, molybdenum, iron, gold and even uranium lie beneath the age-old ice.

Applicants are carefully selected on the basis of high technical skill and adventurous spirit. Polar assignments can justly be rated among the toughest government positions anywhere as hardships and long hours are inevitable. Tolerance, cooperation and good sportsmanship become of extraordinary significance when the winter darkness sets in.

Bases Buried Beneath Snow
The keynote of living conditions in the Antarctic is best described with the word "isolation." The prefabricated buildings at some of the stations are located on the ice cover and are connected by tunnels, a necessity since some of the bases are usually completely buried beneath drifted snow. Living and working quarters, although not large, are adequate.

Meals are well prepared by experienced cooks and the variety is above average. A number of recreational facilities are available and a doctor is assigned to each station. For the most part, toilet articles, candy, cigarettes, stationery, photographic supplies and other items are available on station.

Upon leaving Nyssa, Stephen did not know at which post he will be stationed. Approximate temperature ranges are from 35 degrees Fahrenheit to minus 40 at the coastal posts and zero degrees to minus 110 at the inland bases.

All-Stars Settle For Second Place In State Contest

The Ontario Elks Little league All-Stars missed being state champions by one run in a game played against Riverside Sunday at Portland.

The valley lads had previously won two tournament games to reach the finals. During the first contest they defeated the Klamath Falls nine in bi-district eliminations with a final score of 6-5.

Tualatin Little leaguers were their next challengers and the local lads posted a 5-2 victory during this contest.

Sunday's championship game against Riverside turned out to be a real thriller, ending with a 2-1 count. A Riverside lad scored in the first inning. Ontario retaliated in the second as Greg Hunsaker made it to first on a fielder's choice and scored on a double by Bill Jarboe.

Both teams, from then on, would have runners on base, only to have the inning end before anyone could score.

It was in the bottom half of the final inning that Riverside's catcher stepped up to bat. After previously grounding out and striking out, he hit the ball right out of the park for a home run and final counter in the game.

TREATED AT HOSPITAL

Wendal Horn of route 1, Fruitland, was treated Aug. 6 at Malheur Memorial hospital for lacerations of the right leg sustained while operating a power sander. He was released following treatment.

LEAVE ON FISHING TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bowers of the Arcadia community left Sunday for Depoe Bay where they plan to go deep sea fishing.

Among this area's Little leaguers selected for all-star play was Gary Berg, son of Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Berg of Nyssa. Representing the Adrian area were Grant Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Patterson, and Pud Franks, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Franks.

Dean Steinke of Vale was also one of the lads making the trip to Portland. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Darel Steinke. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Weeks and Mrs. Verda Steinke of Nyssa.
