Annual 'Krazy Day' Set for Sept. 21 With Plans Being Made for More Fun, Additional Prizes, Greater Bargains

Journal Will Again Publish Special Edition With Mailing Blanketing Entire Trade Area

Nyssa's annual Krazy Day has been set for Saturday, Sept. 21. Preliminary plans were formulated last Thursday by the Merchants' Promotion committee, Reed Ray, chairman, with details to be ironed out today.

Ray and his committee expect the event to be bigger and better than ever with more merchants participating, more prizes being offered by individual merchants and considerably more people in crazy dress acting "looney."

Senior Citizens Group Proposed For Nyssa Area

Mrs. John Long has been requested to organize a Senior Citizens' club in Nyssa and has asked the Journal's cooperation in publicizing certain data concerning such an organization.

Interested residents (over 60 years of age) are requested to contact Mrs. Long by dialing 372-3106 to learn the details and express their ideas and opinions.

An organizational meeting will be held within the next two weeks, Mrs. Long stated, depending on interest shown and desires of those planning to participate.

Prove Popular in Area Towns

There will be no membership dues for the weekly gatherings. The organizer said that Senior Citizens' clubs have been proven to be very popular in a number of valley towns.

Among activities will be games, hobby work, old-fashioned singing and other projects which may be deemed feasible. Each senior citizen attending will be asked to furnish his or her own lunch, but drinks will be provided.

City Manager Art Colby has told Mrs. Long that he will cooperate in every way possible. Announcement of time and place of the organizational meeting will be made in the near future and officers will be elected at that time, she concluded.

Merchants will again offer a big variety of wares at unbelievably low prices for this one day.

Crazy Breakfast Planned

The Nyssa Jaycees plan to start the festivities with another Crazy breakfast in the old Taylor Super Market building (with menu to be announced later). There will be music, parades and the dog show will be reactivated with many classes for entries and prizes for all.

The Journal will again publish a special edition for the event with mailings covering the entire trade area. The section covering the Crazy ads will be printed on colored paper and worded as K-R-A-Z-Y as merchants care to make them. Each Journal copy will carry a number which may entitle the holder to a valuable prize if it matches the number posted in a local store.

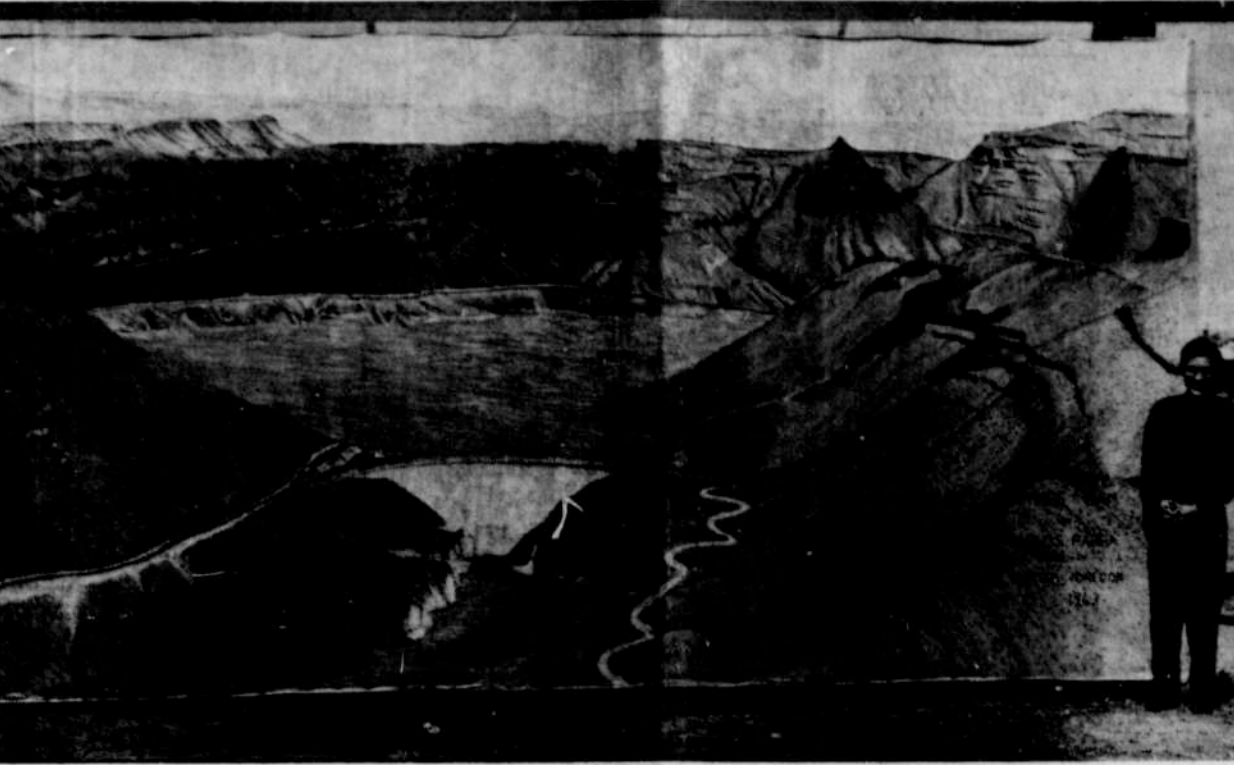

All merchants who plan ads are asked to get them prepared as soon as possible after they are contacted by the Merchants' Promotion committee.

Also plan your Crazy garb, plan to attend, have fun and check the ridiculous prices offered by the merchants.

ATTEND SPECIAL WORKSHOP

Mrs. Anna Long and Mrs. Mary Thompson, Adrian elementary school teachers, attended a special reading workshop last week in Portland.

Local Artist Displays Work at State Fair

THIS 18 x 10-FOOT PAINTING of Owyhee dam and reservoir was done by Carlos Parra (in right foreground) Nyssa's 17-year-old artist. The painting is being used as a backdrop in the Malheur county booth at the State fair which ends today in Salem. The young artist did the picture in semi-gloss oils on canvas. Materials were furnished and Carlos did the painting for the county. Plans are that it will hang in the courthouse at Vale when it is returned from Salem. The youth started work on the picture July 20 and it was complete with his signature on Sept. 24. Carlos received all first place awards on his three pictures entered this year at the Malheur county fair. They were gold-key award winning creations done in oil, pastels and water color. The young Nysson will also enter some of his work, as he has done annually, in the Sept. 14-15 art festival to be held in Boise.

Police Chief Reminds Area Drivers Of School Zone Speed Restrictions

Nyssa drivers are reminded by R. W. Love, Nyssa police chief, that speed must be reduced in school zones with classes now resumed.

Oregon law requires drivers to drop to 20 miles an hour when passing a school building, grounds or school crossing during recess or while children are going to or leaving school. Exceeding that speed is prima facie evidence of violating the state's speed law.

The first few weeks of school are always particularly hazardous, Love stated, because drivers have grown accustomed to maintaining normal speeds in school zones during the summer and children may be less alert to danger in the excitement of getting back to school.

Plan Safety Patrol Program

The Nyssa Police department in cooperation with the grade school will again conduct an award program for the School Safety Patrol

Drivers Attempting to Flee Police Face Serious Charge Under New Law

Drivers who attempt to outrun police officers will find themselves facing serious trouble under a new law which took effect Sept. 2, according to a release from the Oregon Department of Motor Vehicles.

As a result of instances where a fleeing driver greatly endangered lives of innocent persons, the recent legislature made the act of attempting to flee an officer a separate offense. In the past, such behavior was usually prosecuted as reckless driving which calls for a minimum penalty, upon first conviction, of not more than 90 days in jail or not more than $500 fine, or both.

Under the new law, the offending driver could also be charged with and tried for the offense of attempting to flee an officer. Conviction for this charge carries a penalty of not more than six months in jail, or not more than $2,000 fine, or both.

Conviction also calls for a mandatory 90-day driver license suspension on first conviction. Any subsequent conviction results in longer suspension periods.

The law specifies that the police officer must be in appropriate uniform and be operating an appropriately marked police vehicle at the time. It also makes certain actions—interfering with or endangering the operation of any police vehicle, increasing speed or turning out car lights—prima facie evidence of violation of the new law.

The Malheur county fair was considered another big success by the officials in charge. Entries were heavy, attendance was good and all were blessed with good weather until the closing day after most of the judging was over.

Fifty-seven lambs brought an average of $41.36 per cwt., which was approximately $23 higher than market price. What was thought to be a new high in Treasure Valley was paid for the champion when Henry Zobell bid $3 per pound for Amalgamated Sugar company, Nyssa, for the 100-pound champion entered by Van Schulthies of Nyssa.

The reserve champion lamb, weighing 94 pounds and consigned by Kathy Erstrom of Vale, brought 60 cents per pound from Ideal Gas and Appliance, Nyssa.

New Design in Girl Scout Program To Begin Next Week for Area Troops

One of the busiest weeks in the history of the Girl Scout organization will start Monday for more than 103 Girl Scouts of Nyssa, according to Mrs. Morgan Beck of Ontario, president of the Oregon Trail Girl Scout council. The reason is the "new design" in the Girl Scout program.

Next week will mark the first meetings of Girl Scout troops in four age levels. New Girl Scout handbooks, developed to correspond to the new age levels, will go on sale for the first time.

While the age range for girl members remains 7 through 17, Girl Scout troops are beginning to operate in four age levels: Brownie Girl Scouts (7 and 8 years), Junior Girl Scouts (9, 10, 11 years), Cadette Girl Scouts (12, 13, 14 years), Senior Girl Scouts (15, 16, 17 years).

This is in contrast to three age levels—Brownies, Intermediates, Seniors—which were formerly the basis of Girl Scout troop organization.

Commenting on the new age levels, Mrs. Beck explained, "Girls are growing up faster today than they did when Girl Scouting started. These new age groupings make it possible for Girl Scout troop activities to correspond more closely than ever

Lady Bowlers Have Until September 30 To Enter Tournament

Entries close Sept. 30 for the Woman's State Bowling tournament to be held in Bend, according to Mrs. Willis Bertram, second vice president of the state organization. The competition will open Nov. 1 and continue as long as necessary to schedule all bowlers, Mrs. Bertram said.

Entry forms are available at the Sugar Bowl.

Correspond With Needs, Interests

Commenting on the new age levels, Mrs. Beck explained, "Girls are growing up faster today than they did when Girl Scouting started. These new age groupings make it possible for Girl Scout troop activities to correspond more closely than ever
