'Take Care of NHS for Us'

(From the Nyssa High Bulldog)

The remaining days of school are numbered. The countdown has begun. Everyone is counting the weeks, days and hours left until the school year of 1963-64 is ended.

We are eager to graduate, yet we hate to say goodbye to our friends. You, the undergraduates, can help make our last days at NHS memorable ones.

REMEMBER our good points . . . not our bad.

EXCUSE our thoughtlessness and forgetfulness. We are involved in planning of our future.

MAKE this year's Junior-Senior Prom the very best yet. It is the only formal dance this year and we are really looking forward to it.

ENCOURAGE us in our plans and dreams for the future. For the first time, we're really responsible for our lives and it can be frightening.

MEASURE up to our expectations. We want to be sure we're leaving NHS in good hands.

BE LOYAL to our school and our teams. Believe we have the best and make everyone else think so too.

EXCITE interest in all school activities. Let everyone know what's going on and make it sound like fun.

REALIZE the importance of an education. Glorify NHS with your scholastic accomplishment.

USE, NOT ABUSE, your privileges. Privileges which are abused are often taken away.

SET HIGH GOALS for your remaining years at Nyssa High and work hard to meet them. Make faculty members, your parents, the town and us proud of NHS!

507 North Seventh Nyssa, Oregon May 18, 1964

Dear Mr. Brammer Editor:

Friday evening's concert by the Nyssa school music department showed a great deal of careful preparation and a considerable accomplishment by the several hundred young musicians participating.

BUT . . . it was extremely difficult to enjoy. Of the many concerts I have attended, the behavior of our Nyssa audience was the poorest I have ever observed. A constant stream of people walked in and out, not just between numbers, but also while students were performing.

Children were allowed to play on the PE apparatus, scuffle and pull the cords holding the loud speaker system. Where were their parents?

More important, where were our concert manners and common consideration for those performing?

Respectfully, PATRICIA P. SKEEN

FORCED FEEDING

News Note: The U.S. Department of Agriculture "prescribed" a water system for Hermitage, a senior citizens home for Wheatland and a community center for Urbana even though the Missouri towns already had those facilities.

Nation's Cattle Producers and Feeders Ask for Cutback in Imports of Beef

Approximately 1 1/4 billion pounds (carcass weight) of beef and veal were imported into the United States in 1963. This is 20 percent more than in 1962 and 360 percent over 1956.

This was the equivalent of more than 2,916,000 carcasses of 600 pounds each and is equal to six weeks' capacity of all the federally inspected cattle slaughtering establishments in the country.

Cattle producers and feeders are asking with ever louder voices when the federal government is going to assert its constitutional authority "to regulate commerce with foreign nations" in the matter of excessive beef imports.

Largest Producer, Importer

The summer issue of Farm Quarterly magazine notes that the U.S. is today the world's largest producer of beef, the world's largest importer of beef and the only major beef market without any quantitative restrictions and with only a very nominal fixed import duty.

Exactly how much imports have affected the domestic price structure for cattle is very hard to determine. Many market men are saying that the imports have depressed prices $1 to $3 per hundred.

The USDA's Jan. 1 inventory of livestock and poultry showed that the 106,488,000 head of cattle in the country Jan. 1 this year were estimated at a total value of only $13,545 million compared to the $14,743 million valuation placed on only 103,736,000 head a year earlier.

Compete With U.S. Product

The U.S. is now receiving over 51 percent of the beef moving in world trade. The greatest part coming from Australia and New Zealand where beef can be produced cheaply, shipped 8000 miles, pick up our three cents per pound duty, still compete with the American product and return a profit to the Aussies and New Zealanders.

Cattlemen are not asking for the exclusion of all beef and veal imports. They do believe they have every right to demand that this country be protected from becoming a dumping ground for foreign producers. They feel they are on more solid ground in asking for import controls which are clearly enunciated in the Constitution, than in seeking domestic support programs and subsidies.

Quick Action Not Likely

Prospects for any quick action on import controls seem remote. Congress is currently occupied with a large assortment of other matters which take precedence over beef imports.

The Farm Quarterly editor found that most observers agree that quotas are far preferable to tariffs as a direct means of limiting imports. All the proposals now before congress have been drawn along this line.

The big differences are over such matters as whether canned, cured and cooked meats should be included in the quotas, how large the quotas should be and what adjustment or growth factors should be included for regulating imports in the future.

Cattle producers are insisting that in whatever form the final piece of legislation is passed, the quota should be based on a period extending far enough into the past to counteract the influence of the unduly high figures for 1962 and 1963; that canned, cured and cooked meats be included; and that the growth factor be based on parity, or some other standard, and not left to the discretion of the secretary of agriculture, as has been proposed in some bills.

ROCKHOUND'S LAMENT

Sing a song of field trips, And bags full of rocks, Get blisters on your heels, And holes in your socks, Then when the trip is over Everyone will sing— "Walked 40 miles, got poison oak, And never found a thing!"

(This verse appeared on a postal card mailed to members of the Snake River Gem club by Oscar W. Gourley, secretary, and was submitted to the Journal by Ole Dyrland.)

Church Group Hears Recorded Lectures By Dr. G. B. Crane

The final recording will be heard tomorrow in the church parlor and all interested persons are invited to attend.

The society will sponsor a rummage sale June 5-6 in the church social hall.

Members of the Fulton and Lenora circles rotated and new names, officers and committee members will be selected during June meetings.

Mrs. Evan Tobler led the pledge service, "The Sea of Giving." The worship setting suggested the sea with a cross in the center.

Mrs. C. A. Wernick installed new officers for the year and as each lady was accepted, she responded with an appropriate scripture verse.

Mrs. Cyrus Bock, Mrs. Jeff Ford and Mrs. Cees Hopman served as hostesses during the Thursday session.
