When Is It Dead?

There's an old adage that "Nothing is as dead as yesterday's newspaper."

It is not true and never has been. It sounds cute, has a twist and has lived through the years. But to the person who has not read the weekly, it remains alive, sometimes for weeks until it has been read.

Unlike radio and television, one does not have to be at a particular place at a certain time to get the message - it does not leave the room with the speed of sound or sight - it may lay in the room for days or weeks and be new to some member of the family.

Watch the weekly in your home. The whole family doesn't need to be present at one time to enjoy it. Dozens of things may delay one's reading of it. Mom may be answering the phone when the mailman brings it - Sis may be studying - Bud may be practicing ball or Dad may be attending a meeting . . . but it is waiting—brand new until each member of the family who desires to do

We have always been proud of the fact that people who get our paper pay for it - we know how many subscribers we have and where they live. No radio or tv station can give you this same information - turn on your car or home radio — start at the left side of your dial and turning slowly see how many stations you can get before you have reached the right side.

In a rural area such as ours you can get one each quarter inch without turning up the volume. (There are at least seven within a 50-mile radius.) So when any one station tries to make you believe that everyone within hearing distance listens to a particular station—and keeps it on most of the day where they can get your advertising message - it just isn't so!

And were it true, how many of the listeners are within your trade territory that might become your customers? The "saturation" program the ad men speak of just won't hold water!

Where's Our Pride?

What has happened to Nyssa and the area's pride? For years we were leaders in donating blood for the mobile blood bank. We not only reached our quota while other cities and towns were falling below theirs, we frequently gave more. But two weeks ago when our quota had been reduced to 150 pints we gave only 85 - what

The need for blood for emergencies is greater than it has ever been, according to the American Association of Blood Banks. More accidents, more surgical operations and more disasters require blood. Yet only three percent of the total population donate blood regularly.

Authorities say that persons between the ages of 21 and 59, in good health, can give blood safely. And if anything happens that may require attention at the blood bank, you'll get it. The fact that the Red Cross workers may accompany the mobile unit almost every day does not make them hardened to your problem we learned this the hard way (through a member of the family needing attention) at the last visit of the unit

Quite a number of persons give their time and talent to enable those needing blood to get it when it is needed. It may take an hour of your time out of the field or away from your business but what about the life your blood might save - it could even be a member of your own family.

Let's remember this and get back to the top of the list and recover our pride when the mobile blood bank comes to Nyssa again - in about six months!

Church Delegates Express Appreciation For Nyssa Hospitality

Nyssa, Oregon August 18, 1964

The Gate City Journal:

A few weeks ago it was our privilege to serve as hosts for a meeting of the Tri-State Baptist Association of Washington, Oregon and Idaho. Approximately 50 members of that group of Christians met in Nyssa for business and worship in connection with the program of their denomination. The attached letter will attest to their appreciation of the hosiptality extended to them.

We, The Tri-State Baptist Association of Washington, Oregon and Idaho To: The Methodist Church,

Nyssa, Oregon The Rev. Ralph A. Lawrence, Pastor

And Friendship Baptist Church, Nyssa, Oregon The Rev. Alvon Griffin, Pastor

Dear Pastors and Members:

It is with our deepest gratitude that we extend to you our heartfelt thanks for the extreme hospitality shown us while here in your fine city. We have been made welcome to all the church facilities. The delegates appreciate the warm receptions in the homes. Truly nothing was left undone for our comfort.

We, the Tri-State, sincerely feel that the pastor and members of the Methodist church set an example of true Christian brotherhood and human relationship in this unfriendly world today. May God's richest blessing always be upon you.

Gratefully submitted,

On Sunday, Aug. 30, the members of the Nyssa congregation of the above group will hold a "Fifth Sunday" missionary meeting in our church. This will mark the final meeting of their congregation in our city, as the Rev. Alvon Griffin and his colleagues will be working hereafter in the Methodist church.

Property Owner's Liability Under Law

A popular misconception of law has it that everyone who is injured on another's property is entitled to recover all damages he may have sustained from the owner of that property.

Property owners themselves as well as those seeking recompense for injuries, often subscribe to this erroneous principle, and it is not at all uncommon for a home owner, discussing an injury at his Rev. F. A. Allen, Moderator home, to remark, albeit reluc-Rev. B. Wilkens, Secretary tantly, "Well, I guess I'm liablethe accident happened on my property."

This is NOT the law. The concept of "fault" is still essential to a recovery for damages in all but a few specialized fields of law and mere ownership of private property does not produce the necessary "fault" for recovery.

Toward his guests a home owncare for their safety, and, if they are injured, he has no obligation to make good their damages.

This rule is derived from the nature of the relationship between the host and his gueststhe host receiving no benefit from the visit except the pleasure of his guests' company; it would be unjust to place upon him the burden of protecting his guests from all injury.

As it was put by one judge, the visitor in a home takes his host as he is and for the purpose of and family of Gooding, the Rev. liability becomes a member of

A different rule applies to persons who come on one's property for the purpose of a business in which the owner is engaged. Toward these persons the owner owes the duty of "reasonable care" for their safety.

Thus one who operates a store is liable to his customers for injuries they sustain as a result of his negligence. He must do

Even where the owner of property would otherwise be liable for injuries to persons coming onto his property, the injured party cannot recover if he is also guilty of negligence which contributes to the injury.
