

Historical Book on Malheur County Heads List of Books at Nyssa Library

Now available for circulation at Nyssa library is a book of special interest to area residents, according to Mrs. Max Urry, city librarian. "Pioneer Days in Malheur County" by Jacob R. Gregg records many local historic facts. The reader will find a monumental work of research that has required the better part of a quarter of a century.

The book presents a running narrative that will be pleasant and informative reading and it offers a personal acquaintance with the rugged men and women who made the West great.

Other new volumes include the following:

Graduates of 1964 Enroll for Courses At Various Colleges

Many Nyssa high school class of 1964 graduates have registered at colleges and trade schools. The following is a list submitted to the Journal by Mrs. Harriet Brumbach, NHS librarian and counselor.

- Oregon State University
James Benedict, Ann Cleaver, Wayne Riggs and Gary Wilson.
- Eastern Oregon College
Cherie Okano and Frances Seuell.
- Brigham Young University
Colleen Christensen, Gail Flinders, Virginia Lewis, Sue Olsen and Brent Schulthies.
- Stevens-Henager
Berniel Schulthies and Sylvia Cleaver.
- Kinman Business University
Mary Kay English, Gloria Henderson and Norman Haney.
- Treasure Valley Community College
Leah Whipple, Clayton Hiatt, John Lytle, Mike Oft, Triena Rinehart, Michael McCrady, Mark Morton and Douglas Patterson.
- Hollywood Beauty School (Boise)
Delores Morris, Janice Burns.
- Others attending various colleges include Norman Palmer, George Fox college; Janelle Neiger, Salem Business college, Lynn Jackson, University of Portland; Christy Wyckoff, University of Oregon; Caroline Tensen, Oregon Technical institute; Stephen Henigson, Willamette university; Patricia Dority, Cinderella Beauty school, Bremerton; Karon Hust, Ogdan Beauty school.
- David Sherbert has entered the Air Force and is stationed at San Antonio, Texas.

ATTENDS EMMETT EVENTS

Miss Janice Richards was a Friday overnight guest of cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Storm and family, after attending the Nyssa Emmett football game. She was also a guest of the Emmett CYF at a "hot bread" party that evening in the home of Faye Conley. Miss Richards returned home Saturday evening with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Richards and Phyllis.

ATTENDS FUNERAL SERVICES

Mrs. Bill Wahlert attended funeral services last week for an aunt, Mrs. John O'Neil at Lakeview and also attended requiem mass for Father Michael Ahearne at Merrill, Ore.

"Flight of the Phoenix" by Elleston Trevor. They had been flying for about two hours over the desert when they ran into a blinding cloud, sand flung 30,000 feet into the sky. The wind tore the aerial out of its socket, but the pilot sent the navigator back to say everything was fine. But then the yellow of the windows went darker; the sand hit the panes like gravel, and the jets choked up!

"Oregon's Iron Dream" by Mary Goodall. This is the story of a town's early settlers and how they lived—of men who wanted something more than farming for young Oregon—of Quebec nuns who established their religious order in a wilderness—of horse-drawn cars, a canal dug by Chinese laborers, the white house and race track, the public bath and the famous Willamette meteorite.

"Scarpener" by Brendan Behan. Ireland's brilliant and outspoken bard laureate now turns his attention to the novel form and makes it his own. He deftly conjures up a cheerful, snarling tale about a jailbreak and an even more daring plot of switched identities.

"Backward Glance" by Edith Wharton. An autobiography that tells the story of a secure and happy childhood. Critical as she was of the standards of New York society, Mrs. Wharton was always grateful that she was not born in Boston.

"Call of the Canyon" by Zane Grey. This is the story of Glenn Killbourne and his fiancée, Carley Burch, who became caught up on the lure of the mountains and canyons of Arizona. In this vivid, fascinating land their love meets a strange test.

"Father to the Man" by Bentz Plagemann. This is a rare kind of novel; it presents life as most of us recognize it, not, for once, some outer-fringe nightmare. Funny, warming, searching—it is a work of wisdom, wit and affection.

"Children of Divorce" by J. Louise Despert, M.D. This famous doctor shows the reader how to help children through the crises and everyday problems of divorce.

"All About the Human Mind" by Robert M. Goldenson, Ph.D. This book tells how your personality develops; how your brain works; why you behave as you do.

"Over the Counter" by Sheila Turner. With insight and gentle humor, the author describes the colorful villagers and local activities with which Mary and Jim naturally become involved.

JUNIOR BOOKS

Junior books include four new True Books—"Birds," "Your Body and You," "Honeybees" and "Bacteria;" "Up and Away" by Miriam Young and "Rocks" by Dorothy Shuttlesworth.

"Helen Keller" by Anne and J. W. Tibble. At the age of seven, Helen Keller had been blind and deaf for five years. She was a wild, undisciplined child. In that year Anne Sullivan became part of Helen's life. Together they began an experiment which was to dominate the lives of both women and capture the attention of the world.

"Football for Boys" by Kuharich, head football coach at the University of Notre Dame.

"The Yellow Feather Mystery" by Franklin Dixon. The Hardy boys again have a mystery to solve.

Local FFA Unit Nets $560 From Slave Sale

The Nyssa chapter of Future Farmers of America held its third annual slave sale on Thursday evening, Sept. 17, with Roger Baker as auctioneer. Top price of $23 was paid for Stanley Sisson, FFA adviser, while the lowest paid was $5. A total of $560 was netted by the sale of slaves whose services were purchased by 34 local businessmen and individual buyers.

Members of the chapter have asked the Journal to express their appreciation to all who supported the project.

CHRIS WYCKOFF ENROLLS AT UNIVERSITY OF OREGON

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Wyckoff and Chris recently drove to Eugene where the latter enrolled as a freshman at the University of Oregon. His address is Adams Hall, Box 36, University of Oregon, Eugene.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff visited with John and Stella Young of Springfield, Ore. Many Nyssa residents will remember them as former Nyssa high school teachers.

Naval Officer Announces Application Deadline for NROTC Examinations

Vice Admiral B. J. Semmes, Jr., chief of naval personnel, announced recently that Dec. 12 has been designated as test date for the 19th annual national competitive Navy Reserve Officers Training corps examination. Parents and high school officials should remind eligible young high school seniors and graduates to submit applications before Nov. 20, 1964.

The regular NROTC program, which is designated to supplement career officer output of the U. S. Naval academy, offers an opportunity for young men to earn a regular commission while studying at one of the 52 NROTC colleges and universities chosen.

The navy furnishes tuition, fees and books, plus a retainer of $50 per month to the NROTC midshipmen. Each summer NROTC midshipmen go on interesting and rewarding training cruises to various parts of the world.

After completing a four-year college course and all requirements, an NROTC midshipman is commissioned as a regular officer in the U. S. Navy or Marine Corps and goes on active duty with the operating forces.

The program is open to male high school seniors and graduates who will have reached their 17th but not their 21st birthday anniversary on June 30, 1965. Those who make a qualifying score will be interviewed and given thorough medical examinations early in 1965.

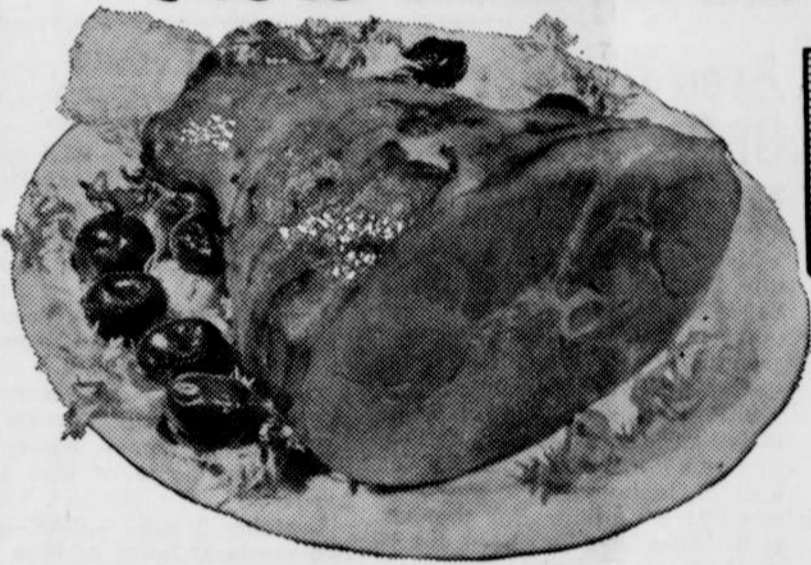

Approximately 2,000 young men from those remaining in competition will thus be selected to attend college next September to prepare for naval careers.

1965 NROTC bulletins of information and application forms are available at local high schools and Navy Recruiting stations or from the Chief of Naval Personnel, Department of the Navy, Washington, D.C.

RETURN HOME FROM TRIP
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walters returned Friday evening from a week's vacation trip to Reno, Nev., Northern California and along the Oregon coast. In Florence, Ore., they visited an uncle of Mrs. Walters.
