Colby Family Arrives In Thornton, Colorado

The following letter was received Wednesday afternoon from Art Colby, former Nyssa city manager who resigned Dec. 15 to take a similar position in Colorado.

Thornton, Colo.
Dec. 20, 1964

Ted Brammer
Gate City Journal
Nyssa, Oregon
Dear Ted:

Safe trip; all moved in. Arrived Sunday afternoon; went to work Monday morning. Council meeting Monday evening; many problems, too few solutions. Employees wonderful; all offering assistance. I know we'll like Thornton. Place me on the out-of-town subscription list. Let me know the cost and I'll send a check. Merry Christmas to you and your "boss" and employees.
Sincerely,
Art

Seat Belts Valuable

As a matter of fact, your chances of being killed in an auto accident are five times greater if you are thrown from your car. The Traffic Safety division of the Oregon Department of Motor Vehicles urges you: Wear your seat belt. Be sure your passengers buckle up, too.
