Rural Couple Entertains Friends With Rides on Horse-Drawn Sleigh

By Ruth Robbins

LINCOLN HEIGHTS — Amos Nofziger and his bobsled have been spreading joy as in shades of the past. With his team of horses, he pulls the sled on a mile run around the farm.

"Pork," as his friends know him, and his grandsons made the sled around Christmastime. Since then the snowy weather has cooperated and he and his wife have invited friends, both young and old, over for sleigh rides.

All seem to have found the sled a delight, but those who in days gone by have worked with horses particularly appreciate the Nofzigers' efforts. Mrs. Nofziger serves coffee, cocoa and popcorn balls at the end of each trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hager and Gary of Cascade, Idaho, were recent Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Atherton and Jerry.

Host Birthday Dinner

Research Roundup Planned at Pendleton

growth and carcass characteristics of different lambs, control of internal parasites and a discussion of least-cost fattening rations.

The swine section will deal with facilities, management and equipment for efficient manure removal, limited feeding, influence of size of pigs on performance and carcass merit, and prevention and treatment of postpartum infection in sows.

To Study Consumer Demands

Cecil Hellbush of Denver, head of the meats division for Safeway stores, will be principal speaker in the afternoon. He will tell stockmen what the consumer wants and how the livestock producer can best satisfy consumer demand.

Feed grain freight rate problems will be discussed by Jim Hill, manager of the Pendleton Grain Growers. Hill is also a member of the Oregon Feedstuffs Transportation committee.

The afternoon session will also provide an opportunity for a cow-calf operator, feeder, packer and retailer to present their views of the needs and future of the meat industry. Consumer preferences, meat merchandising and the problems of the producer, feeder, meat packer and chain-store merchant will be considered.

Hope for Annual Event

It is hoped, Miller said, that the Pendleton Research Roundup will become an annual event and do for Eastern Oregon producers what the annual livestock field days held on the OSU campus do for Western Oregon livestock men.

The research roundup will be co-sponsored by the OSU Agricultural Experiment station, Cooperative Extension service and producer organizations including the Oregon Cattlemen's association, Umatilla County Cattlemen's association, Union County Livestock association, Morrow County Livestock association and the Oregon Wool Growers association.
