Malheur Legislators Discuss Heavy Load of Bills Considered at Capitol

By STATE SENATOR ANTHONY YTURRI and REPRESENTATIVE ROBERT F. SMITH

The Oregon House of Representatives has commenced occasional afternoon meetings to accommodate the heavy load of bills before it for final consideration. The third reading calendar, that is, the bills coming before the House for final passage, has normally had less than 10 bills on it, but at least one day last week it had more than 30 bills on it.

Owyhee Resort Property Brings $42,100 at Auction

Albert L. Bogen of Caldwell was successful bidder for the Lake Owyhee Resort buildings and personal equipment during a government auction at the site last Thursday morning. The price paid was $42,100.

The sale was conducted by U. S. Marshal Eugene Hulett of the Eastern Oregon district to satisfy an unpaid judgment of $65,103 due the Small Business administration.

Only one other bidder, Dave Stoner of Ontario, showed an interest in the property and the sale only lasted a few minutes. Of the $42,100 total the real estate brought $35,000 and the personal property, including equipment, $7,100.

Ken McArthur, SBA attorney, said the corporation had the right of redemption for one year on the real estate since its 39-year lease had not expired. Guarantors of the loan must make up the $23,000 difference between the $65,000 and the selling price of $42,100.

Bogen, a retired cattleman and stockman, said he planned to reopen the facility under hired management in time for the coming fishing and tourist season.

Boys, ages nine through 15, are requested to take their birth certificates to the Friday evening session.

Jack Bowen, NHS athletic director, will be present and show the youth a film on baseball training.

Parents are welcome to attend the Friday evening meeting, Mason concluded.

TVCC Budget Election Slated April 6; Calls for Increase in Local Taxes

On Tuesday, April 6, voters of the Treasure Valley Community college district are being asked by the board of trustees to approve the 1965-66 college budget. This budget calls for $218,705, which represents the entire amount the college would receive from the local level.

The budget compares with the $147,010 raised by taxes for the current year, an increase of $71,695, most of which is budgeted for additional instructors to meet the needs of an increased student enrollment, due to the addition of a day program and care of the campus and the new buildings. $23,510 is included this year to cover anticipated uncollectable taxes.

In terms of taxes, the levy the

Proclamation:

"WHEREAS, April is designated as National Cancer Crusade month; and whereas, the efforts of the American Cancer society through its two million volunteer workers have resulted in notable advances in the early detection and control of cancer . . . I therefore proclaim April to be Cancer Crusade month in Nyssa."

(Signed)

GRANT RINEHART
Mayor of Nyssa

After signing the proclamation, Mayor Rinehart congratulated the many individuals in Nyssa who are lending active support to the fight against cancer through their membership in the Malheur county chapter of the American Cancer society.

Another part of the Republican Tax Reform program passed the House last week. This bill redefined the "head of household" to include individuals without spouses who have family responsibilities. It would permit them to benefit from the lower rates available to married persons who file joint income tax returns.

One of the major bills considered early this week was the "full-crew" law. Oregon's full-crew law, adopted in 1913, provides that freight trains of more than 40 cars, operating more than 15 miles out of a freight yard, must have a six-man crew.

Commissioner to Regulate

The bill, adopted by the Oregon House by a vote of 33-27, would repeal the controversial full-crew statutes on July 1, 1966. The measure also calls for the state public utility commissioner to prepare regulations on proper manning of freight trains to insure safety. The commissioner is directed to have the rules ready by Jan. 1, 1966.

Proponents of the bill pointed out that conditions in the railroad industry have changed significantly in the 52 years since the adoption of this law. They noted that trains are now operating by diesel and that all trains are equipped with automatic air brakes.

The automatic air brakes have eliminated the necessity of going from car to car and manually setting the brakes. Proponents also noted the results of two presidential study commissions which supported repeal of the full-crew law. Only four other states still have a law similar to Oregon's.

Convention Bill Defeated

Another measure that received lengthy floor debate would have changed the method of selection of Oregon's delegates to national party conventions and the national committee and committee woman. The bill, defeated on the House floor by a vote of 33-27, would also have made each state legislator a member of their respective party's state central committee.

Opponents of the measure argued that Oregon's delegates to

At one of the FFA sessions she served ice cream and milk. Linda and her chaperones were making the tour in search of candidates for a new dairy princess. She told a Journal reporter that there are already 13 young ladies in Malheur county interested in vying for the title. Mrs. Scotty Payne of Vale is chairman of this year's local dairy princess contest. Linda visited briefly at the Journal office and then went to the local dairy plant where this picture was snapped.—Journal Photo.

County Court Approves Part Payment Of Indigent Hospital Care; Buys Boat

The Malheur county court Wednesday approved part payment to Malheur Memorial and Holy Rosary hospitals of bills submitted for indigent care, for which they had been unable to collect. It also authorized purchase of a boat for use by the sheriff's office. Judge Ellis White said a check for $2,029 was made to Malheur Memorial as approximately 50 percent of the bills submitted as uncollectible since 1962 and $4,000 for Holy Rosary, representing about 44 percent of its total.

White said this money was from the liquor funds allotted to the county.

The boat to be purchased will cost $2,039, including all equipment for rescue work and patrol duty. White said it was a 16-foot fibreglas with 65-horsepower motor and a quick unloading trailer. It will be housed on the county shop grounds in Vale, when not in use, to be readily accessible for the sheriff's force and centrally located for use at Owyhee or Malheur lakes, Bully Creek reservoir or on the Snake river.

Source of funds for the boat was license money paid in to the state and refunded to the county.

Owyhee Riding Club Sponsors Annual Nyssa Nite Rodeo With Cooperation Of Local Groups; Scheduled July 9-10

Contracts Signed for Stock to Be Used, Announcer, Clowns and Arc-Way Carnival

The Owyhee Riding club will sponsor Nyssa's Annual Nite Rodeo again this year with the dates having been set for Friday and Saturday, July 9-10, according to information given the Nyssa Chamber of Commerce Wednesday by rodeo chairman "Tex" Morgan. He told the group that support of all the people of Nyssa was necessary if the rodeo was to be a success and continued in the ensuing years.

He asked for and got the support of the chamber which will have two members on the rodeo board as soon as appointment is made by chamber president Walt Ford. Ray Tarter has been appointed to represent the Jaycees.

The chairman said present plans call for depositing any surplus from rodeo income to a special account to be used in promoting a bigger and better show the following year. This, he said, would include ground improvements and bigger purses where practicable; also to have a reserve in case weather made one rodeo a losing affair.

Clowns From Caldwell

Spur Rowel Rodeo company of Twin Falls will furnish the stock to be used; "Curly" and Eddie Heath of Caldwell will be the clowns and Kenny Hanson of New Plymouth will announce. Arc-Way Shows of Wendell, Idaho, will bring a small carnival consisting of five or six rides and eight to 10 booths. Morgan said these had already been contracted.

Judge Jeff Dorroh Speaks at Nyssa Chamber Banquet

"Whiskey, sex and disrespect are the elements responsible for most cases that are heard in divorce and criminal courts," Circuit Judge Jeff D. Dorroh, Jr., told attendants at the Nyssa Chamber of Commerce annual banquet Tuesday night.

Dorroh said the statement was based on his experience on the bench for the last seven years. He stated all three were often evident in divorce cases and disrespect was always present in criminal court cases. In defining whiskey, he said it included all alcoholic beverages. Disrespect, as the judge used it, pertained to law and authority, while sex problems came about as a lack of knowledge and understanding.

Also covered by the speaker were dependent children with fathers who had been ordered by the court to provide certain funds for their support. He said failure to carry out these court orders made the man liable for contempt of court charges for which he could be jailed. Dorroh said there had been a 48 percent increase in circuit court cases in this district since 1955.

Preliminaries to Address

The Rev. John Bullock, pastor of the Nazarene church, gave the invocation; Walt Ford, chamber president, welcomed the members and guests, and W. L. McPartland acted as master of ceremonies.
