His office remained closed Friday through Sunday, and sure enough on Monday morning Lawrence was open for business.

A MESSAGE IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST

about repeal of the 1913 Excess Freight Train Crew Law being considered by the 1965 Legislature.

YOU KNOW OREGON IS BETTER!

We grow better food: beans, berries, grains, apples, pears, seeds — you name it. We harvest more trees for lumber, plywood, paper, etc. We make better products—nationally known and accepted brand names. And we have a more highly skilled work force.

So what can hold us back?

THE 1913 EXCESS FREIGHT TRAIN CREW LAW, THAT'S WHAT!

California repealed a similar old law last year, placing Oregon at a decided disadvantage in competing for markets and new industry.

The wasteful, costly, archaic 1913 Excess Crew Law forces Oregon railroads to carry unnecessary firemen and brakemen on freight trains. Most of what Oregon ships and consumes is carried by rail. The annual excess cost of $5,000,000 has a direct bearing on freight rates. Oregon producers and shippers have to carry this extra burden in competing with other states.

There's no longer any question of safety, and the railroad workers involved are guaranteed generous job protection. A bill to repeal the old crew law has passed the House of Representatives of the 1965 Oregon Legislature. It is now being considered by the Senate. If you care about helping to make Oregon competitive, let your Senators know about it. If you want more information, we'll gladly furnish it.
