Dahl Olsen Promoted To Cadet Lt. Colonel In BYU-ROTC Unit

Dahl Olsen, an Air Force ROTC cadet, has been promoted to the rank of cadet lieutenant colonel, as the result of an expansion, it was announced last week by Col. Paul H. Sharp, professor of aerospace studies at Brigham Young university in Provo, Utah.

The student is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. (Brig) Olsen of route 2, Nyssa. He will assume the position of operations officer for the newly formed 855th AFROTC Cadet wing. He had served as group operations officer for that wing since May this year.

The expansion was made possible by the enrollment of over 400 cadets this semester at BYU, an increase of nearly 100 percent over the previous semester, Col. Sharp stated.

Air Force ROTC will offer Cadet Lt. Col. Olsen a commission as an Air Force second lieutenant upon graduation in June 1966.

He is majoring in Asian studies and his training in that field will be of great value in his chosen career within the U. S. Air Force.

When Should a Farmer or Stockman Borrow MONEY?

When he needs equipment and materials to increase production and lower costs.
PCA—Production Credit Association—has the best answer. This non-profit organization, owned by farmers and stockmen, provides dependable, low cost financing to farmers and stockmen. With PCA loans

Capital improvement loan payments are spread over as long as 7 years. The investment pays for itself with increased profits.
Funds for operating expenses are budgeted for an entire year. You draw funds as they are needed.
Interest is charged only on money you actually use, and only for the time you use it. No interest on funds not used.
Your payments are credited first to principal, reducing the balance subject to interest, and lowering interest costs.

Why not drop by and learn how well PCA loans work for you? And get a free copy of the booklet, "Budgeting for Profit." No obligation, of course.
