Oregon Museum Advisory Council To Assist Farmers

terms on expiration of their first term.

Plan Two Annual Meetings

There will be two advisory council meetings each year. One will be held at Oregon Museum of Science and Industry and the other at a central location east of the mountains. At all other times the parent OMSI Agricultural Hall exhibits committee will receive and seek advice by correspondence.

McKinley stated that it will be a serious effort to provide a resource of qualified, highly knowledgeable individuals who are able to insure that OMSI's Agricultural hall will live up to the promises made for it.

"It was designed and is being built to help solve some of the serious problems facing agriculture in Oregon and with the help of the Agriculture Hall Advisory council, it will live up to that promise," the director concluded.

Farmers Declared Inflation Victims By Head of Malheur Farm Bureau

"The current effort to saddle farm prices with the responsibility for the inflationary trend in our economy is a smoke screen, designed to divert attention away from the real causes of inflation," according to Lou Wettstein, president of Malheur County Farm Bureau.

"Far from being the cause of inflation, farmers have been one of its chief victims," Wettstein said. "Farmers, the largest per capita consumers of the goods of industry for use in farm production, have been hit hard by rising prices of manufactured products. Farm costs hit an all-time high during the month ending April 15, 1966, while farm prices during the same period fell two percent and are now at 80 percent of parity."

Annual Deficit $8.2 Billion
"Deficit government spending is a major cause of inflation," Wettstein declared. "Government spending has risen from $76.5 billion in fiscal 1960 to an official estimate of $112.5 billion for fiscal 1967. The budget has been unbalanced since 1960, and the annual deficit has been as high as $8.2 billion."

"The government has long proclaimed that it wants to help farmers get a better income. Now that farm prices are strengthening, it just doesn't make sense for the government to move in and drive these prices down," Wettstein said.

"Recent efforts include dumping of government-held grain stocks on the market to break prices; an increase in the import quota for cheese to curb dairy prices; a 50 percent reduction in pork purchases by the Defense department, and a ban on butter purchases for the Army," the Farm Bureau president concluded.

Active pallbearers were Nick Rudelick, Tom Johnson, Eddie Taylor, Bob Thompson, Glen McGinnis and Jess Ditty.

Interment was made in Nyssa cemetery under direction of Lienskaemper funeral home.

Nyssa Chapel Rites Conducted Tuesday For Myrtle Blodgett

Final rites for Myrtle Jane Blodgett were conducted Tuesday morning, June 21, 1966, at Lienskaemper chapel with the Rev. Ralph A. Lawrence of Nyssa Methodist church as officiating minister.

Mrs. Blodgett succumbed suddenly of a heart ailment Saturday at Holy Rosary hospital in Ontario.

She was born in Nyssa Dec. 18, 1905, a daughter of Henry and Martha Ellen Fields. During her early womanhood, she was united in marriage to Lawrence Blodgett.

The deceased has been employed as cook at Brownie's cafe in Nyssa for approximately 11 years.

Survivors include one daughter, Ilene Field, and a grandson, Steven Field, both of Boise; one brother, Robert Fields of Hayward, Calif. Among surviving cousins is Mrs. Tom Johnson of Nyssa.

Mrs. Blodgett was preceded in death by her husband, parents and a brother, Richard, who died in infancy.

ARE NON-STICK PANS SAFE?
... We've answered that question before but we still get requests for this information.

At very high temperatures, well above heats used in cooking, these coatings give off fumes. If you used such a high temperature in cooking, your food would be burned to a crisp and the pan ruined.

So, you don't need to worry; the pans are safe for use in your kitchen.

Red Worms More Appetizing?

Why do fish bite more readily on red worms than worm-colored worms? Ask the fish. But they do. Dye worms with red brick dust spread over worm box or use artificial food coloring.

Front Hitch Helpful

Mount an easily removable trailer hitch on your front bumper when you have to ease a boat or travel trailer in or out of a tight spot. You'll be astonished how much easier it makes a tricky job.
