Your PCA Credit Helps You Get Needed Buildings for Your Farm or Ranch

With PCA financing you can have the buildings and other capital improvements you need. Here's why PCA loans work so well:

- You have as long as 7 years to repay capital improvement loans. The investment pays for itself with increased profits.
- Loans for operating funds are budgeted for an entire year. You draw on the funds as they are needed.
- You pay interest only on the money you actually use, and only for the time you use it. No interest for funds not used.
- Your payments are credited first to principal, reducing the balance subject to interest, and lowering total loan costs.

Let us tell you more about PCA loans, and give you a free copy of the booklet, "Budgeting for Profit." No obligation, of course.
