

Mid-Summer Event Honors Owyhee Area Couple on Golden Anniversary

A July 24, 1966, reception at the Parma community hall honored Mr. and Mrs. Carl Callaham on their golden wedding anniversary. Hosting the event were the honorees' nine children.

Greeting guests were the couple's sons, including Jonas of McArthur, Calif.; Earl, Jordan Valley, Ore.; Ervin, Blackfoot, Idaho; Richard, McCall, Idaho; and Raymond of Hill Air Force Base in Utah.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Lee (Clara) Lovitt, the couple's daughter; and gifts were received and placed by granddaughters.

The serving table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked on either side with gold candles. The cake was served by other daughters, including Mrs. Wayne (Lela) Solomon of Grants Pass, Ore.; Mrs. William (Bette) Blenkinsop of McCall and Mrs. Ed (Sadie) Schultz of Parma.

Also assisting with refreshments were Opal, Jeanene, Mardelle, Mary and Olga Callaham, daughters-in-law of the honored couple.

Arrangements of white and yellow gladioli were furnished by Mrs. Solomon and a bouquet of tiger lilies was provided by Mrs. Mabel Houston.

Married in Nebraska

Carl and Julia Callaham were married July 25, 1916, at North Platte, Neb., where they resided until 1936 when they moved to Idaho. In 1938 they settled in the Parma-Wilder area and moved in 1958 to their present home at Owyhee junction.

In addition to the Callahams' nine children, they also have 32 grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Among out-of-state guests attending the anniversary celebration were those from California, Washington, Idaho and Nevada.

The honorees report the climax of the occasion came with the arrival of Myrtle Yanken from North Platte. She is a former school friend of Mrs. Callaham and the women had not seen each other for 35 years.

Kitchen Clutter Is October Topic For Area Extension Unit Meetings

"Do you ever look around your kitchen and wonder how you got it so cluttered just cooking a simple meal?" This question will be discussed at the various October meetings of area extension units.

Malheur county homemakers will have an opportunity to obtain ideas for improving their kitchens by attending one of these meetings with the lesson entitled "You vs. Clutter in the Kitchen."

According to Helen Dwelle, county extension agent, the lesson will include ideas for improving present kitchen storage as well as suggestions for women who are considering remodeling or building a new home.

"Many older kitchen cabinets have shelves so far apart that space is wasted. This can be easily corrected even in rented housing," Miss Dwelle says. Another problem is shelves which are too high or too low. These areas can be easily equipped with devices which make utensils and supplies easy to grasp.

Space Under Sink Wasted

Space under the sink is often wasted because of the location of water pipes. The lesson includes suggestions for ways to use this area. As every homemaker knows, drawers easily become jumbled unless suitable dividers are made for the small articles stored. Cabinet doors can be used to increase fingertip storage.

Most kitchens have electrical appliances such as blenders, mixers, fry pans, etc., which are problems to store. Some practical suggestions are included in the lesson for storing these items. Extension units throughout the county have monthly sessions, and the lessons extend knowledge from Oregon State university to homemakers throughout the area. All women are invited to attend meetings in their area and are urged to contact their unit chairman for information on location of the October sessions.

She says I gotta be washed and clean as

ABC COAL

Mom burns ABC Coa! in her automatic home heating system. She knows it is washed — not in a bath tub — but in a million-dollar washery that eliminates dust and unburnable waste.

Pure coal means big fuel economy. And nothing can match it for uniform heat and a clean, healthful home.
