Work Smarter . . . Not Harder

By BERNICE STRAWN, Extension Home Management Specialist

LIGHT FLOORS
SOMETIMES DISCOLOR

. . . and look patchy. One reason may be that self-polishing waxes wear and in ordinary mopping wash off unevenly. Then dark areas appear.

This is the time to strip off all old wax. Either get a special wax remover or make your own by adding 1/2 cup each of detergent and ammonia to a gallon of hot water. Mop a small section of the floor at a time, wipe up old wax and rinse as you go.

After all wax has been removed, let the floor dry completely before applying fresh self-polishing wax. Use the colorless type made for use on light floors.

EVER WATCH PEOPLE
LOAD A WASHER

. . . in a community laundry? Many times they just stuff it full. We can't blame them for wanting to get their quarter's worth, but they're really cheating themselves because the clothes don't come clean.

You can't rely entirely on the weight of clothes as a guide. For instance, eight pounds of sheer curtains means a jam-packed washer. But eight pounds of towels would loosely fill the tub.

Your best loading guide is your eye. Clothes should be put in loosely with plenty of room to move around. If they're crowded, soil can't shake loose or find room to float away from the garments.

FOAM RUBBER
IS QUITE FRAGILE

. . . reminds Mrs. Dorothy Brown, extension home furnishings specialist at OSU. She offers this timely tip in laundering sofa pillows.

Remove zip-off cover and launder or dry clean in accordance with type of fabric. Wash foam rubber filling by hand, gently squeeze warm suds through it. Rinse, press out water, then dry away from heat.

Be careful not to tear the rubber when you replace cover. It will slip in easier if you lightly sprinkle talcum powder on the exterior of the rubber. Don't use too much or it will ooze through the cover.

YOUNG HOMEMAKERS

. . . you probably recall your mother used ammonia for cleaning. As an alkali, it boosts cleaning power of detergents and other cleaners for some of the hardest jobs.

To cut grease on roasting, broiler and drip pans, soak them for 20 minutes in a strong solution—about 1 cup ammonia to a quart of water plus detergent. Keep your nose a safe distance away and don't use this on aluminum or the pans will darken.

If you have a stainless steel range top, pour ammonia straight from the bottle on a cloth and whisk the grease away fast.

For greasy grimy work clothes, add 1/2 cup ammonia to the wash water along with plenty of detergent.

"WHAT CAN WE DO
NOW, MOM?"

. . . Here's one answer to this old familiar question from Mrs. Roberta Frasier, extension home life specialist at OSU.

Carefully open small food packages such as cereal and instant pudding when needed, then reseal with cellophane tape. These, along with empty cans, jars and paper bags will stock a play store for children.

A toy phone, play money or cash register will happily put youngsters in business.
