

Dixie Lee Coburn, Ronald A. Barker Wed in Nyssa Christian Church Rites

Miss Dixie Lee Coburn became the bride of Ronald A. Barker during a ceremony performed Nov. 12, 1966, at the First Christian church in Nyssa.

Parents of the bride are Mrs. Fawn Luna of route 2, Nyssa, and Lewis Coburn of Oxford, Idaho. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Ernest Barker of the Nu Acres community, route 2, Parma.

In the presence of 200 guests, the double-ring rites were performed by the Rev. Wallace Prowell. Basket arrangements of large lavender and white chrysanthemums flanked the altar. Vocal selections were by Gary Clawson.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Read Gyllenskog, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of her own creation. It was fashioned with empire waistline, corded lace coat and chapel train. Her elbow-length veil was secured to a tiara of sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a corsage of small chrysanthemums, centered by a large white spider mum.

Miss Gaylene Griffin was maid of honor, while bridesmaids were Linda Madrid and Vicki Luna, the bride's sister. They wore identical floor-length lavender gowns, white gloves and carried bouquets of lavender mums.

Candlelighters were Karen Barker and Kenny Seward. Karma Barker, dressed in lavender, was flower girl and Kevin Barker served as ring bearer.

David W. Barker attended as best man, while ushers were Donny Barker and Vance Gardner.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Luna wore a suit of beige brocade, brown accessories and beige orchid corsage. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a lavender wool ensemble with matching corsage.

Jack Kelley and grandson, Lee of Covina, Calif., recently spent several days visiting in the S. P. Kelley home.

BUCKLE UP FOR SAFETY
... this holiday season, urges the Oregon Department of Motor Vehicles, for during December more fatal traffic accidents occur than during any other month. Statistics show safety belts are nothing to "Ho, ho, ho" about—serious and fatal injuries can be reduced by one-third if safety belts are used.

A reception was held in the church basement following the ceremony, with floral arrangements provided by Mrs. Lester Oden. A three-tier cake, trimmed with lavender roses, silver leaves, bells and swans, graced the refreshment table. It was topped with miniature newlyweds.

Assisting with serving, guest registration and care of gifts were Mmes. Leroy Seward, Ralph and Gerald Barker.

The new Mrs. Barker was graduated in 1966 from Nyssa high school and works at the A and W Root Beer drive-in and bus depot. Her husband is a 1961 graduate of Fruitland high school and farms near Nyssa.

After a wedding trip to Los Angeles, the newlyweds are now residents of the Nu Acres community.

Holiday Party Held In G. Stam Residence

Members of Oregon Trail Grange Home Economics club held their Christmas party Dec. 6 at the home of Mrs. Gerrit Stam. Seventeen members and two guests answered roll call by giving hints on "How to Please a Husband."

Chairman Orma Cleaver announced some changes in the canning contest. Plans were completed for the Grange Christmas party to be held this evening, Dec. 15. Turkey dinner will be served at 7:15, with gift exchange to follow.

Next HEC meeting will be Jan. 4, 1967, at the home of Orma Cleaver.

HOSTS PINOCHLE PARTY

Mrs. S. C. McConnell entertained with a Dec. 7 pinochle party in her home. High prize winner was Mrs. Wyatt Smith. Low award went to Mrs. Bill Schoen, with Mmes. Charles Zinn and C. A. Wernick receiving traveling prizes.

Students to Wed In Late January At LDS Temple

PAULA SAUNDERS ... To Wed Bill Jefferies

Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Saunders of Salt Lake City announce the engagement of their daughter, Paula, to William M. Jefferies, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Jefferies of Nyssa.

Miss Saunders is a graduate of Granite high school. After graduating from Nyssa high school, her fiance served a two-year mission in Australia for the LDS church.

They are now both studying at Brigham Young university in Provo, Utah.

A Jan. 25 wedding in the Salt Lake City temple is being planned by the betrothed couple.

DON'T LET THE YOUNGSTERS GET YOU DOWN

... during the holiday rush. Mrs. Roberta Frasier, OSU Extension family life specialist, offers a preventive hint.

Listen to the way you respond to the children. How do they have to act to get attention from you? Do you cause some of the trouble by the way you talk and act toward them?

Mrs. Frasier says mothers can save time and reduce tension by making an "I'll be glad to" response to demands the child makes of them. It will also be easier for a child to accept the necessary "not now's" if they don't come every time he asks something.

Work Smarter . . . Not Harder

A FEW CENTS SAVED HERE AND THERE

... can cut your weekly food bill anywhere from 10 to 15 percent, says Mrs. Velma Seat, extension food marketing specialist at Oregon State university. Try it and see.

Take breads and cereals as a starter. As you shop, remember that bread is less expensive than rolls. Day-old bread, when available, is even cheaper. Hot cereals cost less than ready-to-eat varieties. Unsweetened cereals are less costly than sugared.

Whole grain, enriched or fortified cereal products usually are less expensive (and more nutritious) than fancy crackers and special breads. Figure the cost and then decide which is best for your family.

TO POLISH BRASS, BRONZE OR COPPER

... candlesticks, andirons or ornaments, the old-fashioned combination of vinegar and salt, plus elbow grease, still holds. However, don't expect miracles in cleaning blackened ends of brass fireplace tools.

Commercial metal polishes work fine, a metal lacquer used on the clean polished metal will retard future discoloration.

The easiest way to restore a brass-colored fireplace screen tarnished from heat, is to take it outside and spray with a metallic paint.

CAN YOU CUT FOOD COSTS

... with a contract food plan? OSU Extension food marketing specialists suggest that you ask these questions if you are approached about such a method.

Does the plan call for purchase of a freezer? If so, how does the cost of the freezer compare with one purchased at a local store? Is there a membership fee? Add this to the cost of foods to be purchased.

Is the purchaser required to sign a contract for food purchases of a specified amount or at certain intervals? If so, the prospective buyer will want to determine from past buying experience whether the amount and kinds of food offered fit the family needs.

What quality of food is offered in the plan? Is it what the family likes and will eat? If meats are part of the plan, are grades and cuts the ones that suit your needs? Or will some cuts be pushed back in the freezer until quality deteriorates?

Will the family have to go into debt to enter into a contract for a food plan? If so, will there be interest charges? At what rate? Will this cancel out anticipated savings?

Generally speaking, cash and carry is the most economical way to buy. Watching the newspaper ads and buying "specials" can save from 6 to 10 percent on your grocery bill, according to extension experts.
