Nine-year-old Alaska Native Visits Mainland

DOROTHY JEAN GRAFF
Angie Cook's Great-Granddaughter

Nine-year-old Dorothy Jean Graff, great-granddaughter of Nyssa Mrs. Angie Cook, is on her first trip to the mainland, and in addition to visiting many points of interest, saw and rode a horse for the first time.

Dorothy Jean is a daughter of Jerry and Jone Marie Davis Graff of Anchorage, Alaska and is a native of that state. She is the oldest of three children, and has two younger sisters, Brenda Kay and Debra Lee.

The young lady came from Alaska with her grandmother, Mrs. Walter (Dorothy Cook) Davis, who since arriving on the mainland has had a throat operation and other major surgery in San Francisco.

Upon arriving at the Seattle airport, the Alaska pair was met by Angie Cook's niece, Edge Poorman. She was planning a trip to Pennsylvania to visit relatives, and invited Dorothy Jean to go with her.

The travelers visited many places of interest between Seattle and Pennsylvania, including the various state capital buildings. They even took a swim in Lake Superior. They remained in the east for three weeks and enroute home spent two days in Yellowstone park and visited the Idaho capital building in Boise before coming to Nyssa where they spent a day with Mrs. Cook.

The latter's son, Jimmy Cook, met them here and took Mrs. Poorman, Dorothy Jean and his mother to his residence in Sweet Home, Ore., where they spent a week. It was there that the nine-year-old Miss took her first horseback ride.

The Jimmy Cook family and their visitors then visited the Oregon capital building in Salem and traveled on to Portland. Angie Cook had become ill, so boarded a train for Nyssa, arriving home on July 23. The others went on to Seattle.

There they rode the monorail, visited Angie's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Poorman. They also visited the space needle and other points of interest.

Dorothy Jean will leave Seattle next week by plane, bound for her home in Alaska. She will travel alone, as her grandmother, Mrs. Davis, will remain under a doctor's care in San Francisco.

She is reported to be recovering nicely from her recent operations, and plans to return to Anchorage early in October. She and her husband, Walter, have purchased a residence in Sacramento and will return in the spring to make their home there.

Dairy Wives Slate Meeting

Malheur county dairy wives will hold a meeting at 1:30 p.m., Monday, August 7, in the Lions park at Ontario. Plans will be made for operating a dairy bar at the County fair. All interested women are invited to attend.

LPN Students To Receive Certificates

Licensed practical nurse students at Treasure Valley Community college will receive their certificates in a graduation ceremony Wednesday, August 9 at 8:00 p.m. in the Weese building on campus.

Doctor Thomas Watts, Jr., president of Holy Rosary medical staff, will deliver the commencement address.

Mrs. Marion Golin will provide music selections. Mr. Joe Saito, vice chairman of the Treasure Valley Community college board of education will present certificates.

Instructors for the 19 girls in this 48 week course of intensive instruction are Mrs. Jane Mays, Mrs. Connie McClun, and Mrs. Jean Joyce.

Generous financial contributions covering books, fees, and tuition for all students in the program were provided by Malheur County Medical association, Holy Rosary hospital and Malheur Memorial hospital.

Both Tanaka Clinic and Ontario Clinic joined with Holy Rosary hospital and Malheur Memorial hospital in providing clinical facilities.

The graduation fete is sponsored by the Licensed Practical Nurse association, Area 20, and members will serve at the reception which follows.

ing nicely from her recent operations, and plans to return to Anchorage early in October. She and her husband, Walter, have purchased a residence in Sacramento and will return in the spring to make their home there.

Mrs. Cook said that her great-granddaughter, Dorothy Jean Graff, is quite small in stature, but is certainly adult in her thinking. She seems to be interested in everything and everybody. From all reports no one has ever had a better first-time visit to the mainland.
