

Jest Jokes

It was the occasion of a testimonial dinner for the town's leading citizen. 'Friends and neighbors,' he said, 'when I first came here forty-seven years ago, I came in no limousine. I walked into your town down a muddy dirt road. I had only one suit on my back, one pair of shoes on my feet, and all my earthly possessions wrapped in red handkerchiefs over my shoulder. Now, forty-seven years later, I am on the board of directors of your leading bank. I own apartment buildings and office buildings; I am on the board of your leading clubs; I own three concerns with branches in thirty-nine cities. Yes, friends, your town has been good to me, and I have walked a long way since I first walked down your muddy dirt road.' After the banquet, an awed youngster approached the great man and asked timidly: 'Tell me, sir, what did you have in the red handkerchief over your shoulder when you walked into our town forty-seven years ago?' 'Let me think, son. If I recall rightly, it was about $300,000 in cash and $750,000 in negotiable securities.'

The minister called on one of his members, an elderly woman who was quite deaf. When she expresses regret that she could not hear his sermons, he modestly and sympathetically said, 'Oh, you don't miss much.' She surprised him by replying, 'So they all tell me.'

'How many fish have you caught?' asked someone, seeing an old villager fishing on the banks of a stream.

'Well, sir,' replied the old fisherman thoughtfully. 'If I catch this one I'm after and two more, I'll have three.'

One of the super-superior seniors entered the professor's office one morning and remarked, 'Last night, professor, your daughter accepted my proposal of marriage. Fully realizing the importance of this step, and the many factors involved, I called to see you to inquire if there is any insanity in your family?'

The old professor surveyed the young man in silence, then sadly nodded his head in reply. 'Yes, yes--there must be!'

Little Johnny was in one of his very bad and disobedient moods. In answer to his mother's remonstrations that he behave himself, he said: 'Give me a nickel, and I'll be good.' 'Give you a nickel!' she scolded. 'Why, Johnny, you shouldn't be good for a nickel, you should be good for nothing--like your father.'

Eastern visitor in a western village: 'What a beautiful sunset!'

Native: 'Yeah, not bad at all for a little place like this.'

The psychiatrist was testing the mentality of his patient. 'Do you ever hear voices without being able to tell who is speaking or where the voices come from?' he asked.

'Yes, sir,' the patient replied. 'And when does this occur?'

questioned the doctor.

'When I answer the telephone.'
