Area Secretaries Hear Bank Program Discussed

Futura chapter's Program of the Year meeting was held Feb. 15 at the First National bank in Ontario, where Robert Kniefel, manager of the Payette office of Idaho First National spoke to the group on the subject, "Banking in Action."

Guests of the group included area bank managers and their secretaries. In the absence of Jim Leslie, manager, the Ontario First National Bank of Oregon's Assistant Cashier, Roy Sparks, Jr. served as host. Chapter co-chairmen for the event were Mrs. Dale Rainwater, Leslie's secretary and Mrs. Clarence E. Miller, secretary to Horace Beal of Beal Seed company.

Kniefel pointed out that banking is tied to development and growth of the nation. He mentioned ways in which banking has helped economic growth through sale of money and services. He also stated that during periods of lowered incomes, people can fall back on savings to maintain their standard of living.

He added that unemployment insurance benefits also serve as a stabilizer during periods of recession, while in peak periods of economy taxes and higher interest are means of controlling inflation.

Among services listed by Kniefel as functions of present day banking were loans made to college students, farmers and businessmen. Loans, he stated, makes it possible to put new land into production, increase factories and create jobs for more people to buy more goods and services. Kniefel pointed out that mortgages are actually a means of saving money because through payments made over a period of years the person eventually owns his own property.

Mrs. Gene Grasty, secretary to James Roberts, registrar at Treasure Valley Community college, spoke to the group about activities of The National Secretaries Association (International). Mrs. Grasty, a past president of Futura Chapter, is vice president of the Utah-Idaho division of NSA.

Refreshments were provided by the host bank, and the secretaries were given First National Bank of Oregon coffee mugs and pens as souvenirs. Note pads were presented as favors from the Ontario Branch of the U.S. National bank, which was represented by its Assistant Manager Miles Hutchins and his secretary, Mrs. Bill Yundt.
