

FOUR EDUCATORS from Central and Eastern Oregon visit with four Midshipmen from the same vicinity as they tour the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., during recent spring vacation. They were among a group of 32 Oregonians who visited the Academy as members of an educators' orientation tour. They are (from left) Midshipman Bruce Cole, Pendleton high graduate; Midshipman Michael Ward, McKenzie high graduate; Melvin L. Bates, vice principal of Stanfield high in Pendleton; Robert French, director of guidance for the intermediate education district, La Grande; Midshipman Roger James, graduate of Union high, Tom Cowan, principal of Redmond high; Midshipman Joe Carroll, graduate of Elgin high; and Charles Quinowski, guidance counselor of Nyssa

high school. The educators toured Washington, D. C., before returning to Oregon. In a letter of appreciation to LCDR R. W. Clark in Portland, upon his return to Nyssa, Quinowski stated: "You can rest assured that the message intended for this visit to the Academy will be gotten to the students of Nyssa high school. I am very excited about the program which the Academy offers, and I feel I have well in mind the caliber of individual that the Academy is seeking. Since returning to work, I have set up a special bulletin board display based on my trip to the Academy. Also, we have reproduced certain information designed for potential candidates which will be available in our high school resource center." - Official US Navy photo.

Dodder catch you napping in '67? Let Chloro IPC Herbicide protect your alfalfa seed yields.

Dodder is tricky. It sneaks up on alfalfa and gets a stranglehold. Once it's attached, you're too late.

Now is the time to protect your alfalfa seed yield and quality by controlling dodder with Chloro IPC. This selective herbicide has done a dependable, economical job in controlling dodder, annual grasses, and wild oats for years. It catches the dodder seedling during its most susceptible period —the ten to fourteen days between weed germination and attachment to the host alfalfa plant.

Get in touch with your local supplier for a complete dodder control program, including Chloro IPC Herbicide treatment and suggested timing for cultural practices to fight dodder through the year. Or write to PPG Industries, Inc., Chemical Division, 1500 N.E. Irving Street, Portland, Oregon 97232.
