

Jay-C-Ette scholarships are being presented to two NHS 1968 graduates. They are Marie Durfee (on left) and Kathy McGinley. Presenting the awards are Mrs. Stanley (Jackie) Sisson, Jay-C-Ette president and Mrs. Henry (Shirley) Mendazona, scholarship chairman. Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Durfee, received a $100 scholarship and plans to begin studying toward a nursing career at Ricks college in Rexburg, Idaho. Kathy's award is in the amount of $50. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McGinley and plans to enroll at the Northwest School of Business in Portland. The Jay-C-Ettes provided the scholarships with various fund-raising projects held throughout the year. - Journal photo.

prevented their being thrown against windows, handles and knobs that become dangerous weapons in a crash," reported Howard Eddy, executive secretary of the commission.

Most of the 29 fatalities resulted when the driver lost control, causing the car to leave the road and crash into an embankment or a fixed object, such as a telephone pole or bridge abutment.

"If a driver is kept behind the wheel by use of his safety belt, he is better able to regain control of the car with the result that all occupants are safer," Eddy said.

"Scientific evidence has shown safety belts to be the single most effective auto safety device at our disposal," he stated, and added that national research indicates that the use of safety belts alone could save 14,000 lives annually.

WHAT READERS LIKE TO SEE!

A newspaper editor in Montana recently placed his tongue firmly in his cheek and composed a list of answers to a questionnaire on what a weekly newspaper subscriber would like to read.

Here are responses to what the average reader desires to see, and it could apply to our home town paper.

1. My name.
2. A front page article showing how crooked the city government is most of the time.
3. My wife's name.
4. A feature article showing 25 ways on how to cheat on income tax forms.
5. My kids' names.
6. A local news item about the affair my neighbor is having.
7. A classified ad offering a new home for sale for $4,000.
8. More news about lawbreakers.
9. Less news about lawbreakers. I was picked up last night and I should not have to pay a fine.
10. An editorial condemning high school teachers for being too liberal with "F's," and "A's."
11. A wedding picture of the groom instead of the bride when he is more handsome than she is pretty.
12. A sports picture of me when I bowled 183.
13. More advertisement on things that merchants are giving away.
14. A front page spread about the dead-beat who lives across the street from me who just had his car repossessed.
15. Forget the last one. I just got word from the finance company that they're coming after my car.
16. More letters to the editor naming the crooks we have in town. - Independent, Woodburn, Ore.

I'M JUST FINE!

(Editor's Note: This poem was sent to Mrs. Dale (Claudine) Garrison by Mrs. Christine Strom of Berkeley, Calif. Mrs. Strom, an octogenarian, is mother of the late Edna Barclay.)

I'm just fine; there's nothing the matter with me.
I'm just as healthy as can be;
I have arthritis in both my knees, and when I talk, I talk with a wheeze.
My pulse is weak. My blood is thin,
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.
My teeth will eventually have to come out,
And I can't hear a word unless you shout.
I'm overweight, and I can't get thin,
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

Arch supports I have on my feet,
Or I wouldn't be able to walk on the street.
Sleep is denied me every night.
And every morning I'm really a sight,
My memory is failing, my head's in a spin.
And I practically live on aspirin,
But I'm awfully well for the shape I'm in.

The moral: As the tale unfolds,
That for you and me, who are growing old,
It is better to say "I'm fine" with a grin,
Than to let people know the shape we're in.
I like my bifocals, my dentures are fine,
I get a lift from my falsies,
But OH! how I miss my mind.

It's a pity the world can't have about six months of peace and quiet so people could catch up on their worrying.

For every person who wishes dreams came true, there are at least ten who thank heaven that they don't.

Colleges Said Key To State's Growth; Measure 3 Boosted

Oregon's colleges and universities, including its 12 community colleges, will play vitally increasing roles in the state's new "human resources economy" that is seen as a highly significant element in the growth of the Pacific Northwest, according to Dr. James H. Jensen, president of Oregon State University.

President Jensen cited a recent Battelle Institute report that said the Northwest is in transition "from a lumber and agricultural base to a rapidly-growing diversified economy."

The report challenges higher education to prepare larger numbers of students for "growth of significant magnitude" in the Pacific Northwest in the next 13 years.

"This serious challenge can be answered in part, at least, by approval of state bond Measure No. 3 for higher education by voters of Oregon on May 28," President Jensen said.

Measure No. 3 provides for bringing and keeping building and facility needs of state-supported colleges and universities and community colleges up to date, Dr. Jensen explained.

"Measure No. 3 will assure an orderly, progressive, continuous building program for these institutions," he noted, "under definite safeguards to taxpayers."

Equally important, the president added, is the impact Measure No. 3 will have, if passed, in making recommendations of the Battelle report possible.

These include emphasis on vocational education in community colleges, more highly educated personnel, and strengthening of graduate and post-doctoral programs in colleges and universities.

"Colleges and universities of Oregon have more than doubled in size in the past 10 years and they are performing local, state and national educational and research services never even dreamed of a scant few years ago," President Jensen pointed out.

"Measure No. 3 will assure a long-range financing plan for college and university buildings that will reaffirm to the young people of Oregon that we are concerned with them," President Jensen concluded. "It will help in assuring college and vocational opportunities for them."

"And not to be overlooked," he added, "is that Measure No. 3 will also provide for both immediate and future investment in Oregon's employment opportunities and general economy."

A very small river will carry a good deal of water to the sea -- if it keeps running.

Music students of Mrs. Elvin Ballou were presented in a recital Sunday afternoon, May 19th, at her home.

Those participating are Julie Anderson, Gary Prowell, Lorelee Bates, Beth Calhoun, Susan and Ron Bone, Sundae Savage, Don and Joy Ballou, piano; Tammy Bybee, organ.

After the recital refreshments were served to family and friends.

The Adrian Antelopes baseball team will play May 24 at 2:30 PDT at Stanfield. This is quarterfinal competition.

The Adrian school term will be officially closed on May 28.
