

"THESE BOOTS WERE MADE FOR WALKIN'" - and in those boots is nine-year-old Tina Kane, who for the third year in a row, took top honors in her age division at the Santian Bean Festival talent show at Stayton, Ore. This particular number is 'jazz'. However, Tina also does ballet and tap, and has had less than two years of actual dancing instruction. Just recently she attended a dancing workshop in Boise under direction of University of Utah instructors. She is now a student of Sally Seiler at Ontario. The petite Miss is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen A. Kane of Nyssa. Now, whether or not 'these boots' walk or ride, Tina will soon be traveling to the State Fair in Salem where she has been invited to participate in the talent show which each year draws numerous top-talent performers. - Journal Photo.

COUPLE RESIDES AT ELEVEN LOCATIONS WITHIN ONE YEAR

(Editor's Note: This story was taken from the July, 1968 issue of Shoreline. Mrs. Wood is the former Vi Zamora, daughter of Nyssans Mr. and Mrs. Michael C. Zamora.)

How would you like to live in eleven different places within a year? This is what Earl and Vi Wood part-time residents of Holiday Shores have done for the past year. And they loved it.

Woody has been in the business of constructing high voltage transmission lines for 21 years and during that time the Woods have been constantly on the move.

During the past year, he has been on a project which began in Four Corners, New Mexico and is ending at the Colorado River. Vi and Woody lived in Four Corners for four months, then moved following the line to Fruitland, New Mexico; Shiprock, N. M.; Lucachuchi, Arizona; Many Farms, Ariz.; Chinlee, Ariz.; Pinon, Ariz.; New Oraibi, Ariz.; Cameron, Ariz.; Williams, Ariz.; Hyde Park, Ariz.; and Dolan Springs, Ariz. They stayed an average of one month at each place.

During the 21 years Woody has spent in the business, the Woods have traveled and lived all over the western and midwestern United States. The longest they lived in one place was one year they spent in Mesa, Arizona. Vi has kept a record of all the places they have lived and has six pages of ledger paper filled on both sides. She estimates that they have lived in 300-400 different locales.

The Woods have many exciting tales to tell about their travels. They have also made countless friends in the places they have lived.

Three years ago, the Woods bought property at Holiday Shores. And two years ago, they moved their large mobile home here (they have a smaller travel trailer which they live in at the various sites; it's now at Dolan Springs).

They have been living here off and on for the past two years whenever they've had a chance. They look on Holiday Shores as their permanent home.

Woody is having a permanent addition built to their mobile home at HS. The addition will be a large living-recreation room with a mammoth flagstone fireplace at one end. Woody says, "I've always wanted a huge fireplace and now I'm going to have it!"

After finishing his current project, Woody expects to be working on various projects related to the powerplant being built across the river from Holiday Shores. He thinks that they might be able to locate here more or less permanently for the next seven years. He and Vi are looking forward to this.

Currently Woody is foreman of the crew which erects the tower structures. But for most of the time he has been in the business he has been a line-man (a job he prefers).

Woody can tell you just about all there is to know about this very exacting, strenuous, and sometimes dangerous construction business. He is currently working on a movie showing all aspects of the job. He says the towers vary from 18-65 tons in weight and range from 130-180 feet in height.

He plans to work for quite a few more years. But when he retires Holiday Shores will be the Woods' permanent home. Of all the places they have lived they think they like Holiday Shores the best!

Owyhee Church Is Scene Of Farmer-Baker Wedding

During an evening wedding ceremony performed July 17, 1968 at Owyhee Community church, Miss Leila Jean Farmer became the bride of Richard David Baker.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dail of route 1, Nyssa; Mr. and Mrs. George Baker of route 1, Vale.

In the presence of 125 guests, the double-ring rites were performed by the Rev. Arthur Skogan, pastor of the Nyssa Conservative Baptist church.

Two large bouquets of yellow gladioli and white daisies provided the altar setting. Soloist was Mrs. Bill Nielsen, who was accompanied by Miss Patty Urry.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of nylon organdy over satin. It was trimmed with a panel of white ruffles, secured in front with an organdy bow. Her fitted lace-bodice was fashioned with lily-point sleeves. Attached to the back of the bodice was an organdy bow, with a train of organdy, trimmed in lace.

Her veil of rolled-silk illusion was gathered from a large white rose. The bride's gown and veil were designed and made by Janice Sillonis.

She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow gladioli and white daisies.

Attending as maid of honor was Miss Suzanne Stunz, with the Misses Lynda Cundall and Janice Richards serving as bridesmaids. They were attired in floor-length frocks of yellow cotton lace. Their high waistlines were accented with yellow satin ribbon. Their A-line skirts were designed with back pleats for fullness, and they carried nosegays of white daisies.

Miss Sharon Dail, sister of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a yellow cotton batiste dress, with gathered skirt.

Serving as best man was Roger Greenfield, with Don Wayne and Pat McGourty as ushers.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dail wore a turquoise dress of blue silk shantung, trimmed with matching lace. The bridegroom's mother was dressed in a jacket-ensemble of pink and silver brocade.

A three-tier cake, decorated with yellow roses and silver leaves, and topped with satin bells and lilies-of-the-valley, graced the refreshment table at a reception held, after the ceremony, in the church basement.

Assisting with serving, care of gifts and guest registration were Mrs. Boyd Haney, Mrs. Jim Farmer, Mrs. Jerry Baker, the Misses Karen Cannon, Carylee Mefford, Barbara and Joyce Haney and Toni Fife.

Among out-of-area guests were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stradley of Bend, Mrs. Doris Newberg and family of John Day, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stradley and Mrs. William Stradley of Fruitland, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Smith of Caldwell.

The new Mrs. Baker was graduated from Nyssa high school in 1966. Her husband is a 1966 graduate of Vale Union high school, and both are 1968 graduates of Treasure Valley Community college.

After a wedding trip to Wallowa Lake, the newlyweds are now residing in Vale. The bridegroom is employed by the State Produce Inspection Service and the new Mrs. Baker is a secretary for the J. C. Watson company in Nyssa. They both plan to enroll at Eastern Oregon college in La Grande this fall to major in education.

MRS. ALICE COLLINS (seated at the table nearest the Journal camera - center of photo) was guest of honor at an August 1, 1968 noon dinner on the lawn at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Long. The farewell party was planned and the meal prepared by members of the Senior Citizens' organization. The host-couple is seated at the table with the honoree. Visiting and card games were highlights of the event, attended by 30 area residents. On August 9, 18 members and friends of the altar society of St. Bridget's Catholic church honored Mrs. Collins with a lawn party at her home. Then on August 14 she was guest of honor during a morning coffee hour at the home of her neighbor, Mrs. Thelma Anderson. Mrs. Collins, who was born in 1882 at Marshalltown, Iowa, spent her youth in Minnesota and taught school in that state. Later she lived in South Dakota, and had been a resident of Oregon for 27 years. She left Nyssa yesterday (August 14) for Boise, planning to board a cross-country plane Friday for Minnesota where she will reside at the DeZine Providence hospital-nursing home in Ivanhoe.

"Don't Take A Chance - Have Children Shot" Health Board Advises

Children entering kindergarten or the first grade in September should be immunized adequately against the preventable contagious diseases, the Oregon State Board of Health said today.

Dr. Edward Press, Oregon State Health Officer, urged parents of children going to school for the first time to make sure they are protected against polio, measles, smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus.

Dr. Press said the following immunization schedule should provide adequate protection for preschoolers:

Measles - One shot gives lifetime protection.

Polio - Live trivalent vaccine recommended. Two feedings six to eight weeks apart starting at two months of age, followed by another a year later and a booster feeding just before entering the first grade.

DPT - This is a combination vaccine for diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus. Three injections four to eight weeks apart starting at two months of age, followed by a booster a year later and another booster just before entering the first grade.

Smallpox - One vaccination at 12 to 24 months of age, followed by a booster before entering the first grade.

Dr. Press said immunization of school children is particularly important in disease control and eradication since contagious diseases spread readily in the confines of classrooms.

"Don't take a chance," Dr. Press said. "See your physician or local health department about immunization before your children go to school."
