Service Academy Applications Due By September 4

Congressman Al Ullman announced last week that the Civil Service Commission examination for nomination to an armed service academy will be given Oct. 5. All young men interested in competing for a nomination to the Air Force, Merchant Marine, Military or Naval Academy are urged to immediately write to his office and request an application. Inquiries should be directed to: Congressman Al Ullman, 2439 House Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

Mr. Ullman's nominations are based on the results of this competitive Civil Service examination and on the recommendation of school officials. The test will be given in the cities of Albany, Baker, Bend, Burns, Enterprise, Hermiston, John Day, Klamath Falls, La Grande, Lakeview, Ontario, Pendleton, Prineville, Salem, and The Dalles. Testing can be arranged in other areas of the State or the country to accommodate Second District residents who are away from home. Requests to take part in this competition must be received in the Congressman's office by September 4.

To be eligible, an applicant must be between the ages of 17 and 22, unmarried, of good moral character, in good physical condition, capable of college-level work, and a legal resident of the Second District of Oregon. Young men now serving in the Armed Services are eligible also.

Ore-Ida Foods, Inc., moved its corporate headquarters into Boise Owyhee Plaza in late July. The tentative date was scheduled for the official open house to be held Wednesday, September 11, 1968.

Now, because of slow shipments of office equipment, furniture, and draperies, this date has been postponed until Wednesday, October 9, 1968. Plans are being made to have a two-section open house. From 3 to 5 p.m., a group who will receive invitations through the mail, then from 5 to 9 p.m., an open house for the general public.

It's Your Law!

WILL REVOCATION

O'Hara, now deceased, had many times told his family that the will he executed some 25 years ago was no longer effective. He considered the will out of date and had told his wife to destroy it the next time she ran across it.

His wife, however, neglected to locate the old will. It was not found until after O'Hara's death. The will favored one of the sons, who claimed the will was valid. Mrs. O'Hara was in doubt, but since she was named executrix in the will she offered it for probate. This was proper, for it is the duty of one who has possession of a will at the testator's death to produce it in court.

The court found that O'Hara's will was in existence at the time of death and properly executed. It was, therefore, valid even though many years old. O'Hara could have revoked the will up to the time he died, but he did not effectively do so. The law protects testators by requiring an affirmative act of revocation. This prevents his heirs from testifying he said he wanted to revoke his will, when in fact he did not.

A will may be revoked by the one whose will it is or by someone else -- at his direction and in his presence -- by cancelling or destroying the will physically, such as by burning it up or tearing it to pieces. Oregon requires two witnesses to the destruction. Sometimes a testator's subsequent marriage revokes a will.

The most effective and surest way to revoke a will, however, is by making a new will, properly prepared and executed, stating that all prior wills are revoked. O'Hara had proper intent to revoke, but he failed to act properly to carry it out. Intention alone is not enough. His out of date will was still good. (Oregon lawyers offer this column as a public service. No person should apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is completely advised of the facts involved. Even a slight variance in fact may change the application of the law.)

ORE-IDA SCHEDULES OPEN HOUSE EVENTS

Officials at Treasure Valley Community college announced early this week that 353 persons have registered as full-time students and that the new counselling - registration system is exceeding expectations.

Beginning Saturday, August 31, the Student Affairs and Business offices will remain open for registration from 8 A.M. to 12 noon.

Entering or returning students first purchase a $10 registration permit at the business office in the Classroom Administration building. They then go to the Weese Memorial building where they will receive occupational and educational advice and counselling.

The foursome spent the night at Enterprise and on Monday they took a drive through Southeast Washington, across the mountains to Clarkston. At Zim's Medical Springs, Mrs. Cook visited briefly with anephew, D. B. Lyells. They then went to Grangeville and visited the 'Hippies', made a brief stop at New Meadows before traveling on to Payette Lakes. Then then visited at the Shore Lodge home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Stunz. Monday night was spent at McCall, and the women returned home August 13.

First Lt. William Lawrence Graham, Scott, Lee and Allan of Santa Ana, Calif., arrived

August 17 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wernick. Other visitors in the parental home during his brief stay were his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John DeBoer of Ontario.

Lt. Graham attended the 1948 NHS two-year class reunion. The foursome left August 18 for their home. Graham is starting his 21st year in the U. S. Marine Corps, and is stationed at El Toro base in California.

Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Sager and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Oster left August 10 to attend a beekeepers picnic at Armitage park in Coburg, Ore. Also attending the picnic were Former Nyssans Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Lomax of McMinnville. Karen Petterson, tri-state honey queen for Oregon, Idaho and Washington, was also among those present.

It was announced that the American Beekeeping Federation national convention will be held January 1969 at the Sheraton Motor-Inn in Portland.

The Nyssa couples visited Mr. and Mrs. Delvis (Katherine Klinkenberg) Freeman in their new home at Eugene where they were overnight guests. They returned home August 13.
