Feiks Return Home From Extended Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Parley Feik left July 26 for Salt Lake City where they joined the 'James' tour which left the following day with 38 passengers aboard two buses.

They made stops in Cheyenne, Wyo., Omaha, Neb., Burlington, Iowa and Nauvoo, Ill., and spent a day seeing all the Mormon memorials.

Upon arriving in Chicago, it was their first opportunity to see skyscrapers. The next day they took a boat trip on Lake Michigan, making it possible to see the tall buildings at an entirely different angle.

The next stop was at Niagara Falls, then Rochester, N. Y., where they spent the evening viewing the Hill Cumorah pageant, with an estimated 15,000 in attendance.

In New York City, they visited Radio City music hall where they saw the 'Rockettes'. A guided tour of the city took them to the Empire State building, the United Nations and many other places of interest. One evening the group took a three-hour boat trip around Manhattan Island where they saw the 18 bridges and approaches to several of the 16 tunnels which go under the river. One of these tunnels was traveled through when the group approached New York City.

They also stopped at Philadelphia to visit Independence Hall, saw the Liberty Bell and the home of Betsy Ross.

In Washington, D. C., a full day was spent visiting the US mint, many memorials and Arlington cemetery. A tour was made of the capital building and four rooms of the White House. They found that Washington D. C. appears to be a very clean city.

Enroute back west, the travelers stopped at Springfield, Ill., to see Lincoln's home, the museum and tomb; and in Topeka, Kans., they visited Liberty jail where Joseph Smith was held as a prisoner. The last night of the tour was spent in Denver where a tour farewell dinner was served.

The Feiks arrived in Salt Lake City on August 11 and returned home the following day.

They report a wonderful trip, but say the best part of all is the many interesting people they met. They feel that they now have many new friends who reside in Canada, California, Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Oregon.
