BECAUSE IT'S FLAMELESS

ELECTRIC WATER HEATING HAS

NO MATCH

FOR EFFICIENCY

Because they require no chimney and burn no oxygen, flameless water heaters can be completely wrapped in insulation, top and bottom and all around. The high-wattage elements (three times faster than those on the old reliable models which have served so faithfully over the years) put the heat directly into the water, not up a chimney or into the room. So electric water heating is practically 100% efficient...and another among the many things electricity does best.
