OBITUARIES

Settimo Marostica

Requiem mass for Settimo Marostica was celebrated Saturday morning, Jan. 18, 1969 at St. Frances X Cabrini Catholic church by the Rev. Ft. Francis P. McGlinchey.

Rosary was recited Friday evening at Robison Chapel of the Chimes in Meridian.

Mr. Marostica succumbed on the morning of Jan. 15 at his home on route 4, Boise.

He was born July 30, 1896 in Italy, went to Colorado in 1912, came to Nyssa in 1937 and in 1941 moved to Weiser. Eight years later he moved to Parma and in 1951 returned to Weiser.

The deceased moved in 1957 to the Boise area where he farmed until his retirement. He was married Nov. 23, 1927 to Anna L. Knifer in Ft. Morgan, Colo. He was a member of St. Frances X Cabrini church and the Holy Name Society.

In addition to his widow of the home, he is survived by three sons, William K. of Nyssa; George L. of Klamath Falls, Ore., and Raymond D. Marostica of Tacoma, Wash.; one daughter, Mrs. Lynda Weir of Anchorage, Alaska.

Also surviving are three brothers, Angelo of Ontario, Joe of Sterling, Colo., and Tony Marostica, also of Ontario; two sisters, Mrs. Andrew Settlin and Mrs. Renoldo, both of Sterling; and 11 grandchildren.

Interment was made in the Meridian cemetery. Active pallbearers were Austin Millhollin; Lawrence, Angelo, Victor, Lewis and Rudolph Marostica. Serving as honorary bearers were Don Jackson, Jess Flechman, Leslie Drury, Gilbert Iruata, Phil Guenzi, Anthony and Daniel Marostica.

Mr. Seid succumbed Jan. 16 at a Weiser hospital following a brief illness. He was born April 1, 1882 near Carlisle, Iowa, a son of William and Elisa Seid. He moved with his parents in March of 1898 to Midvale. On Jan. 24, 1906 he was married to Emily Evans. She preceded him in death in June, 1941.

As a young man, Mr. Seid helped build the railroad through Middle Valley, and spent most of his life ranching in the Keithley Creek area.

The deceased served many years as a member of the school boards at Keithley Creek grade and Midvale high schools. He was a charter member of the Shoepeg grange.

Mr. Seid retired from ranching in 1954 and moved to Weiser. He was married to Nannie Yardley on April 15, 1956. She succumbed Jan. 29, 1966.

Survivors include a son, Warren Seid of Midvale; two daughters, Mrs. Milford McCrumb of Boise and Mrs. Delbert Williams of Midvale; one step-daughter, Mrs. George (Edna) DeHaven of the Adrian area.

Other survivors include a brother, Wilbur Seid of Hemet, Calif.; a sister, Mrs. Roy Jackson of Weiser; four grandsons, two granddaughters, six step-grandsons, five step-granddaughters and 12 great-grandchildren.

C. Van Landingham

Final rites for Clarence Ivan Van Landingham were conducted Friday, Jan. 17, 1969 at the Parma cemetery, with the Rev. Paul Yaden officiating. The services were under direction of Dakan Chapel of Parma.

Mr. Van Landingham was killed on the previous Tuesday in a traffic accident near Ontario.

He was born Oct. 3, 1912 in Madison, Okla., and went to Parma with his parents two years later. He was graduated from Parma high school and on Sept. 17, 1934 was married to Alma Rippey in Payette.

The deceased worked for Morrison-Knudsen Construction company for about 10 years, and since 1960 had been a salesman for the B & M Equipment company at Nyssa.

In addition to his widow of the home at Parma, he is survived by a son, Marilyn K. Van Landingham of Prineville, Ore., a daughter, Mrs. Kent (Colleen) Hansen of Oregon City.

He is also survived by two brothers, Glen of Los Banos, Calif., and Lynn Van Landingham of Caldwell; a sister, Mrs. Leonard (Lois) Lopp of Lakeview, Mont., and four grandchildren.

MAN - HIS ARTS AND IDEAS

BY CLYDE T. SWISHER

CHAIRMAN, DEPT. OF ENGLISH
 NYSSA SENIOR HIGH SCHOOL

We intend it as a great compliment when we say of someone that he is a good listener. We mean that he not only listens passively to what we are telling him but that he enters actively into our tale, drawing us out, making us want to continue, somehow grasping the meaning behind the words. The very fact that we single out certain people as good listeners makes it clear that not everyone has mastered the art of listening.

ADRIAN COMMUNITY CHURCH

A Jan. 14 potluck luncheon was served for Mrs. Earl Winn in the Adrian Community church social room.

After the luncheon, Mrs. M. L. Kurtz read a story of Mrs. Winn's life since she came to Adrian. The adjectives had been left blank and were supplied by the group, which made the story very amusing.

Mrs. Dale Witt told a company dinner story, and Mrs. R. D. McKinley presented Mrs. Winn with a clock, a gift from the 24 women in attendance and some who were unable to be present.

The Winn family moved early this week to 125 Francis Drive in Walla Walla, Wash.

OWYHEE COMMUNITY CHURCH

A fellowship meeting on Jan. 19 at Owyhee Community church was well attended by patrons from Donnelly, Council, Jamieson, Willow Creek, Orchard, Wilder and Nyssa. The Rev. Gene Lewin of Donnelly was afternoon speaker.

The next fellowship session will be March 9 at the Five Mile church.

Rodney Frost was speaker for the Jan. 19 morning service. He will be in the pulpit again on Sunday morning, Jan. 26.

Eleven Missionary women of the church met Jan. 14 in the home of Mrs. Elver Nielsen; and the Jan. 22, prayer meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dail.

A "camp-calf" fund had increased to $55 at last report. This fund will be used to supply meat for the summer camp sessions.

assured me he had had free-wheeling female clients from the day he hung up his shingle, but you know how realistic a lawyer may be.

There is also, and not to be ignored, the "separate look-allowing movement and activity." The hemline cannot be separated much further from the ankle if we expect men to do a full day's work. This last might refer to the waistline which makes for much deep thought. That beautiful young thing giving her all in her solo at the Sunday morning service could be near impossible to follow, especially were her abdominal surgical scar showing.

However, the whole topic becomes replete with the notes on evening wear. It is to have the "plunging neckline - extravagant, nude, and sexy." This all adds up to a bang-up gay year with lines forming on the right.

Does your wardrobe reflect this scintillating, sparkling fireworks or are you backstage wearing your grandmother's sunbonnet? At least we now know what to expect. - Bessie Long.

Editor:
 Well! well: Congressmen are to get their salaries raised to $50,000 per year and while they eat high on the hog, Social Security is tossed a bone (13% raise). We are told that "we are in fine shape and will end the fiscal year with a surplus," while our debt sky-rocket. This theory compares to an individual deeply in debt flashing borrowed money or driving a Cadillac, 25% paid for.

We were told that our local taxes (property) would not be higher when taxed at full value instead of at 25% of valuation, because the rate would be lower. Taxable valuation was raised 300%, the rate lowered 262% and new higher assessed valuations, (my taxes, 92% up). No, it will not be hard to remember these times and "these guys" 100 years from now. When the "platform in space" is established, why not have an opening celebration, like a big free dance open to all? (Wait! - Walter Burdette, Nyssa, Oregon

The same goes for music. It is not enough to be in the same room with the sounds, or to listen intermittently while one's thoughts wander hither and yon. To listen perceptively requires that we fasten our whole attention upon the sounds as they come floating through the air; that we observe the patterns they form, and respond to the wellsprings of thought and feeling out of which those patterns have emerged.

People vary greatly in their way of responding to music. During the playing, let us say, of the Triumphal March from 'Aida', one listener will summon up a vision of ancient tombs and Pharaohs. Another floats off in a daydream equally far removed from the music and the world. A third is filled with a strange sense of power at the ringing tone of the trumpets. His neighbor for no apparent reason recollects the half hour he spent in the dentist's chair. This one is pleased with himself for having noticed the reappearance of Theme A. That one has decided that the conductor is a shoemaker and wonders how he ever managed to get an orchestra. The musicologist reflects upon the contribution of Verdi to grand-opera style. The critic polishes a phrase for his next review. The budding composer is oppressed by a suspicion that he was born too late.

It is idle to classify the listening experience as being on either the sensual, the emotional, or the intellectual level. Today it is recognized that such categories are extremely fluid. We listen differently to different kinds of music and we hear the same piece differently on different occasions. In art as in life the physical, emotional, and intellectual elements are too closely interwoven for us to be able to draw rigid boundaries between them. The goal of our training in the art of listening must be to unite all three levels, so that we will apprehend the floating patterns of sound with the joy of our senses, the freshness of our emotions, and the power of our understanding.
