LEE QUINN

... Guest Speaker

Quinn, a fellow just 40 who has been sailing the seven seas and making newspaper headlines while doing it, will be guest speaker at the Saturday, April 12 meeting of Knife and Fork club patrons at East Side cafe in Ontario. The dinner-meeting is slated to begin at 7:30 p. m. Quinn, whose topic will be "Off-Beat Adventures", insists he is not an adventurer by profession. "Things just happened," he says. "I don't plan them - they just come about naturally."

Most of the American reading public knows Quinn for his activities in sailing the sea with an all-girl crew. The fact the "skipper" doesn't plan adventure must be true, for certainly he didn't plan that his yacht "Neophyte" would be cut completely in two by a 4,000-ton freighter while he and his feminine crew members were sailing around Australia. None were lost. Quinn immediately began looking for another yacht. He found it and pointedly named it "The Neophyte Too".

Plans were completed for serving lunch at the April 22 meeting of the homemakers' club at Oregon Trail grange hall.

A potluck dinner was served at noon to 15 members and guests.

Next meeting will be held May 6 at the home of Mrs. Orland Cheldelin, with Mrs. Eric Boenigas as co-hostess. All grange women are welcome.

ALFALFA GROWERS!

Tired of fighting a losing battle against the alfalfa weevil? You can win that fight this Spring by spraying with Alfa-tox, a product that works effectively in cool weather and warm. Its consistent, dependable killing power lasts 2-3 weeks from just one application.

Alfa-tox controls the damaging alfalfa weevil, yet leaves no residue problems in meat or milk. You can cut just 7 days after spraying.

And you can enjoy greater safety with Alfa-tox. It's easy to handle, and requires no special protective clothing or devices.

Learn more about this product and its use. Attend an educational meeting at:

REFRESHMENTS WILL BE SERVED.

power to grow / PROFIT IDEAS FOR PROGRESSIVE FARMERS

ARE WE PLANTING SILAGE CORN THICK ENOUGH?

Probably not, according to University tests conducted in Western Washington.

Most farmers in this area set their planters for about 22,000 plants per acre. But tests show our better alluvial soils can carry 30,000 plants per acre. Yields could easily increase 20% with slightly more seed and fertilizer applied. Here's what recent field tests showed:

YIELD BOOSTER

At 22,500 plants per acre, 100-150-150 fertilizer treatment produced 4.0 tons (dry) forage per acre.

At 30,000 plants and with 50 pounds more nitrogen per acre than above, yield increased to 4.8 tons (dry) forage per acre.

This is nearly a ton more dry feed matter per acre just from a third more seed and 50 pounds more nitrogen.

APPLYING THE FERTILIZER

In another test, the top yield of 6.2 tons dry matter per acre was made with fertilizer applied in two steps:

1. AHEAD OF PLANTING

60%-60%-60% broadcast and plowed down. Results were better when plowed down than when disced in.

2. AT PLANTING

90%-90%-90% banded at planting.

These applications were on soil that tested low in P and medium in K.

NARROW ROWS BEST

The rows should be planted as narrow as your planting, tillage and harvesting equipment will handle. But keep in mind: Narrow rows usually call for thinner planting in the row.

Tests show the corn silage crop gets the most from soil moisture when planted in 21-inch rows; least when planted in 42-inch rows.

Come in and let's talk it over!
