BEET LEAFHOPPER
SURVEY CONDUCTED

Entomologists from the Oregon Department of Agriculture and the Plant Pest Control Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture completed a recent survey in Malheur county to determine the population of the beet leafhopper.

The survey, made at the request of sugar beet growers and processors in that area, was on range lands surrounding the beet producing area where sagebrush had been removed and crested wheatgrass seeded for grazing.

Entomologists found a low population of the pest on the host plants where they spend the winter. This includes a number of weeds the more prevalent of which are tumble mustard, Russian thistle, peppergrass and flaxweed.

F. P. Larson, survey entomologist with the Oregon Department of Agriculture, said the entomologists turned their attention to the newly seeded land because the host weeds are more numerous on soil that has been disturbed or where sagebrush has been removed.

Sugar beet growers have had a problem from the insect which transmits a virus causing curly top on the beets and reducing yields. Larson said because of this problem and the fact that a low population was found in this survey another cooperative survey may be made later when the eggs of the insect have hatched.

FLETCHER'S
CORRAL

BY ROGER FLETCHER

Malheur County Agent

In Oregon all youth under 18 years of age, according to the Wage and Hour Commission of the State of Oregon, must have work permits except for agricultural employment. An agricultural permit, however, is required for farm work that involves the operation of, or riding on, a tractor or other power-driven farm equipment. A permit, on the other hand, is not required for youth to work on his home farm, or when working for his parents, grandparents, uncle or aunt or brother or sister. A written agreement between parents and farmer for youth living and working on a farm is likewise permissible if the agreement is approved and filed by the Wage and Hour Commission.

An agricultural work permit is required for youth under 18 years of age to operate power driven farm machinery such as tractors, combines, balers, choppers, diggers, viners and mechanical pickers. The State Bureau of Labor, with its nearest office in Pendleton, issues work permits for minors. The Oregon State Employment Offices (the Ontario office is located at 375 S. W. 2nd Ave.) is authorized to issue temporary work permits. Youths 16 and 17 years of age need a birth certificate or other proof of age document to obtain agricultural work permits.

Youths, however, between the ages of 14 and 16 who are hired to operate certain farm machinery, cannot obtain a work permit without having first satisfactorily completed certain prescribed training. Upon completion of this training, a special exemption certificate is issued to the trainee.

Federal law prohibits the employment of youth under 16 to handle certain chemicals, use a blasting agent, serve as flagman for aircraft, drive a truck or car on a public road, operate a power-driven posthole digger, a power-drive saw, working with timber (felling, bucking, skidding, loading, etc.) with a butt diameter of more than six inches, and others.

The following items are prohibited by law, unless youth under 16 satisfactorily complete a prescribed course on operations, maintenance and safety.

-- "Driving or riding on a tractor of over 20-horsepower, or attaching or detaching an implement or power-take-off unit to or from such tractor while the motor is running."

-- "Operating or riding on a self-unloading wagon or trailer."

-- "Operating or riding on a dump or hoist wagon, fork lift, rotary tiller (except walking type), or power-driven earth moving equipment."

-- "Operating or unclogging a power-driven combine, field baler, hay conditioner, corn picker, forage harvester, or vegetable harvester."

-- "Operating, feeding, or unclogging any of the following machines when power-driven: stationary baler, thresher, huller, feed grinder, chopper, silo filler, or crop dryer."

-- "Feeding materials into or unclogging a roughage blower or auger conveyor."

The County Agents Office is cooperating with the vo-ag program in the county to set up a training program for youth needing exemptions to operate the above machinery. The program should be rolling within the month.

If you have questions regarding the upcoming training program, contact me or Tom Williams, Vocational Agricultural Supervisor to the 8-C school district in Ontario. Vocational Agricultural instructors in Ontario, Vale, Nyssa and Adrian will also respond to inquiries.

PUBLIC MEETING SCHEDULE
SET BY GAME COMMISSION

Hunters, fishermen and other citizens interested in the fish and wildlife resources of the state are advised they will have a chance to air their views at a series of public meetings scheduled by the Game Commission in late April and early May.

John McKean, state game director, said purpose of the meetings is to provide citizens an opportunity to present information and recommendations relating to 1969 hunting seasons as well as other matters of interest and concern to the people. The tour, he said, is in keeping with the Commission's policy of meeting with groups and individuals in various areas of the state.

Tentatively the travel itinerary calls for meetings in Tillamook, Gold Beach and Grants Pass on April 17, 18, and 19. Meeting places are still to be arranged, but the time is scheduled for 8 p.m. on all dates. McKean said that the public will be advised of the meeting places or if any changes are made in the travel itinerary.

In eastern Oregon, meetings are scheduled for The Dalles, Pendleton, Ontario and Klamath Falls. Because of time limitations the Commission will hold a luncheon meeting in The Dalles on May 8, then fly to Pendleton to make the evening meeting at 8 p.m. On May 9, at 8 p.m., the Commission will meet with the public in Ontario. The Klamath Falls meeting is scheduled for Saturday, May 10 at 8 p.m.

The meeting will be open for discussion on upland game birds, waterfowl, and big game.

If time allows, other subjects may be brought before the Commission for its consideration. McKean advised that the regular public hearing to establish the 1969 big game regulations will be held in Portland on May 24, with final rules to be adopted on June 7.
