

Official Gives Suggestions On Displaying Fair Produce

With the 60th Malheur county fair fast approaching, County Agent Leeds Bailey has the following suggestions on selection and preparation of fruits and vegetables to enter in competition at the show.

He says that uniformity is the key to a good exhibit. The aim should be to get all items in the group as near alike as possible. The nearer they are alike, as far as being uniform is concerned, the better the chance of having a winning entry. Members of the exhibit should be the same size, same color and as near the same stage of maturity as possible. Best method of selecting a good exhibit is to pick several times more single items of produce than required. Then a display can be matched from the group.

When it comes to size, select vegetables slightly above medium size rather than the largest. Usually the judge will be looking for eating quality in produce and will be choosing that which is at its best. Color also plays its part in selection of an exhibit. Items in the display should have the same shade and preferably an intense color. Examples are pure white cauliflower, dark green spinach, or bright red tomatoes.

BIRD SEASONS

year, but biologists tempered the census figures with the knowledge that many chukars went unobserved because of the heavy vegetation on the census routes.

Based on the findings of biologists and suggestions from the public the Commission set a cock pheasant season beginning at 8 a.m., October 18, and extending through November 23. Bag limit is 2 cocks per day, 9 in possession in eastern Oregon and 2 cocks per day, 4 in possession in western Oregon and Klamath County.

The season for valley and mountain quail will run concurrently with the pheasant season in western Oregon and extend through December 31 in eastern Oregon. West side hunters will have a reduced bag limit on quail; 5 per day, 10 in possession. In eastern Oregon hunters may take 10 quail per day, 20 in possession.

CHUKARS LEGAL OCT. 4

Chukar partridge and Hungarian partridge hunters will have a long season beginning October 4 and extending through December 31. The season is scheduled for eastern Oregon, with no season on chukars and Huns on the west side. Bag limit is 8 birds daily in the aggregate, 16 in possession.

The Commission also set short seasons for sage grouse and blue and ruffed grouse. A weekend hunt for sage grouse was set, September 6 and 7, in Crook, Deschutes, Lake, Harney, and that part of Malheur County south of U.S. Highway 20. Bag limit is 2 sage grouse daily or in possession. September 6 through 28 are the dates for the blue and ruffed grouse season in eastern Oregon and October 4 through

M M Hospital

CHANGES NOTED

Among beneficial changes that have been placed in effect he enumerated: (1) improvement in Central services, (2) moving of medical records, (3) starting doctor's medical library, (4) installing some new beds, (5) placing 8 air conditioning units in rooms in the extended care section and two in the hospital area.

He further noted that borrowing had decreased from $97,000 in February to $64,000 at the present time. This, he said, had been as low as $37,000 at one time.

WHY RATES HIGH

Rates had increased at a rapid pace due to increased salaries, higher costs of all supplies and services, and conforming with the regulations set by the federal government.

BEST PROTECTIVE MEANS

King suggested that costs could be fought, by the individual on three fronts. By using the local facilities, protecting self and family with health insurance and practicing preventive medicine.

He told the group he had received the very best cooperation from the board of directors that was possible and that in time they hoped to make the hospital self-supporting. Also, he said he and his family were grateful for the reception from the town and community.

NYSSA EXCHANGE

STUDENT ARRIVES; OPEN HOUSE SLATED

Lutz A. F. Kliche, Nyssa high school AFS exchange student for 1969-70 school year will be December 26 in western Oregon. Bag limit in both areas is 3 grouse daily, 6 in possession.

Waterfowl hunters will have seasons and bag limits almost identical to last year, with the general season extending from 8 a.m. October 18 through January 11. The season for ducks in Columbia Basin counties will extend through January 18.

TRAFFIC LAW CHANGES

Oregon drivers will have some new or changed traffic laws to follow beginning August 22, as a result of 1969 legislative action, according to the Motor Vehicles Division, Department of Transportation.

One key change applies to entering freeways or other arterial highways. It requires a driver to yield to traffic already on such roads when a merging or acceleration lane has been provided for his use, unless signals, signs or police officers indicate otherwise.

Another new law adds the term careless driving to Oregon law. It makes it illegal to drive in a manner to endanger or be likely to endanger any person or property.

The law on crossing the center line on highways also was changed. The new law makes it illegal to cross the center line when approaching the crest of a grade or a curve if your view of the road ahead is obstructed a distance which would be hazardous if another vehicle should approach from the opposite direction.

Previously, the law made it illegal to cross the center line if you were within 500 feet of any hillcrest or curve which blocked your view of the road ahead.

A driver's responsibility when making a left turn to enter a private road or driveway also has been clarified by new legislation. Beginning August 22, the Division says a driver preparing to take this action must signal for a left turn and yield right-of-way to any vehicle approaching from the opposite direction if it is close enough to constitute an immediate hazard.

The state's "U" turn law also was amended to make it illegal to make a "U" turn on the open highway where the driver cannot see the road for at least 1,000 feet in either direction. It also remains illegal to make such a turn on any curve or upon the approach to or near the crest of a grade. In cities, it remains illegal

INSPECTION LAW

Finally, a new law will subject vehicles to the state's first inspection program. It authorizes Oregon State Police to stop and inspect vehicles to determine if they meet safety requirements. Drivers must stop and submit to inspection where signs are posted and inspections are being given. Defects found must be corrected within 15 days.

$98,000 INTEREST ON FUNDS INVESTED BY CO. TREASURER

Interest on funds of public agencies within Malheur County invested by County Treasurer Jean P. Bond reached almost $100,000 in the past year.

The report released by Mrs. Bond Monday showed $98,543.84 derived from total receipts of $6,321,000, a part of which was drawing interest at all times.

This has resulted from concerted efforts on the part of Mrs. Bond to have custody of all funds not in use so that a higher rate of interest might be gained. And in the past, many of these agencies merely deposited the funds in banks without any interest.

In 1964-65 the total interest received was only $12,000. Each of the following years, successively, the amounts were $31,500; $45,600; and $63,400.

The high amount, $40,438, came from county general funds, followed by Ontario S. D. No. 8 at $17,151 and TVCC, $14,989 on the building fund. The amounts ranged to lows of $7.62 for S. D. No. 51 and one division of S. D. No. 8 at $12.32.

AREA AGENCIES LISTED
Nyssa S. D. No. 26 account drew $3,163, Malheur Memorial hospital building fund, $2,686 and the county fair $941. Taylor grazing funds earned $259.

Packwood Tours

told that he believed this would be the personal reaction of most people seeing the facilities the first time, and that Packwood just couldn't see as many people living in a one-room building and using community toilet facilities and showers. Stunz also surmised that the senator was probably unfamiliar with labor camps, as those in Malheur county have been rated better than the state average.

Packwood was served a noon luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. 'Shorty' Brandt southwest of Nyssa. The luncheon was served by St. Paul's Episcopal church guild of Nyssa, with Mrs. Jake (Nona) Fischer making the preparations. A small group of irrigation officials conferred with Packwood there.

He then attended an informal meeting at Vale and a planned one in Ontario. This was followed by a tour of Ore-Ida Foods plant and wound up with a no-host banquet at Ontario, with Packwood as guest.

He told the group of his first months in Washington as a senator, saying he "was idealistic when he went there and has not changed his mind."

Promising to work to protect Oregon's resources, he said, "the important issue now is how many people can enjoy the natural resources rather than how many industries can be operated in the state."
