UNITED NATIONS AND POPULATION SUBJECT OF ESSAYS FOR STUDENTS

The United Nations and the Population Explosion is the subject of the contest now open to students in Oregon's high and junior high schools sponsored by the Oregon United Nations Association. According to Mr. George Van Hoomissen, current president of the Association and District Attorney of Multnomah County, the contest, presently in its 44th year, focuses on one of the most challenging problems confronting mankind today. Students have an opportunity to offer creative ideas through the essays they present. Recognition certificates will be presented to all participants, with special awards going to the four students with the best essays. The special awards consist of all-expense paid trips to the college conference of the Model United Nations of the West, to be held in Eugene April 15-18, 1970. These outstanding students will attend as members of one of the delegations and will participate in the work of the assemblies of the Model United Nations.

Dr. Harry L. Dillon, president emeritus of Linfield College, and currently chairman of the contest, reminds interested students that the deadline date for presentation of essays is March 2, 1970.

Additional information concerning the contest can be obtained from any local high or junior high school social studies department or from the office of the Oregon United Nations Association in the Oregon Bank Building in Portland, Ore.
