Ground will be broken Sunday afternoon for a permanent building for the Nyssa Conservative Baptist Church on Locust Ave. The Rev. Charles Losie, general director for the Conservative Baptist Association of Oregon, will be the guest speaker for the occasion.

The entire day has been set aside for special emphasis on the building program. Rev. STATE WATER RESOURCES BOARD PRESENTS FINDINGS FOR MALHEUR & OWYHEE

A summary of findings on the Malheur and Owyhee Basins investigation was presented by Fred D. Gustafson, Chief Engineer, and Jack G. Johnson, Planning Director, State Water Resources Board, at a public meeting on April 15, 9:00 a.m., at the East Side Cafe in Ontario.

The findings and conclusions of this investigation will serve as a basis for establishing water policy over the unappropriated waters of the basins. This will be binding on all state agencies and public corporations but will not interfere with existing water rights.

The Malheur and Owyhee Basins include the entire Malheur River, Oregon portions of the Owyhee River, small Snake River tributaries and small interior drainages of Malheur, Harney, Grant and Baker Counties.

The basins investigation was conducted to study existing water resources of the basins, to determine means and methods of conserving and augmenting such resources, and to determine existing and contemplated needs of water for domestic, livestock, municipal, irrigation, power development, industrial, mining, recreation, fish life, wildlife, and pollution abatement purposes.

Particular emphasis was placed on determining the location and amount of land, and related water requirements, that could be developed utilizing Snake River water. Included was development of the reconnaissance irrigation plan for those lands, designated the Malheur Project, considered to have the greatest potential for development in the near future.

The presentation summary, with graphics, included discussions of general physical data, the economic base of the area, the relationship between available and presently appropriated water, present use and associated problems for the 10 beneficial uses listed above, and problems associated with flooding, drainage, future needs and potential developments.

Findings and conclusions brought out at the presentation included the following:

The Malheur and Owyhee Basins, comprising the Malheur and Owyhee River study area, encompass 11,247 square miles or 7, 198,400 acres which is 11.6 percent of the state's area.

The basins' average annual yield of slightly over 1,000,000 acre-feet from streams and ground water presently supplies water to irrigate 273,900 acres and serves all other consumptive uses. About one-half of the annual yield is lost to outflow either as ground water or as widely dispersed surface water return flows, primarily to the Snake River with some to interior drainages in Nevada.

The basins' total yield is adequate, on an average-year basis, to supply most existing needs and uses of water but serious shortages exist each year in most areas of variations in seasonal and geographical yield.

There are sufficient surface water resources, if available Snake River water is included, to more than double the presently irrigated acreage by

The Budget Hearing prior to adoption of the budget for Nyssa School District No. 26 will be held Tuesday, May 5 at 8 p.m. in the multi-purpose room of the Primary Building. Interested persons are invited to attend and discuss the proposed budget.

High School Students Honored By Scholarship Commission

Names of 1500 students have been announced as 1970 Oregon Scholars by the State Scholarship Commission. The students earning this honor are selected from all high schools in Oregon on the basis of their outstanding academic achievement, it was explained by Sidney Schlessinger, chairman of the commission.

The Oregon Scholars award, now in its third year, was established by the State Scholarship Commission with the endorsement of Governor Tom McCall and State School Superintendent Dale Parnell.

Purpose of the Oregon Scholars award is to give recognition to the academic attainments of students who have excelled in high school, whether or not they have the financial need which qualifies them for state scholarships, Schlessinger said. Average grade point of those named as Oregon Scholars this year is 3.82. Jeffery M. Lee, executive director of the commission, reported. The group chosen as Oregon Scholars was selected from the 1970 graduating classes of Oregon high schools totaling approximately 37,000.

Each recipient will be presented with an Oregon Scholar certificate, designed and furnished by the Crown Company of Portland. McCall and School Superintendent Parnell will send letters of tribute to the Oregon Scholars of each high school. Most high schools also will incorporate Oregon Scholar awards presentations into their graduation ceremonies.

Nyssa High School Students selected as Oregon Scholars are Barbara Wilt, Patricia Lowe, Ted Barton and Roxanne Mason.

Aides Help Mexican - Americans

Teaching Mexican-American homemakers about food buying, nutrition, meal planning and food preparation is a new venture being undertaken by these six Nyssa area women. Eva Castellanoz, Juanita Lassiter, Judy Martinez, Helen Orocco, Betty Yuegas, and Lupe Grimaldo, shown above, are employed as aides with Oregon State University Cooperative Extension Service. Mrs. Grimaldo, serves as supervisor of the group. Before visiting homemakers in the area the aides took part in a three week training period conducted by Helen Conner, Malheur County Agent. The aides continue to attend a training session each week. The Expanded Foods and Nutrition Program was originated because of the recent National concern that many families were eating more poorly balanced diet today than ten years ago. Other areas of Oregon with an Expanded Foods and Nutrition Program in process are Portland, Yamhill and Lane Counties and the Umatilla Indian Reservation.

During the first month aides visited with nearly 90 families in the Nyssa area. Mexican-American homemakers in the Nyssa area who would like to have an aide visit may call 372-3774.

Volunteers are also needed to work with youth as well as homemakers. Volunteers are asked to call Helen Conner at 889-9129.
