

Letter to the Editor

Editor, The Journal:
I thought this letter would be of interest to our readers. It was written by Robert D. Abercrombie, of Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. David Parra: I am a school teacher here in Los Angeles, and have had the honor and privilege of becoming acquainted with your youngest son, Salvador. We have become good friends.

Wednesday evening, April 15, Salvador saved by life, for which I shall be forever grateful. I wish to express my appreciation to you for the fine job you have done in raising such a fine son. He could not have developed into the fine gentleman that he is without the care and guidance of a wonderful home and family. You have good reason to be very proud of Salvador, as well as Vincent, Mario, Carlos, David and Angie. Salvador truly lived up to his name. I want you to know you have provided one of the finest persons I have ever met: a genuine asset to his home and country.

It is my sincere hope and wish that he will go on to college. In order to make my appreciation into more than words, I have promised him to help in every way that I can. I will guarantee that Salvador has the money necessary to get through college. In my view, he has already earned the opportunity to develop himself to the fullest extent of his capacity and abilities. I would consider it an honor and privilege to assist him entering whatever career or profession he might select. He has already earned it, and this is one little way I can repay him.

Very truly yours,
Robert D. Abercrombie
