6th GRADERS ENJOY SUCCOR CREEK FIELD TRIP

The sixth grade classes of Mrs. Hazel Lane and Mrs. Dorothy Wilson went on a geology trip to Succor Creek May 13. We were accompanied by Shorty Brandt, Mrs. Brandt and Bill Marostica, who served as our guides. Marcella Lowe and Clayton Jensen were the bus drivers.

We boarded the buses about 9:15 and during the long ride we sang songs we know. We arrived at the creek about 10:15 and there we crossed in pick-ups that the two men had taken. Then we hiked until we reached the thundersite. We found as many thundersites as we wanted. Many of the students said this was their first time to find a thundersite. Some of us found geodes. A geode is an imperfect thundersite.

At noon we started back through the gorge, to camp. The gorge was very narrow and full of boulders and had a running brook that was ice cold. When we reached camp the mothers and teachers had a fire going, ready for us to cook our lunch. Some of us had foil dinners, others had wieners and marshmallows or a sack lunch. After eating, a slight incident occurred, one of the students fell into the creek.

We left the camp site and went to the fossil beds. Some were not as lucky as I was. (Jimmy Shimomeada) Most of them went back without any fossils. We were so busy hunting fossils we failed to notice the sky, which had grown considerably dark. It was a big rain cloud and it was slightly raining when we boarded the buses. The rain increased as we drove back, but it eased to a drizzle by the time we sighted the outskirts of Nyssa.

We arrived on the school grounds about 2:40 and went to our rooms to discuss our trip. We think the field trip was a good one, even though the rain cut it short. Mothers that helped chaperone were: Mmes. Lyle Miner, Rod Holcomb, Adam Focht, Bill Farmer, Don Savage, Shell Osborn, Irvin Durfee, Cecil Bair, Roscoe Tanner and Bill Wahlert.
