VETERANS LOANS NOT AVAILABLE UNTIL SEPTEMBER

The Department of Veterans' Affairs has announced that all its available loan funds are committed to applications on hand. As a result, according to H. C. Saalfeld, director, veterans applying for loans from May 11 on will be informed that funds may not be available until mid-September.

The veterans' department reached the constitutional limit of bonds it could insure when it sold $17 million worth in early April. Saalfeld said he expects to pick up another $38 million in bonding authority in August based on this year's new, higher true cash value of all taxable property in Oregon. A bond sale will be scheduled based on that, according to Saalfeld.

The department as of May 11 had 2,350 loan applications in process, with funds committed to these applications in excess of $34 million.

Veterans who apply for loans starting May 11 will be informed immediately that funds will not be available for their applications until about September 15, and that the availability of funds at that time will be subject to the sale of bonds.

Saalfeld said that if Measure 5 on the November general election ballot receives a favorable vote, it will give the department authority to issue another $185 million in loan bonds to help meet the demands on the program.

Veterans have been applying for state veterans' loans at the rate of more than 800 a month this year, and loans have average over $10 million a month.
