30 YEARS AGO

Moments of local historical value were found in the corner stone of the Methodist Church that was destroyed by fire Saturday. Two copies of the Idaho Statesman, dated February 20-22, 1909. The issues carry the story of the laying of the corner stone. Other items of interest were the coming election in which former President Taft was a nominee and Oregon State Senate favored ownership of the railroad within the state. Also a copy of the NYSSA SUN, a fore runner of the NYSSA GATE CITY JOURNAL. It was published at that time by Tom Shaughnessy and also carried a story of the laying of the corner stone.

A well drill pulled in Monday and is now drilling a well for Frank Parker. Frank has always had to be one of the first ones to have to start hauling water after the canal goes dry. Us fellows in upper Cow Hollow are all eagerly watching to see what kind of water he will get.

First and Third Streets and Reece Ave. in Nyssa were given a treatment of oil on Monday. The city "dads" are to be congratulated for making this fine improvement.

50 YEARS AGO

The fellow who says that the people in Nyssa are not public spirited can scare up an argument with P.M. Warren. Mr. Warren started out to raise money for a city park and secured pledges amounting to $1500 in a couple of hours. That Nyssa needs a park is not open to argument. In fact it is about the only town in the West without one or more. Get behind the spirit and boost for a city park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Boydell returned the first of the week from their old home in Eastern Canada, after several weeks absence, during which time they visited the principal cities in Eastern Canada. They returned by way of Canadian Pacific to Vancouver B.C., and through Seattle, Wash. The train that immediately preceded them on the Canadian Pacific was held up by robbers. Fearing their train would also be held up, they hid their money in a safe place, however they were not molested.

60 YEARS AGO

Last Tuesday morning the city was surprised with a fire. The building occupied by J.J. Scott and Al Green was razed to the ground very suddenly. The real cause unknown but it is surmised the fire started from a faulty flu in the kitchen.

Don't wait until winter to get your coal. Now is the time. Rock Springs Coal, $7.50 per ton, Empire Lumber Co.

Great things doing on Main St. last week. The Nyssa Real Estate Co. scrubbed out their office. Real estate must have taken a jump.

Work Smarter - Not Harder

Polyester double knits, hardly a factor in home sewing only two years ago, have had a meteoric rise in popularity. But fashion-conscious seamstresses often are puzzled by conflicting instructions on how to sew with these new fabrics. Most frequent questions concern the kind of thread to use, and whether special kinds of stitching are required for smooth, strong seams. Research by a graduate student in home economics at Oregon State University has provided some answers.

Mrs. Carol Ann Ashley, a clothing and textiles major, performed tests on three kinds of thread -- mercerized cotton, core-spun polyester/cotton, and bonded nylon monocord. She judged them for their strength and elasticity in seams. Polyester/cotton thread rated best in both qualities. Mercerized cotton scored second in strength, resisting breaking better than the nylon thread.

In its stretchability, however, nylon took second place. To determine the best kind of stitching for the new fabric, Mrs. Ashley used a breaking strength machine to compare points where the thread broke and seams pulled apart. In general, she found, seams stitched with an elastic stitch were the last to break. An elastic stitch is a triple lockstitch in which the sewing machine takes two stitches forward, followed by one stitch back. Lockstitch, with the material being stretched as it was sewn, rated second in producing strong seams. Lockstitch is the most common stitch on home sewing machines.

Zigzag stitching, Mrs. Ashley found, was generally less satisfactory than either elastic or lockstitch in producing strong seams. SENIOR CITIZEN ACTIVITIES Nyssa Senior Citizens entertained approximately 25 members of the Emmett Senior Citizens group Wednesday evening at the basement of the Nyssa Methodist Church. Music was furnished by members of the Nyssa group.

Merry Widow Club Stages Cook Out Members of the Merry Widows club held a "cook out" Sunday at the home of Mrs. Tom Johnson. Hostesses for the affair were Harriet Warren, Alice Neiger, Bertha Rudelick and Mrs. Johnson. Guests attending were Mable Piercy and Bernice Toombs. Mrs. Johnson's daughter, Mrs. Pat Sweaney and two sons of Caldwell well spent the day with her mother and enjoyed the "cook out." Three tables of pinocle were in play. Next meeting will be held Saturday, August 22, with time and place to be announced later.

CLUB MEMBERS MEET AT McCALL Members of the Samba Club left Nyssa at 8 o'clock Friday morning, to spend the day at McCall. They were brunch guests at the summer cabin of Mrs. Alta Stunz. Later they toured the Charley Davidson Gardens where various varieties of lilies were in bloom and also picked huckleberries. They had lunch at Shore Lodge in the afternoon and returned home that evening. Those making the trip were Mmes. Tom Eldredge, Shorly Brandt, Fred Guthrie, Gordon Oxnam and S.P. Bybee.
