SUGAR BEET GROWERS

Sugar Beet Growers Associations failed to reach agreement with Amalgamated Sugar Company on a contract for the 1971 crop of sugar beets at a meeting of representatives of the sugar beet growers associations of the three states of Oregon, Idaho and Utah, held at Twin Falls Aug. 12, 1970.

A Resolution was unanimously adopted to notify the sugar beet growers of these three states that the Amalgamated Sugar Company rejected the Associations' proposal which would provide some additional income to partially offset the higher cost of production.
