Legion Aims Outlined

World peace is one of the principal objectives of the half-century old American Legion which will hold its national convention in Portland August 28-Sept. 3.

The preamble to the Legion's constitution, written by young war veterans shortly after World War I, define its purposes as:

- To uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States;
- To maintain law and order;
- To foster and perpetuate 100 per cent Americanism, to preserve the memories of our associations in the great war;
- To develop a sense of individual obligation to the community, state and nation;
- To combat the autocracy of the classes and the masses;
- To make right the master of might;
- To promote peace and good will on earth;
- To safeguard and transmit to posterity the principles of justice, freedom and democracy;
- To consecrate and sanctify our comradeship by our devotion to mutual helpfulness.

The Legion has waged war on several fronts -- against illiteracy, rheumatic fever, heart disease, mental illness and in behalf of an improved educational system, child welfare, rehabilitation of disabled veterans, veterans benefits. It conducts many youth programs.

National security is a prime goal of the Legion.

Building Our Communities

In every sector of America, concerned young people are saying, "Let us play an active role in America's future." Future Farmers of America (FFA) members will be doing just that in the coming year as they participate in a new community action program recently announced by the National FFA organization headquartered in Washington, D.C. Theme of the FFA program is "Building Our American Communities".

Announcement of the "Building Our American Communities" effort was made at a recent Capitol Hill breakfast attended by State FFA Presidents and their Congressmen and Senators. In announcing the program, Harry Birdwell, National FFA President said, "The 'Building Our American Communities' program is a challenge to young people to show their concern for America by getting actively involved in their communities."

"As we view America's future, it becomes more evident that rural America must offer a solution to problems of congested urban centers," said Birdwell, a native of rural Oklahoma. "The answer," he continued, "is to make rural and semi-rural areas more attractive places in which to live and work by providing jobs, adequate housing and good municipal facilities."

The "Building Our American Communities" program is a joint effort of the FFA, the U.S. Office of Education and the Farmers Home Administration, an agency of the U.S.D.A. The FFA developed and is distributing an instructional booklet titled "Guide to Understanding and Developing Communities." The guide is for use by high school vocational agriculture teachers as a course outline in community development.

Lilly Endowment, Inc., of Indianapolis, Indiana, is sponsoring the "Building Our American Communities" program through the National FFA Foundation, Inc. More than 5000 awards are available to FFA chapters which use their classroom knowledge in projects to improve their communities.

The FFA is an organization for high school vocational agriculture students who are studying for jobs both on the farm and in agribusiness, Birdwell explained. Because we are engaged in training students for agricultural occupations we feel that every rural community must strive to have more jobs available for young people. In addition, communities must provide a healthy, attractive environment in which to live, he said.

FFA members have a stake in the future of their communities, Birdwell emphasized, pointing out that through their experiences in leadership, citizenship and cooperation, FFA members have the background necessary to take the lead in making their communities better places in which to live and work.

More than 800 sophomore cadets, under the supervision of seniors and Regular Army officers, are participating in the eight-week course which is designed to acquaint them with all phases of leadership at the platoon level. ARMY OFFERS GOURMET TRAINING

For those young, would-be "Galloping Gourmets" and future Escoffiers, Army food Service Schools offer the opportunity for training in the preparation of meals. For a while it may be a cliché that "an army travels on its stomach," a good cook is worth his weight in sirlin steak, medium rare, with a generous covering of mushrooms and sauce.

After eight weeks of basic training, mandatory for every soldier, another eight weeks of Advanced Individual Training follows at one of the following U.S. Army Training Centers for food handlers: Fort Knox, Ky., Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., Fort Dix, N. J., Fort Ord, Calif., and Fort Polk, La.

Designed to instruct the potential cook in the preparation of small or large quantities of food, courses include the use of standard Army recipes and cooking equipment, cooking time and temperatures required for preparing various foods, means for utilizing leftovers, and sanitary precautions and principles of meat cutting.

For further information on this and any other of a number of fields open to young men and women in today's modern Army, see Sgt. John Matthews at Ontario. His hours are from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., weekdays, and from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturdays. He'll be glad to help you.

Governor McKay officially opened the 41st edition of the Malheur County Fair. At the grounds, Gov. McKay delivered a short talk from a hay wagon and was presented with a sack of onions by Neil Hoffman, fair superintendent, in behalf of the Malheur County onion growers. While waiting to be introduced, the governor sat on a bale of hay on the low slung wagon.

All school buses, operated by the Thompson Oil Co., for Nyssa High and Grade Schools are equipped with safety glass, despite the action in postponing the requiring for one year.

Two cases of infantile paralysis have been reported. The first was the 10 year old daughter of H.L. Fisher. The second, Marion Osborne, son of Mr. and Mrs. W.W. Osborne. The families are taking care of the youngsters with each being warned by the health authorities not to go out in public except to get necessary food supplies.

The Sunshine Club of Arcadia and several friends enjoyed a watermelon feed on the lawn of Bill Hipps. There were five hundred pounds of watermelon and three crates of musk melons.

Golden Cards for Senior Citizens

OUT OF THE PAST

10 YEARS AGO

Several emergency cases at Malheur Memorial Hospital kept staff busy. They were treated and released in good condition. Mrs. Fred Keller, Parma, stepped on a piece of glass while swimming in the Snake River. Gene Williams, Parma, had a finger amputated after getting it caught in a hay baler. Larry Maples, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Maples, Parma, had a fishhook removed from his nose. Jackie Olsen, 6, son of Dr. and Mrs. Olsen, required several stitches on the back of his left leg after falling on a sharp object. Mrs. Merle Griffiths, Nyssa, was mowing her lawn when the rotary mower threw a sharp object cutting her leg.

A new bridge is being constructed across the Snake River to Gamel Island. The bridge being erected by Joe Albertson of Boise and will replace the water-powered ferry. Two years ago Albertson constructed a lodge on the tract of land for use by family and friends.

20 YEARS AGO

Hundreds of youngsters of Nyssa vicinity are preparing to participate in the Kid's Day activities, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce. Cash prizes will be given children entering the parade. Games and races will be staged at the park under the direction of Bernard Eastman and Howard Lovejoy. A free picture show will be started at the Nyssa Theater at 3:30 for the children.

40 YEARS AGO

At their home in Salem, August 24, Mrs. Gene Vaughn Beutler and Mrs. Clara Baughn, gave a wedding dinner commemorating Mrs. Beutler's brother-in-law, Ralph and his bride, formerly Miss Verna Thompson of Nyssa. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beutler, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Vaughn, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Thompson, Herschal Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Beutler, Mrs. A.S. Vaughn and Mrs. Clara Vaughn Thompson.

St. Paul's Guild members of the Episcopal Sunday School, enjoyed a picnic in the Memorial Park at Caldwell Wednesday, about sixty-five were present.

50 YEARS AGO

Taken from a letter aviator Don Davis wrote to his mother while on forest fire patrol:

If I live to be one hundred and ten I never expect to see anything more beautiful than I saw today.

We flew west from Medford over the Rogue River Valley, skirted the edge of the Northern Siskiyou, turned north up the Coast Range. We edged west and at Coos Bay we were right on the coast. The sun was just going down behind a bank of clouds about one hundred miles out on the Pacific, we could see two steamers. Far below us stretching in a long line were white breakers -- the panorama of Coos Bay, forest of the Coast Range, the brownish yellow of the valley country and farther east the Cascades.

I counted the peaks I could see, they were Mt. Adams, Mt. Hood, Mt. Jefferson, Three Sisters, Diamond Peak, Crater Lake Peaks, Mt. Pitt and Mt. Shasta. From 12,000 feet the visibility was wonderful. I shall never forget this afternoon.

W.G. Jenkins has just received a shipment of prune boxes and will begin packing and shipping of his prunes the 20th of the week. He will ship 20 carloads from his 160 acre orchard.

Old Fort Boise Sign Planned

As the Parma community again prepares to celebrate Old Fort Boise days, area residents are once again reminded of historical events which shaped the settlement of the Northwest. The final site of Old Fort Boise is located on the Snake River in the Apple Valley community and residents of this area, encountering harassed tourists in search of Old Fort Boise, have felt the need for more explicit information concerning the historical site and demise of the old fort. Because of this apparent need, proceeds from a cooked food sale and ice-cream parlor have been pledged to the purchase or construction of a permanent sign depicting the site and history of Old Fort Boise.

Everyone is invited to enter the cooked food contest. There will be cash prizes for first place winners and ribbons for two and secondary winners. Two divisions are planned, an adult division and a special division for aspiring teen-age cooks. Entries from all area residents are welcome. Judges for the event are Mrs. Pauline Norberg, Mrs. Roger Reynolds, and Mrs. T.A. Dalley. Categories for judging are cakes, pies, yeast breads, and cookies. All entries should be at the Parma Community House by nine a.m. Saturday, August 29. Food other than prize winning entries will be on sale all day Saturday at the community house, and prize-winning entries will be auctioned off Saturday evening.

An ice-cream parlor featuring home-made ice-cream will be in the park with other food booths. Anyone wishing to donate either ice-cream, milk or cream should contact Lizzie Sells, Phone 722-6320.
