Crossbred Livestock Topic Of Meeting

The science of crossbreeding livestock will be the topic of a discussion led by Dr. Ralph Bogart, geneticist from Oregon State University, January 21, 1971 from 1:00 - 3:30 p.m. at the lounge in the TVCC Administration Building, according to George Bain, Malheur County Extension Agent.

Bogart will cover the importance of planning your crossbreeding program, use of crossbred heifers as replacements, and heritability of various characteristics, Bains says.

The meeting is open to all interested livestock producers. Many producers now doing some crossbreeding in their cattle are asking themselves "Where do I go from here?" Bain feels confident Dr. Bogart can help answer their questions.
