WAHTONKA BEATS NYSSA, 58-51

Suffering their first defeat in four starts, the Nyssa Bulldogs lost to Wahtonka Friday night by a 58-51 score. Republicans Call For Freeze Sen Citizen Tax

Republican members of the House of Representatives have adopted position papers calling for a freeze on property taxes for senior citizens and for a national Constitutional Convention to tackle the question of federal revenue sharing with the states.

House Speaker Robert F. Smith, R-Burns, said Republicans would introduce and support these measures in the 1971 Legislature.

Smith said GOP House members believe "that the first priority for property tax relief is the absolute need to provide meaningful relief for Oregon's senior citizens."

"Inflation steals from everyone, young and old alike, but it hurts especially those elderly Oregonians who live on pensions or other fixed incomes."

The great majority of our senior citizens constitute a strong and independent part of our society. They are people who desire only the opportunity to exercise their own individual initiative and abilities."

Smith said that the property tax relief program to be pursued by House Republicans would not be limited to senior citizen relief. He said, however, that property tax relief must be achieved through existing revenues, and not dependent upon a broad-based increase in taxes. House Republicans, Smith said, "do not seek to make older Oregonians the recipients of perpetual charity, but rather to enable them to live healthy lives, in dignity, in independence and in security."

The Republican position on revenue sharing cited the "hazards" involved in a Constitutional Convention, but said that the action "is necessary to call to the attention of Congress the absolute urgency of meaningful and substantial federal action."

The Republicans, Smith said, believe that any Convention should be limited specifically to the question of revenue sharing.
