LOCAL AGENT RECEIVES AWARD

Life insurance specialist Rex C. Tolman, representative of Mutual of New York in Nyssa, was commended for outstanding sales performance during a recent meeting of Mutual of New York's national sales leaders in Miami, Fla.

Tolman was cited by James S. Bingay, executive vice-president, in recognition of his membership in the "Presidents Council," MONY's leading sales honor organization, composed of the top 6% of the company's 4,800-man national field force.

The week-long business and educational conference featured seminars covering group pension and insurance programming, health insurance plans for individuals and groups, and policyholder service programs.

Folk Dancers To Give Concert On April 3

The Oregon State University Promenaders will perform in a folk dance concert April 3 at the Treasure Valley Community College gymnasium. The theme of the concert is "Around the World in 80 Minutes".

The group is appearing in this area upon invitation by Holly Johnson, Malheur County Extension Home Economist and a former member of the group. According to Miss Johnson, the folk dancing company is three years old. It is composed of sixteen students with various majors, none of which are Physical Education. It is an extracurricular activity. The advisor for the group is Miss Irma Weir, Professor Physical Education at OSU.

The folk dancing group will present a variety of dances. These will include American, Scandinavian, Mexican, and Austrian.

A workshop is slated for that same day in the afternoon from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m. Eighteen teachers will be on hand to teach dances that are new to Malheur County. The workshop is open to anyone who would like to learn some folk dances. No experience is necessary.

At 9:30 p.m., following the concert, there will be a requested session. There is no planned program for this portion. Requests from the individuals in attendance will form the program. Participants will be able to choose from approximately 500 dances. The dances will range from free-waltz or polka to very difficult Bulgarian Kolos. No teaching will be done at this time. The requested session will continue as long as people dance.

Miss Johnson added that this is entertainment for the whole family to enjoy, and that there is no admission charge for any part of the programs.

The OSU Promenaders are presented in cooperation with the Oregon State University Extension Service.

Cafeteria Personnel Attend OSF Meeting

Mrs. Dick Butcher, Mrs. Alice Bergam, Mrs. Ben Storm, Mrs. Glenn Brown and Mrs. Amy Stradley returned Wednesday after spending five days attending the Oregon School Food Service Association session in Astoria. Hosts to the affair were Seaside, Gearhart and Astoria with lectures, exhibits and programs held in Astoria and the banquet climaxed the session held in Gearhart.

Over 500 cooks from the Oregon schools attended the affair and especially enjoyed the exhibits in the Astoria school gymnasium. Here the cooks could see foods of every description on display, demonstrations on new ways of preparation and equipment used in work pertaining to the school cafeteria program was also demonstrated.

Highlighting the program was the talk and film presented by the featured speaker who was the head of all the Milwaukee school cafeterias. By showing films he could easily stress the Do's and Don'ts he had experienced in his school programs.

They now have frozen dinners for cafeteria use and these

Gov. McCall Urges Knowledge Of Cancer

Gov. Tom McCall has urged Oregonians to learn more about cancer during the American Cancer Society's April crusade, stating that "one of America's most dangerous hidden threats is the mistaken belief that a diagnosis of cancer is always fatal."

"We must work to educate each other so that a much more hopeful condition prevails and will continue to improve," McCall stated, pointing out that there are more than 1 1/2 million Americans alive today who have been cured of cancer.

He reported that 1 out of 3 cancer patients is cured today compared to 1 out of 5 25 years ago, and stressed that the cure rate could be improved to 1 out of 2 if patients were diagnosed early and properly treated.

"To achieve this, we need only to follow the advice of the American Cancer Society: have an annual physical check-up and learn the seven warning signals of cancer," McCall said.

The governor urged all Oregonians to join the "great life-saving effort" of the society by joining in the educational programs and providing needed financial support.

Little Things

By Harriet V. Turner

When God created our world,
He knew the whims of mortal man.
So he gave us all the little things,
To gladden each moment in our life's span.
The patter of little baby feet,
Rapture of the first sweet smile.
A knock on our door, when we need a friend,
Each makes our day more worth while.

Blue of the sky, ever-greening lawn,
Blooming roses where the robins call.
Red in the east at break of dawn,
Riots of many colors in the fall.
Trees so shapely for artists to see,
As only God can make a tree.
Nature has painted a picture grand,
Made by the "MASTERS" artistic hand.

Out there in the cool woodland glade,
Our loved ones gather with us there.
We spread our picnic lunch in the shade,
And breathe the pungent tangy air.
Landscapes resplendent in color and hue,
Makes life's little things, pass in review.
There's ants in the butter, bugs in our kool-aid,
Our music is free----the frogs serenade.

Close by in the meadow,
Young lambs frolic and play.
From a carpet of emerald,
A mare and foal, gallop away.
We listen to the constant honking,
Of the wild geese in their flight.
As in a perfect V formation,
They fly onward day and night.

Out in the desert rocky and bare,
We wonder why flowers are blooming there.
Unseen, they flaunt their colors high,
A vision of beauty, to the chance passer by.
Heaven seems a little closer,
In the sunsets brilliant glow.
Fleecy clouds form into patterns,
Like winter's mantle of ice and snow.

Words tumble in a maze of confusion,
As we attempt in rhyme to tell,
Some of life's beautiful little things,
We enjoy and know so well.
Each day is a new challenge,
Every moment a precious pearl.
Often lost in the Tumult,
Of our day's unending whirl.

If we were given one single wish,
We might use each passing day.
We would bow our heads in humbleness,
And earnestly we would pray.
As we pass along our earthly life,
Lord open our eyes to enjoy and see,
All of the beautiful little things,
Created in love ---- for you and me.
