In Memoriam

In Memory of our Beloved Son and Brother Ralph E. Capper

Although two years have passed Dear Ralph, Since that fatal day -- To us it seems so very long, But that must be God's way.

We have our beautiful memories, Ralph. Time can't erase from us. It's a comfort knowing your safe in the arms Of our precious Savior "Jesus" --Mr. and Mrs. Percy Capper Mr. and Mrs. Earl (Charlotte) Briles

TAKE A TIP

Ten Steps to Total Living Step 1. Awake each day with the awareness of God (Jesus is alive, relevant to this age, is involved with His creation and He loves you.) Step 2. Discard any notions about God you may have formed that are contrary to His written Word. Meditate on His Word at the beginning of your daily schedule.

Step 3. Remember, God is the sure Rewarder of those who diligently call upon Him, and your calling will not be in vain. Step 4. As a mark of special honor to Jesus as Creator and Source Of All Life And Goodness, remember His Holy Day (the 7th day of the week) in reverence and holiness.

Step 5. In every way possible, contribute to the spiritual, physical and emotional upgrading of all parents (especially your own) Take time for family-centered recreation.

Step 6. If any violent or hurtful impulses invade your mind against any person, think how you may encourage that one. Dispel their despair with living hope.

Step 7. Let your sexual hunger be fully satisfied with your own mate and there will be no condemnation in this area of your life.

Step 8. You will find it is always more rewarding to build, create and work for the material things you may want.

Step 9. Let your words be true and your life will be one continual song of truth and purity.

Step 10. Always strive to seek out God's attitude toward the things that fall across your pathway and you will see a miracle in your life.

AFS Students Visit Nyssa

Nyssa has been host to 36 young people from all over the world for the past three days, as they travel home after spending the past year in the United States. They are foreign exchange students in the American Field Service (AFS) program.

It is an honor to host an AFS bus stop, and it is evidence of the active program carried on here for the past twelve years. An important part of the student's year in the U.S. is the bus trip back to the East Coast before they depart for their respective homes. It is a chance for them to see different parts of this country, to visit both the small and large cities across the land; but probably most important, to compare notes and reflect on their year with us in the United States.

This particular group of students has spent their year in California cities, and presumably they will go home with a greater knowledge of the U.S., and a better understanding of our people. We in turn should have a better understanding of them, and one has only to spend a few minutes with these young people to realize that they are pretty much like our own and that the world is really pretty small.

Study the pictures on the front page and check the countries that are home to these young people. Afghanistan, Argentina, Australia, Ecuador, Dominican Republic, Ghana, Indonesia, Laos, Thailand, Denmark, and other countries throughout Europe, Africa, Asia and Central and South America. What unusual names and far-away places, and yet through world-wide communication and education and enlightened understanding we are all pretty much alike. Races, colors, backgrounds seem to lose their identification when we are all thrown in the same pot and stirred around a little.

This is the purpose of AFS. We in Nyssa have enjoyed students from around the world, and those of us who have been associated with them are better for the association. This year, for the first time, we have been able to send one of our students abroad. Jan Saito is now in Sweden, and will come home at the end of the summer with a better knowledge of the world to pass on to her classmates. Paula Ramirez has just left Nyssa for her home in Chile after a year here, and we will soon know who the student for the next school year is to be.

This is an exciting and rewarding program. Many of us have profited from the experience, some have taken it for granted, and some are ignoring it. Financed by the students and interested people in the community, we think it is worth some participation on the part of all.

In the meantime, the students and two chaperones have enjoyed their stay in Nyssa. Several have opened their homes to them for a few days, and this brief association has established a new relationship and friendship that will last for a long time. We wish them well on their journey home.

INDEPENDENCE DAY July 4

Mr. and Mrs. Boston receive a "weather station" plaque from Idaho Power's Cal Bowen for having the ten thousandth all-electric home.

When the Herman Bostons of Nampa changed to flameless electric heat recently, theirs became the 10,000th

ELECTRIC HEAT HOME
SERVED BY IDAHO POWER COMPANY

The Boston home, 234 Smith Avenue, Nampa.

"Our electric baseboards warm up in a hurry," say the Bostons.

Would you like electric heat facts?

Like Mr. and Mrs. Boston, many people are guessing too high about the cost to change to flameless electric heat. You can get full information without obligation, and planning assistance, by calling your local Idaho Power office.

Families served by Idaho Power Company are rapidly catching on to "the economy of energy-conserving, non-polluting, total electric living. In October of 1968 the 5000th all-electric home came on the lines. Now, less than three years later, comes the 10,000th! People everywhere love the comfort and convenience of electric heat, which is virtually 100% efficient and adds no contaminants to the air, inside or out, using only electricity... the clean energy for a neater, nicer world.

"We used to think electric heat was only for rich people."

"Our heating system was smoky and dirty, and a nuisance to take care of," say the Bostons. "We had to wash the venetian blinds every time we turned around. When we finally asked about electric heat, we found it would cost about half as much as we thought to install, about the same as other types to operate. We know we're going to be really satisfied."
