DECORATIONS OF INDEPENDENCE

Decorate with sheets

Eliminating gloom from a room is a lot easier today thanks to new fabrics that have come to the aid of designing women. Let's explore the decor.

The triumph of mind over matter is exemplified in a girl's room that is more than a bedroom. A floral sheet is used as the central motif in this boudoir-bedroom. The softly feminine print is used to decorate one wall, to cover a vanity stool, and as a dust ruffle and bedspread for a canopy bed. The solid color border of the sheet is edged in lace; it forms a ready-made border for the dust ruffle and the canopy, eliminating the need for hemming. The coverlet is quilted to give it the necessary body.

The room becomes a place for the girl to study, to relax, to entertain her young friends... and the prettier it is, the happier she will be in it. For those with a little ability with a needle and a touch of imagination, a charming room can be produced easily and inexpensively.

On the wall, plain wooden shelves are hung from chains and serve for storage as well as for decoration. Attractive light-weight baskets in varied shapes are also used for storage, eliminating the need for expensive built-ins. Floor cushions and throw pillows on the bed are covered with sheared terry. They zip on and off and launder easily. Cotton carpeting complements the furniture.

In another room, one for teens, sheets can take the place of bedspreads, saving money, and avoiding decorating problems.

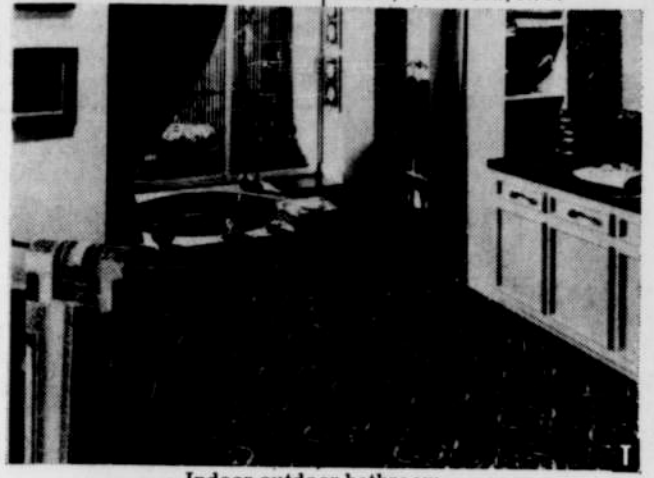

In easy-to-care for blends and deep colors, sheets now also function as bedspreads. This is a great boon to mothers of not-so-neat teens because the whole thing goes into the washing machine and doesn't need ironing. The same is true of the "Velux" blanket on the bed. It is made of foam and looks luxurious thanks to the nylon flocking, but it's machine washable.

Bathrooms needn't look washed out. There is an easy transition from the inside to the outside of one large bathroom which functions as an adjunct to the patio adjoining it. The plush printed carpeting, which simulates a Mediterranean tile pattern, offers easy care and the complete glamour of ancient Roman baths. "Geometric" towels highlight this new bathing spa. They reflect the simplicity and more subtle approach toward jacquard weaves which is so much in keeping with today's design needs.

Cabin Crafts carpeting features a printed pattern and a rubber backing. The towels are available in five different designs each in four color combinations.

Sliding glass doors offer easy access to the patio, where, after a bath or shower, you can take a sunbath. Or have lunch or chat with a friend. All of these fabrics, including carpeting, towels and sheets, are made by WestPoint Pepperell and are part of the leisure revolution of the 70s. Free booklets entitled "How to Decorate Your Closet" and "How to Decorate with Sheets" are available by writing to WestPoint Pepperell, P.R. Department, 111 West 40th Street, New York, N.Y.

Pendleton Round-Up Plans Sept. 11 Opening

The 1971 Pendleton Round-Up President, Bob Hales, Adams, has announced that the Round-Up season will officially open with the Dress-Up Parade to be held Saturday, September 11, in downtown Pendleton. Sponsored by the Main Street Cowboys, the colorful parade draws spectators, as well as participants and floats, from surrounding communities. The parade precedes the first of the Happy Canyon dances, the Cowboy Shuffle, in the Pendleton Memorial Armory. The 1971 Round-Up and Happy Canyon dates are September 15-18.

The opening performance of the Round-Up is at 1:15 p.m., Wednesday, September 15 and the four-day event is expected to be as good, if not better, than it has been in the past 60 years of its history. Included on this year's program will be the six Rodeo Cowboy's Association approved events plus an exciting wild cow milking contest, a wild horse race, various horse and stagecoach races, and Indian tribal dancing.

Queen Patti Healy, Heppner, and Princesses Judy Purchase, Pendleton, Jeri Krebs, Cecil, Brenda Rieco, Prairie City, and Teri Thompson, Adams, will reign over the festivities. Following the Wednesday afternoon performance will be a beef barbecue in the Round-Up arena, a family plan package sponsored by Pendleton service clubs. Thursday's Round-Up activities open with a Junior American Indian beauty contest held at Roy Raley Memorial Park; Friday morning the American Indian beauty contest is judged and the Westward Ho! parade is held, both prior to the 1:15 Round-Up. The Main Street Cowboys' show is Friday and Saturday nights in downtown Pendleton on Main street, which is roped off to exclude motor vehicle traffic immediately following the Friday morning parade. Saturday is the finals of the Round-Up and the naming of the All-Around Cowboy. Complementing the Round-Up is a nightly Happy Canyon pageant. Indians from throughout the Pacific Northwest attend the Round-Up each year and as many as 2000 camp in the Red Man's Village behind the Round-Up arena. Wes Grille, Pageant director, has estimated that some 500 Indians take part in the four night shows. Happy Canyon is an historical extravaganza about the coming of Lewis and Clark and the Corps of Discovery and ending with an hilarious wild west show. Immediately following the two-hour long pageant there will be entertainment in the Pendleton Memorial Armory which becomes, for a short four nights, the gambling hall and dance pavilion of Happy Canyon. Billed as the nation's No. 1 western swing band, Hank Thompson and the Brazos Valley Boys will be featured. The action-packed four-day western program is held annually during the second week of September in the Round-Up grounds where there is a seating capacity for approximately 16,000 spectators.

About 175,000 widows of veterans who died of service-connected disabilities and 65,000 wives of veterans totally disabled in service are eligible for educational benefits.

It's been so hot I didn't have the heart to use anything that took time and wasn't cool. This is a favorite with me and my gang because it sets up in a jiffy and the flavor is superb. Be sure to follow the recipe exactly, use BOILING WATER and add the raspberries carefully to preserve their shape. The interesting part of this recipe is that you can either serve it as a dessert or with chicken salad at a luncheon. RASPBERRY RING DESSERT 1 - 10 oz. pkg. frozen red raspberries, thawed 2 - 3 oz. pkg. red raspberry flavored gelatin 2 cups boiling water 1 pint vanilla ice cream 1 - 6 oz. can (3/4 cup) frozen lemonade concentrate Dissolve gelatin in boiling water. Add ice cream by spoonfuls, stirring until melted. Stir in lemonade and syrup. Chill until partially set. Add raspberries and juice. Pour into a 6-cup ring mold and chill until set. Makes 8 servings.
