Pulling Up Our Socks

A wage-price freeze policy has something in common with a sewage filtration plant: everybody agrees that it is a necessary thing, so long as it lands up in the other fellow's back yard.

Obviously no one is going to be happy at the prospect of having to forego a raise for 90 - and possibly more - days. Particularly not those unionized workers whose contracts have recently been renegotiated, but those whose pay boosts had not gone into effect before President Nixon ordered all wage and salary increases nullified.

While AFL-CIO President George Meany is doubtless overstating his case to assure his membership of his sympathies, he has some justification for complaining that President Nixon's 90-day wage-price freeze offers "a tax bonanza to American corporations at the expense of American workers."

That said, let us admit frankly that social justice is a goal worth striving for, but seldom if ever achieved. The very process of inflation, about which Mr. Meany has himself bitterly complained in the past and against which he has urged wage-price controls, is a horrendous example of social and economic injustice for which organized labor must carry its large share of the blame. In continually pushing for higher wages to meet higher prices, the American worker has heaped a heavy economic burden on the shoulders of his retired parents and others who must live on fixed incomes.

So when Mr. Meany complains that the President's plan is "patently discriminatory" against the working class, he must know in his heart as well as his head that the buck has to stop somewhere. And where it stops, someone is going to feel the crunch.

Mr. Meany will have opportunity to state his gripe about business tax concessions to Congress, whose province it is to approve or amend the President's tax proposals. Meanwhile, business also must hold back on price increases, just as labor must hold back on wage increases. General Motors and Ford Company have already rolled back their earlier-announced price hikes that would have averaged $200 on their 1972 models.

And many an importer with a shipload of goods on its way to the United States from Europe, Japan or elsewhere is groaning because of the 10 percent import surtax that the President has imposed, and no means of passing it along to the consumer.

In plain fact, the time has long gone past to talk about justice and equity in the matter of inflation control. The President has moved decisively to correct a runaway situation involving the most flagrant kind of economic injustice. The move is temporary, not permanent. Ninety days, or 180 days if necessary, is not an indeterminate sentence of suffering on wage earners who have felt the inflationary knife hacking away at their pay packets for the last five years.

The President has declared war on inflation, a homefront enemy far more palpable than some we have been fighting abroad. It is time for the nation - businessmen, stevedores, government employees and all others - to pull up their socks and accept the challenge. The end gains will far exceed the temporary setbacks.

CARD OF THANKS

THANK YOU!

The family of Theo Matherly wish to thank the doctors and nurses at Malheur Memorial for their thoughtfulness and care during the illness of our husband and father.

We wish to thank friends, neighbors and relatives who have taken the time to send cards and expressed their sympathy in many ways.

A special thanks to the women of Faith Lutheran Church and Pastor Knorr for the kindnesses shown to the family at this time.

—The Family of Theo Matherly

I would like to thank all my friends, neighbors and relatives for the cards, flowers and their visits during my recent confinement both in the hospital and at home.

—Charley Culbertson

CONSERVATIVE BAPTIST CHURCH

The closing program of the vacation Bible school at the Nyssa Baptist Church, N. Fourth and Locust, will begin at 8 p.m. Friday. The school and the program are directed by Miss Michael Wright from Oakland, Calif.

The most exciting part of the program for the students will be the announcement of contest winners. Parents and friends of the students will also appreciate the review of memory work, songs and stories.

This school has been conducted by college and high school young people from the Melrose Baptist Church in Oakland. Similar schools are being conducted in other Treasure Valley communities. The total number of 55 young people plus the adult supervisors will participate in a special rally for youth at the Bible Baptist Church in Payette Saturday night at 8 p.m. The young people form a choir that will be the center of the rally programs. All area youth are invited to attend.

Pastor Arthur Coats announced the topics for the Sunday services as follows: the 11 a.m. service, "The Defeated Life", explaining the causes and cures of spiritual depression; and the 7:30 p.m. service, "The Glory of God", a study of what that glory is and its significance for our lives.

Sunday School, which begins at 9:45 a.m., will observe Promotion Day with a special assembly. Special certificates will be presented to those who are being advanced to a higher class in school. Special recognition will also be given to Larry Meyer who was graduated from Nyssa High School this year and will be enrolled in Multnomah School of the Bible in Portland in September.

Another part of the special assembly will be the introduction of a new memory program for all ages and classes in the Sunday School and church. This will be a certificate program with awards given every two months of the six month program.

OUT OF THE PAST

10 YEARS AGO

A fireside court of honor was held Friday evening at Camp Billy Rice. It climaxed a week of activities for area Boy Scouts. Sid Tate, district officer presented badges.

Scouts of troop 410 and badges they received are Jerry Long, Paul House, David Nishitani and Ronald Skow, wild life management and nature; Steven Henigson, life saving; Dirk Tibbets and Jim Anderson, second class; Pat Savage, Tommy Stringer and Scott Douglas, first class. Axel Stephen and Bruce Sarazin worked on first class achievement.

Rifle range, hikes, chapel services, canoeing, sail and row boating, swimming skills and water contests were some of the activities the boys participated in during the week.

The local troupe, accompanied by Virgil Seward, returned home Saturday.

The latest member to join the Paul House family is Miss Leila Alampay from the Philippines. She will come to Nyssa as an AFS exchange student and will be a senior at Nyssa High during the coming school year.

20 YEARS AGO

Four local youths have received invitations to go to Hollywood for try-outs with the Pittsburgh Pirates baseball team.

The youths looked so good when they were given try-outs at Babe Herman's coaching school at Nampa they will be sent to Hollywood with all expenses paid. Branch Richey of the Pirates will be among those in attendance at the try-outs in Hollywood.

The boys, Jack Bowen, Dick Wilson and Floyd Hale of Nyssa and Bud Newbill of Adrian, will leave September 8 and will be in Hollywood for one week.

Miss Donna Lee Wilson and Miss Bonnie Ward returned Tuesday evening from the east. They went to Richmond, Virginia to attend a national Job's Daughters convention. They visited Robert E. Lee's home in Williamsburg. Lee is a cousin of Miss Wilson. They also visited Washington D.C. and Chicago.

30 YEARS AGO

John Ostrom, of Nyssa believes that Friday 15th holds as much terror as Friday 13th. This is what happened to him on a trip to Boise last Friday, returning here via Emmett.

Just east of Parma a farmer driving a car with a stock trailer attached dashed out across the highway causing John to clamp down on the brakes and grab for the emergency also. After recovering from this shock he proceeded to Boise only to have a truck smack the rear end of his car turning it completely around. Troubles come in threes so he wasn't disappointed when on his way to Emmett another truck headed for him and John and his car landed in a roadside ditch. He was sure that his troubles were at an end - but met with a truck on the way to Nyssa. This truck was dragging a long log chain and just as John was about to pass the chain snagged in the road causing it to lash toward his car narrowly missing his windshield. John says he is going to ride a bicycle on Fridays from now on.

Four carloads of bridge timbers and lumber for the wood work of the Nyssa free bridge across Snake River, together with one carload of steel, have been unloaded and hauled over to the bridge site.

The contract calls for the completion of the bridge in less than sixty days from the present time, and this will require the work of quite a crew of men when the work starts.

The water in the river is about its lowest stage, everything is favorable for rushing work of construction through just as soon as the materials all arrive.

St. Bridget's News

A pilgrimage led by the cross filed from the Adrian Labor camp to Our Lady of Guadalupe Church in Adrian last Monday. Over 30 persons participated in the pilgrimage and the Mass of Peace offered by Father Young. Prayers and hymns for peace and unity among men were offered by the congregation.

Teachers and helpers are now being signed up for the current year for Religious Education of the children of St. Bridget's Church. It is hoped to have the teachers and helpers assigned before Father Young leaves this coming Thursday. Father Young stressed to the congregation last Sunday, that we can not expect the young people to take an interest in the Faith, if the adults are not enough interested in it to have the time to share it by teaching or helping in the Religious Education program of St. Bridget's.

40 YEARS AGO

Nyssa's future was limited when Mr. and Mrs. C.V. Mitchell left this community 15 years ago to live in the east. The town was less than half its present size. Little was heard of the Owyhee Project, so huge an objective the project seemed. "It's like a dream come true to return at this time", said the Mitchells who are here with a view to relocating in this section. He is a farmer and before investing, plans to look over the new Owyhee lands.

Fair time is here, there's autumn in the air. It's neither too warm nor too cool. The weather is ideal for the 22nd annual Malheur County Fair opening in Ontario today for three day's show.

50 YEARS AGO

The old Ferryboat which has plied between the Port of Nyssa and Bridge Island for many years, sank to the bottom of Snake River one day last week, leaving the residents of the island marooned, save for the railroad bridge and row boats. The craft is old and weather-beaten but still serviceable and an effort will be made to raise her and put her in commission again.

Many people have noticed the orange bands on posts and telephone poles leading into Nyssa and have wondered thereof. A recent issue of the Capitol News explains the mystery.

C.B. Sampson, the well known music dealer of Boise, has hit on the happy idea of marking the road for motorists from Portland to Salt Lake by way of Boise, and the orange bands are his method of doing it, the road thus marked to be known as "Sampson's Trail". It is an ingenious method of advertising and will, at the same time, be appreciated by motorists.

60 YEARS AGO

Prof. White is in communication with some young people who are anxious to attend the Nyssa High School during the coming year and who desire to assist in paying their own way by some kind of employment.

If any family or business man in this city can use the services of a young man or woman about their home, premises or place of business, please notify Prof. White at once.

It speaks well for our high school to find young people willing and anxious to come and work for the privilege of attending it, and we hope our citizens will find employment for all who desire to come.

The Treasure Valley United Action Committee has signed a contract with the Indian Migrant Coalition of The Dalles, Oregon opening the way for a year round day care center in the Nyssa area. Applications are now available for those who wish to work in the program, and for families who wish to have their children participate in the program. The application forms are available at the Gate City Journal office. Anyone who wishes help in filling out the forms should come to St. Bridget's rectory between 2:00 and 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday where a volunteer will aid in filling out the forms.

A personnel committee established by the TVUAC will review all applications for work. It is planned to have on the job training for those who best fulfill the requirements for work in the program.

TVUAC Sign Contract For Day Care Center

The personnel committee established by the TVUAC will review all applications for work. It is planned to have on the job training for those who best fulfill the requirements for work in the program.

The present center is planning to receive 50 children in its initial program with hopes of expanding in the future.

TO THE LETTER

SECRETARY

HOW MANY WORDS CAN YOU MAKE FROM THIS WORD BELOW?

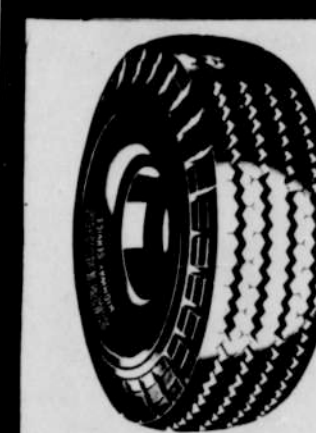

The secretary who means business, accomplishes much in the realm of word processing—the combination of procedures, personnel and equipment transforming ideas into printed communications. Her duties include transcribing dictation, scheduling appointments, answering correspondence, keeping records and files, relieving her employer of details, and acting as confidential assistant. Competently performing all of these tasks, she is the last word in business efficiency.

Now a new type of dictating equipment is enhancing her key position. IBM "Executory" dictation systems make it easy to transform the spoken word into a concise, written message.

How many words can you compile from the letters in the word "secretary"? Try it for 15 minutes, then consult the bottom of this column—printed upside down—to determine how you rate.

A score of 20 or above is excellent, 17 good, 14 average, ten or less poor. Try matching your skills with those of friends and relatives. Together you can decide whether or not to permit use of a dictionary. You'll find that the more games like this you play, the higher your score will be.

Among the short words found in the letters that make up "secretary" are:

Seiberling HIGHWAY SERVICE

Multi-Mile SUPER HIGHWAY

Toyo

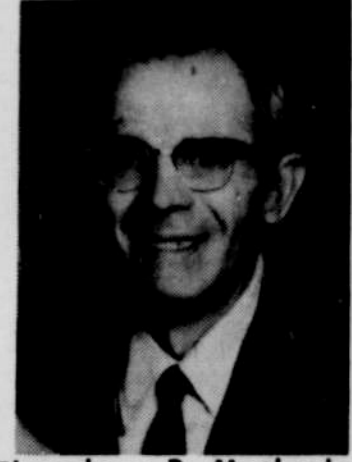

Seiberling COMMUTER
