

Hunters Reminded That Fire Danger Still Exists

John McKean, state game director, advised hunters today that the hot weather since early October has dried out much of the state's forests and rangelands, increasing the fire danger, and urged all outdoor users to be especially careful with camp and warming fires.

"The director said that no hunter-caused forest or range fires have been reported to him but that camp and warming fires have been found burning in the field or left unattended at camp. Reports have also been received of warming fires being built in locations where no fire should be started. He warned hunters to be sure and extinguish all fires before leaving camp to hunt or when they leave their hunting stands.

"He also requested all conscientious outdoorsmen to continue their vigil against the "slob" hunter and to report immediately automobile license numbers and names, if possible, of individuals committing acts of vandalism, littering or game law violations. McKean said that no true sportsman can condone misconduct afield and that constant vigilance is necessary on the part of everyone in order to eliminate this undesirable element from the hunter's ranks.

McKean added that 23 firearms accidents -- two fatal -- have occurred so far this year, most of which have been the result of carelessness or mishandling of shotgun, rifle, or pistol. He said that in this regard the hunter is actually his own worst enemy, either shooting himself or, at very close range, his hunting companion. Most accidents, he said, occur in camp or around motor vehicles. He urged all hunters to abide strictly by the ten commandments of firearms safety to eliminate such unnecessary and tragic accidents.

Adrian Schools Invite Parents For American Education Week

"Help Schools Bridge The Gap" between young people and adults, between Americans of different color and point of view, between rich and poor and between promise and performance. In a nation that speaks of inalienable rights, the right to learn must be paramount. Yet enormous gaps must be bridged before that right becomes a reality.

American Education Week, held annually since 1921, is sponsored by the National Education Association, the American Legion, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the U.S. Office of Education. The week of October 24 through 30 is American Education Week this year.

The Adrian Elementary School students are busy making posters to advertise American Education Week. These posters will be judged and awards will be presented to nine students. The winning posters will also be on display in downtown Adrian.

Plan now to visit our schools between October 26 and 29. The students and teachers are looking forward to lots of company. Many activities are being planned by the individual rooms. Grandparents' Day is scheduled for Wednesday, October 27. Come and make your grandchild happy.

Our PTA will have its meeting on Thursday, October 28. We will have open house during the time when you may come and visit in the school rooms.

Bulldogs Lose First Game

Costly penalties and fumbles at crucial times knocked Nyssa out of the unbeaten ranks Friday night as the Bulldogs lost their first game of the season after winning six straight. Grant Union High School of John Day turned the trick with a 24-6 win over the Bulldogs.

The Bulldogs won every place but on the scoreboard as they outgained John Day 321 yards to 223, but tumbled five times and lost all five, and that told the story.

John Day scored in each of the first three quarters. In the first quarter Catron ran from the one yard line, after recovering a Nyssa fumble on the 10, then passed to Wiley for the two-pointer and the Prospector's led 8-0.

Halfback Greg Eddy, who ran well all evening, ran 29 yards for the second John Day touchdown in the second quarter. He then took a pass from Catron for the conversion and Nyssa was behind 16-0 at halftime.

The Catron brothers ganged up on the Bulldogs in the third quarter with a 12-yard scoring pass from Ken to split end Clinton Catron, the conversion was good with a pass from Catron to Eddy, and John Day was ahead 24-0.

Nyssa came to life in the fourth quarter with Ron Moffis and Darr Haney doing much of the running on a long drive, and Rick Chester made the last yard good for six points. The conversion failed and the game ended 24-6.

Friday evening the Bulldogs travel to Weiser for a game that could settle the SRV championship. Weiser has come on strong in the last several games, and now has five wins.

Gas does what you tell it to do—right now! When you turn the thermostat up . . . presto! Immediate action. "Generating time" (a term generic to another type of energy) is unknown to fast-action natural gas. You'll receive the same instant response when the thermostat is turned down. That sort of performance is worth a lot if you're interested in controlled heat. And who isn't? It's a vital point, but only one of many advantages a natural gas heating system can bring to your home. Cleanliness is another. This civilized fuel is pollution-free. That's important to you, important to your neighbors. The versatility of gas is outstanding. For example: a single, compact unit can heat your house in winter, cool it in summer. Modern gas logs in your fireplace are remarkably realistic, more convenient, completely trouble-free. What's more, these and other multiple uses will combine to bring you important rate advantages—and savings.
