One of the "best cooks" I know asked me for this recipe after she tasted it a couple of weeks ago. I had eaten it at a party and liked it and the hostess graciously gave me the recipe. It's like a "chain letter" or we might say "by word of mouth". They travel at a terrific speed.

PINEAPPLE CHEESE FLUFF

2 pkgs lemon gelatine
1 1/2 cup boiling water
1 #2 can crushed pineapple, drained
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup cream, whipped
1 cup grated cheese
Dissolve gelatine in boiling water, add pineapple and sugar. Place in refrigerator until partially set. Fold in whipped cream and cheese and return to refrigerator and chill. Serves 8.

Another delightful dessert salad I've enjoyed is Tropical

TROPICAL ISLAND SALAD

2 pkgs orange gelatin
1 1/2 cups boiling water
1 6-oz. can orange juice concentrate
1 pint orange sherbet
1 cup sour cream
2 cups mandarin oranges, drained
1 cup pineapple tidbits, drained
2 bananas, cubed
Dissolve gelatin in hot water and cool. Stir in orange juice, sherbet and sour cream. When this mixture begins to thicken, fold in fruits. Pour into mold and place in refrigerator until set. Serves 12.

Snow-Capped Strawberry Pancakes

Come spring, --snow-capped mountains. Come breakfast, brunch, lunch, dinner --snow-capped strawberry pancakes.

Take your choice of meals! These feather-light pancakes are a special breakfast treat, perfect for Sunday or holiday brunch, filling enough for a luncheon main dish, and delicious as dessert with a not-too-heavy dinner.

There's nothing to mixing up the pancake batter --a blend of fresh buttermilk and pancake mix. Be sure to use a mix that does not already contain buttermilk.

In minutes, the pancakes are off the griddle. And they burst with that good old-fashioned buttermilk flavor of those grandma used to bake.

Surprise! That's not whipped cream in the filling and topping. It's tangy-flavored sour cream --fresh from the grocer's dairy section. This commercial sour cream is made from sweet cream which is pasteurized, homogenized, and inoculated with a special culture to give it a distinctive flavor.

What goes in the filling besides sour cream? Just strawberries and sugar. Fresh strawberries when in season, frozen strawberries other times.

And here's a hint when serving frozen fruit. Frozen fruit loses its characteristics when too completely defrosted. It's best to serve the fruit with some of the ice crystals still remaining.

SNOW-CAPPED STRAWBERRY PANCAKES

6-8 Servings
BUTTERMILK PANCAKES
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
2-1/4 cups buttermilk
1 egg
2 tbs. melted butter
2 cups pancake mix
Dissolve soda in buttermilk; add with unbeatened egg and butter to pancake mix, stirring lightly. Bake on hot, lightly greased griddle, turning only once. If thinner pancakes are desired, add 1/4 cup more buttermilk.

STRAWBERRY SOUR CREAM FILLING

2 cups sliced fresh or frozen strawberries sweetened
2 cups dairy sour cream
If using frozen berries, partially defrost, leaving some of the ice crystals in the berries. Add sour cream, stirring lightly and only enough to blend. Use as a filling between 2 pancakes and top with additional sour cream and strawberries.
TOPPING:
1 cup sliced fresh or frozen strawberries sweetened
1 cup dairy sour cream

Historical Society To Publish As "Forgotten Corner"

A design prepared by R.L. Beach of Pendleton, son of the Joe Beaches of Vale, was accepted last night for a letterhead on stationery and cover of a publication for Malheur Country Historical Society.

Winner of the contest for suggested publication titles was Mike Hanley, society president, who had suggested "The Forgotten Corner."

The program was presented by the Bureau of Land Management and consisted of an explanation of planning underway in the district and slides of various resources and historic spots.

Presenting the program were Bob Kindschy and Rob Currier of the BLM who asked that society members help them compile information on historic sites such as those shown in the slides.

They pointed to the Charbonneau gravesite dedication as a cooperative effort of many people and declared there is a serious need for such cooperation to further these projects.

Currier reported that Irving Anderson, Portland BLM official who worked on the Charbonneau project, had written the local office saying there is over $100 left in the Charbonneau fund and he suggested transfer of it from the Oregon Historical Society to the local society where it might be placed out on interest toward further development of the site, including the old fortified Inskip Station.

A barbecue to raise money for the society is scheduled June 10 at the Hanley Ranch just east of the town of Jordan Valley. The barbecue is planned for 3 p.m. Tickets will be on sale with the charge set at $2 for adults and $1 for children. Earl McCollum is ticket chairman.

Tentative plans were discussed for a flea market also in June to be staged probably in Ontario.

Secretary Mrs. Marion Goul announced there are 413 charter members in the historical society.

The next meeting is scheduled May 11, possibly at the courthouse in Vale.

The chairman pointed out that those who serve on the local service extension committee are all volunteering their time to help those in need. Coordinating their efforts with those Salvation Army officers, means that every dollar contributed is used for the maximum amount of direct aid.

The fact of inflation and the fact of people needing assistance for the first time in their lives has placed a double strain on resources of The Salvation Army, the chairman said.

He pointed out that even though a money contribution seems a routine thing, its results can be dramatic in terms of lives salvaged. Contribution for this area may be sent to:

BLM Officer Retires

Harold F. Herrin, administrative officer of the Vale District, Bureau of Land Management, for the past ten years, was honored at a farewell retirement party in the Victorian Room Saturday evening. Some 100 BLM employees and their spouses gathered for the occasion.

An ardent fisherman, Herrin was presented with an engraved tacklebox, an out of state fishing license for Montana and other gifts.

Herrin formally retired April 15 after more than 24 years of federal service. He came to the Vale District June 24, 1962 from the U. S. Forest Service at Lakeview where he had spent six years prior to that time.

His other federal service was with the Forest Service in Burns and Washington state. A number of years were spent in private employment in Washington, Idaho and Montana.

Herrin, with his wife Marjorie, plans to retire in Hamilton, Montana where he has purchased a small acreage and will open a public accounting office after a period of rest and enjoying the fishing and hunting opportunities afforded by the Hamilton area.

Western States Move To Help Dairy Program

Dairy farmers in Oregon, Washington and California have joined together to strengthen non-brand milk and dairy products promotion, it is announced by Ray Kozak, executive secretary of the Oregon Dairy Products Commission.

Kozak noted that all three states use the "Every Body Needs Milk" theme.

At a recent meeting in California, dairy farmer board members of the Oregon Dairy Products Commission, Washington Dairy Products Commission and the California Milk Advisory Board agreed on program plans which will utilize the services and talents of the individual advertising agencies of each state. Primary purpose of the cooperative effort of the three dairy organizations will be to share creative and production costs in the development of newspaper, television, radio, magazine, billboard and merchandising advertising materials.

"The end result would be a saving to each state in production and creative costs, with the sharing of a pool of materials available to all three states, financed by each on a pro-rata basis," Kozak said.

Kozak emphasized that each state commission will continue to maintain and direct individual in-state advertising and promotion.

"All Oregon dairy advertising will be supervised by the Oregon commission and will continue to be represented by Thummel, Marx and Associates, Portland advertising and public relations agency," Kozak said.
