Nancy was chosen on the basis of performance, ability and academic achievements.

The project brings students to the St. Paul campus of the University for four weeks in residence and intensive study with faculty from the department of music and members of the Minnesota Orchestra.

During that period students are engaged in band, orchestra and chorus rehearsals, concert performances, study of music theory and composition, and class lessons taught by principal players from the Minnesota Orchestra. Instrumentalists also perform alongside members of the Minnesota Orchestra, under the direction of Henry Charles Smith.

Golden Eagles Protected

A pair of golden eagles successfully reared two eaglets in a juniper tree nest which has been threatened by a road construction project in eastern Oregon, reports Douglas McVean, wildlife biologist for the Bureau of Land Management's Prineville District.

The eagle family left the nest in late June. It had been discovered in April during inspection of a proposed rock quarry site on BLM land near Hampton. To protect the eagles, initiation of planned work on U. S. Highway 20 was postponed until an alternate quarry site was located by officials of the Oregon State Highway Division, the Bureau of Land Management, and the road contractor, Robert Coates of Bend.

McVean said that it is unusual for eagles to nest in juniper trees. The tree the Hampton pair chose had sparse branches and was partly dead.

Swedish Girl Visits Nyssa

Carol Greig, a Nyssa girl who was among five girls to represent the U. S. last summer at the Girl Scout Jamboree in Greenland, met Barbaro Wryberg of Sweden there. They became good friends and decided to come to the United States this summer to see the "old fashioned west." She arrived June 30 to spend four days with the Greig family.

On July 3, the Nyssa Cadets and Senior Girl Scouts, along with Scout leaders met at the Wilton Jackson home for a reception honoring Barbaro. She tried to encourage girls to stay in Girl Scouting and take advantage of the opportunities offered around the world.

Among the places Carol Greig took Barbaro were the State Historical Museum, the Idaho Capital, where Girl and Boy Scouts are giving tours this summer. At McCall she had a chance to see the Girl Scout Camp, Alice Pittinger. Hell's Canyon was another highlight of her trip.

The Greigs' had a barbecue at their home one evening. Barbaro viewed her first rodeo at Vale and enjoyed a picnic at Owyhee Dam. They visited the mining town of Idaho City, July 3, before Barbaro returned to Sweden.

Carol Greig returned to college where she will be among the first class graduating with a Master's Degree in Elementary P. E. She is a member of the ACTION program which is similar to the Peace Corp.
