Concrete Solution Found for Fly Ash

Fly ash, a residue produced by the burning of finely pulverized coal in large power plants, is now collected by means of electrostatic precipitators, and is being used as a cement extender in ready mix-concrete and concrete block.

A year-long program involving the removal, classification and sale by AMAX Fly Ash Corporation, Atlanta, Ga., from the Georgia Power Company has demonstrated how fly ash can be profitably utilized.

During the first year more than 60,000 tons of fly ash were recovered and shipped. According to the AMAX spokesman the addition of fly ash "produces a stronger and more durable and impermeable concrete product. Further it reduces raw material costs."
