GRANGE NEWS

Members and guests of Oregon Trail Grange met Thursday evening, September 21, for a potluck dinner which preceded a Booster Night program. Tables were decorated with fall flower arrangements and green candles. One unusual arrangement was provided by Loyd and Iva Adams and consisted of pear blossoms and a little green pear from their tree which was also yielding ripe pears.

Officers were seated by Assistant Stewards Mr. and Mrs. Don Somers. A welcome was given by Master Ernie Metcalf who explained some of the aims of the Grange. As part of Lecturer's program, each officer was asked to give a short summary of the duties of his office.

Legislative Chairman Frank Sherwood reported on packing house standards. Astrid Stephen told of the difficulties of mailing a letter in Canada and urged members to be thankful for the adequate mail service in the U. S. A. James Stephen reported on some of the investigations being conducted by Ralph Nader.

Grange Insurance Agent Wilbur Atherton reviewed the part that the Grange Insurance Companies play in the welfare of the grange. The first agency was established in Washington State in 1893. In 1908, the salary for the President of the Company was $25 a year. In 1970 the insurance was sold to members in seven states.

Lecturer Marguerite Moss introduced Sandy Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Thomas, who gave a humorous reading entitled "Husbands."

Visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Atherton and Mrs. Lula Noah of Boulevard Grange, Sandy and Rick Thomas and Gail Cleaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Cleaver.

Grange women were reminded of the first Club meeting of the season to be held Tuesday, October 3, 2 p.m., at the home of Sadie Metcalf with Mildred Sisson as co-hostess. Election of officers will be held. The next regular grange meeting will be held Thursday, October 5, 8:30 p.m. Election of officers will also be held at this meeting. All members are urged to be present.

PREVIEW RACE OF PRESIDENTIAL RACE

A preview of the presidential race between Richard M. Nixon and George S. McGovern takes place in downtown Portland this Wednesday (September 27) at noon.

Giving Oregonians a sneak preview of what to expect on November 7, the race will be between two 350-pound hogs, one wearing the Nixon "racing colors" and the other McGovern's.

The unusual contest will begin shortly after noon from a starting point of Broadway and Morrison. The tongue-in-cheek race is the kickoff event for this year's Landmark of Quality Week, the annual tribute to Oregon food products.

Following the race will be a pig scramble on Morrison

Street between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. Four teams of contestants vying for pork product prizes will be from Waverly Childrens Home, Volunteers of American Home, Childrens Farm Home, and St. Mary's Home for Boys. They'll tangle with 35-45 pound pigs.

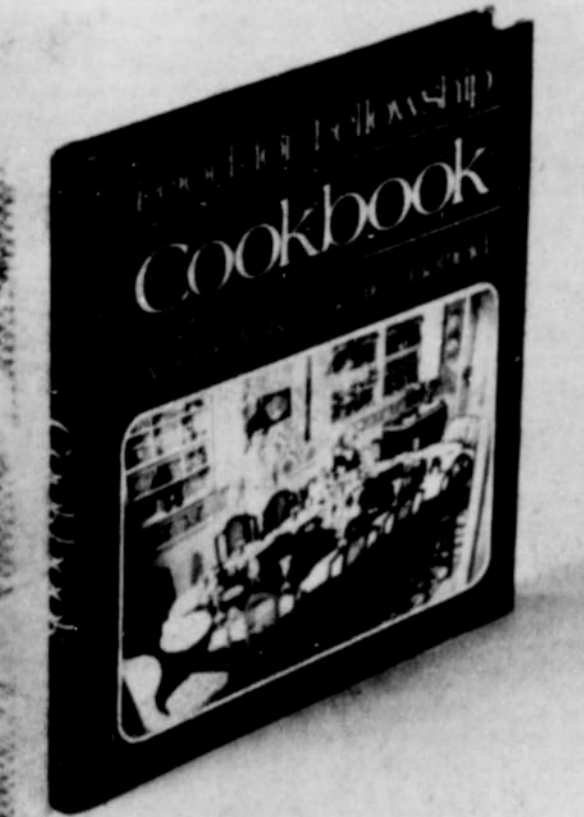

With some 2,246 farms in Oregon raising hogs, representing $9 million in sales at the wholesale level, it's an important segment of the state's economy. Stafford Hansell, vice president of the Agri-Business Council, Oregon's largest hog rancher, and chairman of the powerful Joint Ways & Means Committee of the Oregon legislature will present prizes to the winners.

FOOD FOR FELLOWSHIP COOK BOOK

In her new book FOOD FOR FELLOWSHIP COOKBOOK Antoinette Kusmanich Hatfield, who has entertained in a governor's and senator's home and hosted two U. S. President's wives, shares her "secrets" of group entertaining. In 140 illustrated pages the wife of Oregon Senator Mark O. Hatfield tells how to make the most out of social activities, especially in the church.

Aware of the alienation that is present in many churches and families, Antoinette writes in the introduction to the book, "Fellowship in the early Church meant getting together for the purpose of sharing and sustaining each other... Today we seem to have become so formalized in our worship that sometimes we wonder if the fellowship which sustained the early Church has been lost."

Her book contains many tips on the creative use of food in bringing people together and helping them to share with one another.

Her latest book, FOOD FOR FELLOWSHIP, arranged in 24 "around-the-clock" sections, is for both the gourmet cook and the beginner. Sections cover every situation from snacks for pre-schoolers in Sunday school to the wedding dinner. Suggestions on how to use a particular event or activity meaningfully are included along with menus and recipes geared for medium and large groups and tips on how to organize food preparation for maximum enjoyment of all participants. Table arrangements and instructions on how to set up an effective buffet are included with suggestions on when to use them. Recipes are indexed.
