

Buick's all-new intermediate line for 1973 is represented here by the luxurious Regal coupe (top) and the Century Lux Colonnade hardtop sedan. The Rega styling is enhanced by a crisp, formal roof and uniquely-styled quarter window that provide it a complete identity of its own. The Century Lux sedan has three side windows for better visibility. The entire Century line features an unprecedented number of new body and chassis features and a cockpit-styled instrument panel which permits easier servicing.

Potato Growers Advised On Labeling Seed Potatoes

If you market seed potatoes, the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends that you familiarize yourself with the new U.S. grade standards for seed potatoes to avoid mislabeling.

Use of the new grade standards is voluntary, but if seed potatoes are marked as to grade the labeling must be accurate.

USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service, which administers the Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act, says seed potatoes packed in bags labeled "U.S. No. 1" and failing to meet the higher requirements of the U.S. grade standards for table-stock potatoes, will be considered as mislabeled under the Federal law. Simply attaching tags to show the potatoes are of seed grade will not correct this.

The new grade standards for seed potatoes went into effect in April. AMS points out that the grade was intended for seed potatoes, not those for table use. The seed potatoes packed under this grade should be in bags labeled, "U.S. No. 1 Seed" or "U.S. No. 1 Seed Potatoes," or be unmarked as to grade.

Under the new grade standard, seed potatoes can have more of certain defects than table potatoes. In the past, most seed potatoes were shipped under State seed grades that required the potatoes to meet U.S. No. 1 table requirements. These seed potatoes were generally shipped in bags marked U.S. No. 1, with State certified tags attached. If diverted from seed to table use, the potatoes would meet U.S. No. 1 quality standards for table potatoes.

Most seed tags now in use contain the marking, "U.S. No. 1," as a separate, distinct item. If these tags are used on U.S. No. 1 seed grade potatoes, AMS warns, it will be considered a misrepresentation, unless the potatoes also meet the higher requirements of the U.S. No. 1 table grade. The tags should be redesigned to show U.S. No. 1 SEED (or U.S. No. 1 SEED POTATOES) in one word group of the same size printing if they are to be used for the U.S. No. 1 seed grade.

When potatoes are marked as to grade, the labeling as to grade must be accurate, as required by the PAC Act. Other Federal and State laws require the name and address of the packer or distributor, the product, and the net weight of the contents to be shown.

Free copies of each of the grade standards - "U.S. Standards for Grades of Seed Potatoes" and "U.S. Standards for Grades of Potatoes" (table stock) - may be obtained from the Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Home Owners Can Save On Home Heating Bills

Homeowners who want to keep their home heating bills to a minimum can do so if they will follow an 11-point program outlined by Len Gassner, Executive Director Oil Heat Institute of Oregon.

Gassner suggests that the homeowner should:

1. Before retiring at night, set the thermostat about 7 degrees below the daytime setting. Over a heating season this will save a considerable amount of fuel.
2. Turn the thermostat down during the day when no one is home.
3. Close off the radiators or registers in rooms which are being aired. Do the same with unused rooms. Be sure to close the door, of course.
4. Be certain your attic is closed off. Remember, heated air rises.
5. When you open the bedroom windows at night, close the door of the room to keep the rest of the house warm.
6. Have your heating system checked once a year to be sure it is operating at peak efficiency.
7. Do not locate furniture, rugs, draperies, etc. where they can block or cover the flow of heat from radiators, convectors or diffusers. Such objects interfere with heat circulation and distribution.
8. Repair or replace leaky hot water faucets. When using hot water, turn the cold water on first, then slowly open the hot water faucet until the desired temperature is reached. This will save considerable amounts of hot water.
9. Weatherstripping and caulking of joints and seams at windows and doors can save much fuel. Storm windows and doors and adequate insulation are fuel savers, too.
10. On warm air heating systems, replace the air filters at least once each year and clean filters frequently. This will prevent reduction of the amount of heated air delivered to the rooms.
11. If you have a hot water or steam heating system, check to be sure the water in the boiler is free of dirt and grease. Radiators should be checked and vented from time to time so that air collected in them will not prevent hot water from flowing freely.

Navy Seeks Petty Officers

The Navy has announced a new move designed to let proven high performance ex-Petty Officers, who have been discharged up to four years, reenlist in the same pay grade they held at time of discharge.

By doubling the amount of time from two to four years, which a former Navy Petty Officer who held a "critical Skill," or who's old rate is now considered "critical," has to reenlist without losing his former pay grade, the Navy hopes to attract the valuable, highly trained and proven performer back on active duty. Of utmost importance to these men is the fact that their old rate or "skill," held while in service, could now be on the list of "critical Skills" that are so urgently needed by the Navy due to rapidly changing national priorities.
