"DO YOU HAVE ANY GOOD NEWS?"

Women Should Plan For The Unexpected

Every year many women become widows and suddenly find that they really don't know anything about their own financial affairs.

The reason is that husbands commonly take care of all major financial matters and all too seldom does a couple sit down together and discuss what might happen if the man should die first. Talking about death is not a subject that is brought up at home very easily.

"Since there are statistically four widows for every widower, the importance of a husband thoroughly briefing his wife on their family financial situation can't be overstressed," advises Kent Stoner, Regional Manager for the Allstate Life Insurance Company.

Here are some things every wife should know:

- *The location and provisions of all life and health insurance policies, including employe group coverage.
- *The location of all bank accounts, securities, cash, safe deposit boxes, and valuables.

Seasonal Workers To Meet on Migrant Health Program Policy

A public meeting for Malheur County seasonal farm workers will be held at 8:30 p.m. Sunday, October 8 at the Nyssa Resource Center to explain about the formation of a Migrant Health Program Policy Board.

Eight seasonal farm workers are to be elected to a 13 member Policy Board which will be responsible for determining what kind of migrant health services are to be provided with federal funds.

The other five members on the board are to be appointed by the State Department of Human Resources from names suggested by Malheur County governmental and other interested groups.

Election of the eight seasonal farm workers will be held November 3. Polling stations will be located at Nyssa, Vale, Ontario, Oregon Slope and Adrian.

Persons will be nominated by petitions signed by ten seasonal workers. Nominating petitions will be passed out at the October meeting.

The election procedures are being supervised by a Steering Committee composed by individuals representing five local organizations.

They are Mrs. Lula Martinez, Nyssa, chairman of Nyssa Mothers for Self-Help-Inc.; Larry Silveira, Nyssa, director of Nyssa Resource Center; Mary Waksugi, Weiser, member of Malheur County Comprehensive Health Planning Committee; Karen Nelson, Vale, registered nurse with Malheur County Health Department and Richard Mejia, Nyssa, chairman of Treasure Valley United Action Committee.

Roy Ranga, Nyssa, Resource Center is serving as coordinator for the steering committee.

Fred G. Meyer Named Retailer

Fred G. Meyer, chairman of the board of Fred Meyer, Inc., has been selected Oregon's first Retailer of the Year.

The pioneer retail merchant, who now heads a four-state organization of supermarkets, was selected from among candidates submitted to the sponsoring Oregon Retail Council by Chambers of Commerce throughout the state. He was honored at the announcement of his selection by ORC Pres. Lawrence Winthrop.

The announcement came during the Friday (Sept. 22) banquet at the annual convention of Associated Oregon Industries and the Oregon Retail Council at Sunriver.

First runner-up was Ben Tsukamaki, partner in the Ontario Market in Ontario, and second runner-up was Esther Ferguson, partner in Nancy's Apparel in Albany.

Judges were State Treasurer Robert Straub, Hillman Lueddemann, Director of the State Department of Commerce, and Murray McBride, Portland marketing consultant and member of the board of Sales and Marketing Executives International.

Bill Passed Congress For Burns Indian

The U.S. House of Representatives, passing a bill sponsored by Congressman Al Ullman, took the first step Tuesday toward the creation of a small, new Indian reservation in Oregon.

By a voice vote the House passed Ullman's bill putting 760 acres in trust for the Paiute Indian Colony near Burns in Harney County.

Although the federal government first set aside some land for the Paiute Indians in the Burns area just over 100 years ago, Ullman said, the colony has never had reservation status with specific land rights. Placing land "in trust" for the Indians means, in effect, the creation of a new reservation, Ullman explained.

Because the Indians have never had reservation status, Ullman said, they have been barred from participation in federal housing, employment and development programs which other tribes have been able to utilize.

He said that up until now the Burns Indian people, while maintaining their homes in a commendable manner, have been reluctant to make extensive improvements because of the loose, temporary legal status of the land.

The colony has also been unable to make any offers to business and industry because the unclear land status prevented the Indians from making any long-term leases.

This has also prevented the city of Burns from undertaking employment and development programs involving Indian property, Ullman said.

Every year I stuff peppers and put them in my freezer for future use! So handy to have on hand.

Green peppers are beautiful this fall and some are so large they may be divided for two servings.

The recipe I used for the filling of the peppers is extra good and easily assembled. I chopped the onions and celery in the blender and the rest is a breeze.

Green peppers may be frozen without blanching. They're the exception to the rule that all vegetables must be blanched before freezing.

STUFFED PEPPERS
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
2 tsp. oil
1 lb. lean ground meat
1/2 cup rice (minute)
1 small can tomato sauce
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. chili powder
6 green peppers
1/2 cup grated cheese

Cook onion and celery in oil in fry pan. Add meat and brown slightly. Add rice, salt, chili powder and tomato sauce. Cover and cook 15 minutes. Pare peppers by cutting off top and removing seeds. Parboil in salted water for 10 minutes;

GRASSHOPPER PIE
Filling:
18 marshmallows
1/2 cup milk
3 tablespoons creme de menthe syrup (green)
1 tsp peppermint flavoring
1 cup cream, whipped
Chocolate shot

Place marshmallows and milk in saucepan and heat on medium heat until marshmallows melt. Cool. Add creme de menthe, peppermint and whipped cream. Pour into chocolate pie shell and sprinkle with chocolate shot.

Crust:
1 1/2 cups chocolate cookie crumbs or 20 cream filled chocolate cookies, crushed
1/2 cup melted butter
Combine, pat into a 9 inch pie pan and refrigerate.

Free Wilderness Permits Needed In National Forests

The free permit system that was started this year for visitors to Wilderness areas within the National Forests will continue year around, the U.S. Forest Service reports.

Hunters, ski touring parties and others who visit Wilderness in the fall and winter are reminded to obtain a permit before their trips. Permits may be obtained by mail or in person from any Forest Service office in Washington and Oregon. With the coming of fall, National Forest and Ranger District offices frequently will open only five days a week, and some guard stations where permits have been issued in summer will be closed.

Wilderness users are to be complimented on their cooperation with the Wilderness permit system put into effect this year for National Forest Wilderness in Oregon and Washington, said Regional Forester Theodore A. Schlapfer.

There are 14 Wilderness areas in the National Forests of Oregon and Washington that are part of the National Wilderness Preservation System.

More than 70 percent of Wilderness visitors have voluntarily applied for the free permits. "This is remarkable," Schlapfer said, "considering that the permit system is new and that Wilderness visitors come from all over the Nation."

The permit system has given Forest officers a chance to talk with visitors about Wilderness management and to suggest places to go in Wilderness that are less congested.

Permits will be tabulated and analyzed this winter to provide information about where visitors come from, where they go, size of groups, number of visitors, numbers of hikers and horsemen, and other information needed to plan effective Wilderness administration.

Reasons that Colleges for Oregon's Future gives for opposing the proposed constitutional amendment which would prohibit the use of property taxes for schools are:

1. The measure offers no alternate for the funds that would be lost.

2. Certain referral and almost certain defeat would face any plan the Legislature might enact to substitute for the lost funds.

3. Irreparable harm would be done "to our public schools and our community colleges."

4. A "certain consequence" would be loss of millions of dollars of state funds for higher education and would do great harm to public colleges and universities.

5. Increased tuition and fees would place additional burdens upon students and their families.

6. The level of "educational and occupational training opportunity--our best investment in the future--would be tragically diminished for Oregonians."

The resolution also urges Oregonians "to commit themselves to striving for a constructive and responsible program of tax reform that will not destroy our educational future."
