

THIS NEW EQUESTRIAN CENTER AT Oregon State University, Corvallis, will be dedicated on October 21, during Horse Appreciation Week.

New Horse Center At OSU To Be Dedicated

Oregon State University's new $450,000 Horse Center will be dedicated Saturday, Oct. 21, during the 17th annual OSU Horsemen's short course.

The center includes a horse barn, research laboratory, feed storage building and an arena. It is anticipated that a building for OSU's vocational farrier's school (horse shoeing) and a stud barn will be added.

The two-day short course, sponsored by the Oregon Horseman's Association and the OSU Department of Animal Science, will open at 9 a.m. in Withycombe Hall. Fee for the course will be $10.

Dr. Scott Jackson, Chino, Calif., chairman of the equine division of the Morris Foundation, will lecture on disease problems of light horses. Dr. Larry Slade, who heads the horse teaching and research program at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, will discuss light horse feeding and nutrition.

Student clubs will serve lunch at the Horse Center, off NW Harrison Boulevard and NW 53rd Avenue, where dedication ceremonies open to the public will begin at 1:30 p.m. Speakers will include Tom Hartung, Washington County Senator; Richard Wagner, president of the Oregon Horseman's Association, Oregon City; and OSU President Robert MacVicar.

Animal science department staff will lead tours of the horse barn which can house 48 horses and equipment; the arena, which includes a 100x200-foot riding area; and other facilities.

At 2:30, the short course will resume when C. Clell Laird, Coos Bay horse trainer, will discuss the training of Western pleasure and trail horses. Lee McDaniel, who heads the farrier school, will join the speakers for a panel discussion on horse problems, research and equipment.

After a no-host dinner, a horse show will be presented at 7 p.m. at the Horse Center Arena. Admission will be charged.

The course will continue on Sunday with a judging demonstration at 9 a.m. at the Horse Center. Judges will be Laird, quarter horse; Phillip Morrison, Grants Pass, Morgan and pony; and Robert Martin, Hillsboro, Arabian.

The judges will review results of the previous night's horse show. After lunch at the

Studded Tires OK October 13

The Highway Commission, taking cognizance of possible weather conditions in Eastern Oregon, has this date approved installation of studded tires on vehicles.

The law states that such tires are legal from November 1 through April 30, but in the interest of safety, the Commission has extended this time to start on October 13. No change is anticipated in the date on which the law specifies the tires must be removed next spring.

Tom Edwards, state highway engineer, said the Highway Division has been studying the effects of studded tires on assorted state highway surfaces under varying weather conditions.

The reports are so far inconclusive but studies are continuing, he said. Edwards noted that the Province of Ontario and the states of Minnesota, Utah, Louisiana and Mississippi do not permit the use of studded tires.

Seasonal Workers Meeting October 22

A meeting for seasonal farmworkers in the areas of Vale, Ontario and Oregon Slope will be held at 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22, in May Roberts School, Ontario.

It will be the third in a series of informational sessions to explain how seasonal farmworkers can be elected to the policy-making board that is to determine what kind of migrant health services are going to be provided in Malheur County with federal funds.

The election will take place Nov. 3. Five polling stations are to be located in farm labor camps near Vale, Ontario, Oregon Slope, Nyssa and Adrian.

Candidates are nominated through the signing of a petition by 10 persons from the seasonal farmwork communities. Eight will be elected to the policy board. Five other members will be appointed by the State Department of Human Resources from a list of names submitted by Malheur County organizations.

Nominating petition forms will be distributed at the public meeting Sunday.

The election proceeding is being supervised by a local steering committee for which Roy Ranga, staff member at the Nyssa Resource Center, is serving as coordinator.

Meetings Planned To Discuss Formation of Health Board

Four meetings are scheduled in order to explain why and how there will be an election November 3 so that Malheur County seasonal farmworkers may choose eight persons for a health program policy board.

Evening informational meetings will be held at the following locations:

Vale Labor Camp - Wednesday, October 18, 1972 at 8:30 p.m.

Adrian Labor Camp - Thursday, October 19, 1972 at 8:30 p.m.

May Roberts School (Ontario) Sunday, October 22, 1972 at 6:30 p.m.

Ontario Labor Camp (Oregon Slope) Tuesday, October 24, 1972 at 8:30 p.m.

Members of a local steering committee will explain the need to form a policy board which will have the responsibility for determining what kind of migrant health services are to be provided in Malheur County with Federal funds.

It is hoped that seasonal farmworkers will attend the meetings in their vicinity.

Candidates for the policy board are to be nominated by the signatures of ten persons on petition forms that will be distributed at the public meetings.

Ballots Mailed For BLM Advisory Board

Ballots to elect livestock representatives to the Advisory Board of the Vale District, Bureau of Land Management, were mailed this week to qualified licensees, according to George R. Gurr, district manager.

Gurr said this year's advisory board elections had resulted in a larger than usual number of nominees, but several individuals did not accept.

Nominees to the advisory board from the Northern Resource Area precinct are Robert Bundgaard and Richard Russell, both of Vale, John Coleman, Harper, Pete Joyce, Juntura, Kenneth E. Thayer, Ontario, and Dudley D. Williams, Harper, in the Central Resource Area precinct Domingo Urquiga is unopposed, and nominees for the Southern Resource Area precinct are John Nogue, McDermitt, and Thomas Dowell, Princeton.

All ballots must be returned to the Vale District office on or before October 24, 1972. Ballots will then be counted and certified and the election results announced, Gurr concluded.

Just one of many reasons for the swing to fall fertilizing — and you can do it all in the fall; get a big jump on spring work.

Remember last spring? In many areas, planting was way late and some farmers didn't get any fertilizer spread.

You're sure of getting on the fertilizer you need if you apply it in the fall. Weather is generally better, ground is firmer, spreading goes faster, takes less power. Less soil compaction, too.

With all your fertilizer safely underground, you can take advantage of extra-yield practices. You can go to narrow rows since side-dressing with nitrogen won't be necessary, use any system of minimum tillage, plant earlier.

Let's talk it over. The coffee is on us.
